

To guide each individual to wholesome, wellrounded living

The 1942 Rosennial tells the story behind this challenge of New Castle High School in New Castle, Indiana . . . the Rose City.

A year and a challenge

Each day as we enter these doors, we are met by the challenge of our nation, as well as that of our school: a challenge to meet the day and the age with wholesome and well-rounded living.

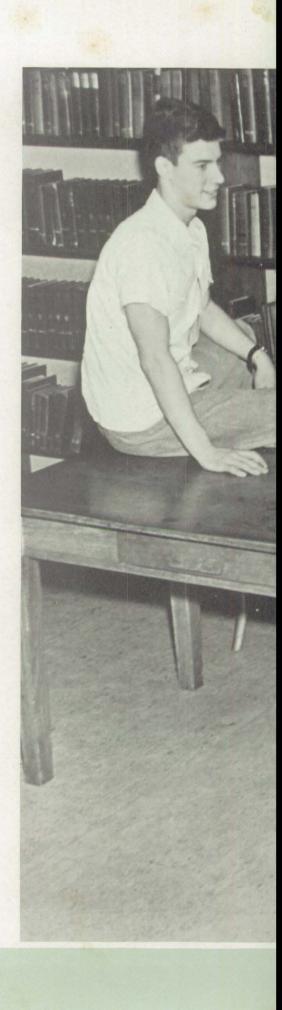

Behind the Challenge

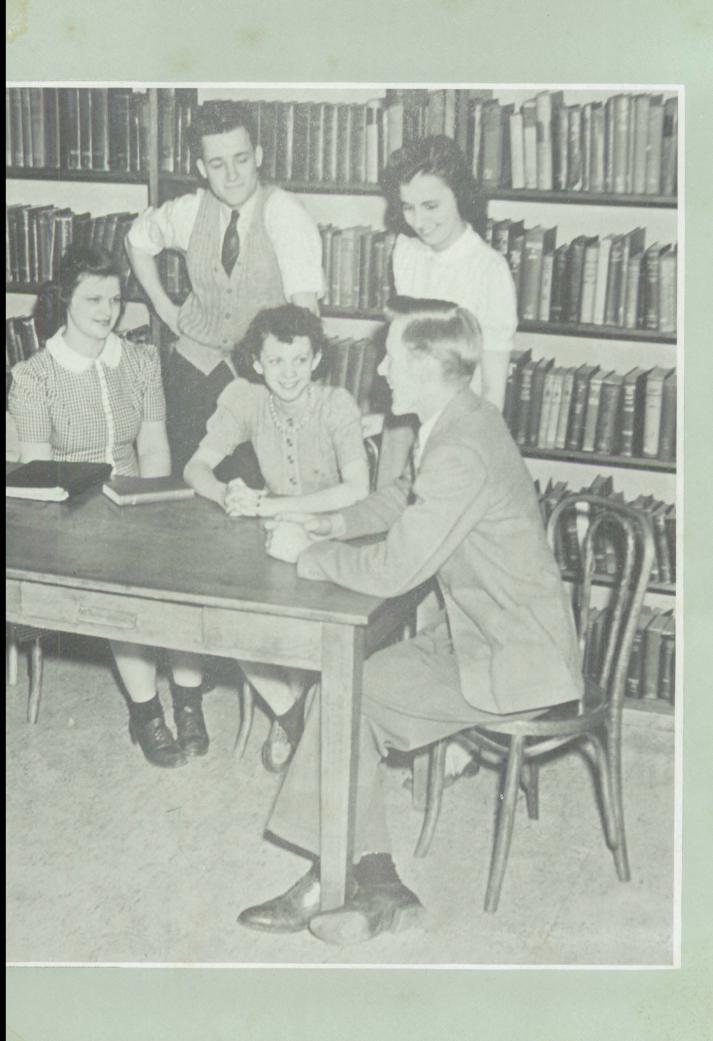

To what benefit is an education if it can not be applied to one's living? What does one reap from an education that is wholly from a book? How can the brilliancy of one be determined if he has a knowledge of only one of the many fields of life?

With these questions confronting him, Mr. J. R. Mitchell, our principal, created a new challenge — a challenge to each and every individual to participate in varied activities offered in our school.

This challenge has not only encouraged us to increase the number of activities in our school, but it has spurred us on to become leaders in these organizations.

Meeting the Challenge

The More Activities -The More Leaders

An activity for every student and a student for every activity is the goal of all leaders in our school. Keeping the students' programs well-balanced with participation in varied activities fulfills this goal.

Fulfilling the Challenge

The Better Training -The Better Student

Developing abilities is the purpose of all education. From industrial arts to fine arts, students are taught to realize the importance of self-improvement through the development of their own particular talents.

Answering the Challenge

We Learn the Duties and Values of Democratic Living

This is no year for idle thoughts. Our day dreams now have a purpose — saving democracy! No longer is the library a place where a student can dream away his hours. Today he must prepare himself mentally to meet tomorrow the challenge of a changing world.

Among the faculty members the student finds for himself not only teachers, but also individuals with whom he can easily make friends.

Our Superintendent Speaks

I learned in the hills of Switzerland (County) a long time ago that the individual who was fair, square, and sympathetic, who worked hard, and had a fair sense of humor realized much more out of life than any other person I had ever observed. Since that time, I have concluded that friendliness should be added to the important traits of my ideal man from Switzerland. You will be remembered longer because of your friendly smile, pleasant greeting, and cheerful attitude toward life than for any other qualifications I know.

Apparently a few people are born with these traits. The great majority of us — that includes you and me — must carefully and deliberately — over many months and years plant and cultivate these characteristics. We must practice them for a long time if we want them to become a part of our general make-up — our character. "For what you are to become you are practicing now."

High school is a good place to develop within yourself some of the characteristics you admire in others. There are so many opportunities to put into practice your resolutions. Try it sometime for a week, and then repeat it for another week. You will be surprised at the results.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

George M. Field, President Joseph G. Burris, Secretary Karl C. Vogel, Treasurer

To Seniors of 1942:

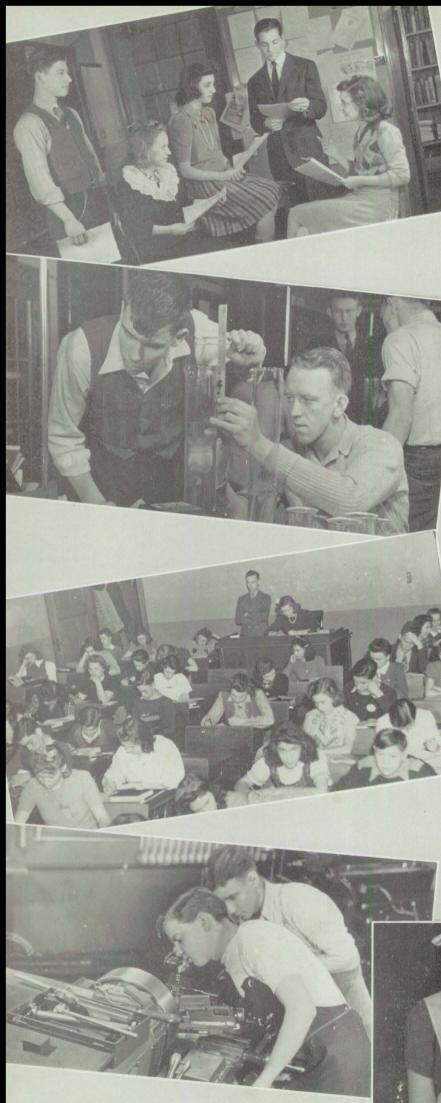

In a few days you will be classed with the privileged minority, the high school graduates. That day will not mark the close of a period of your life, but a beginning — the commencement of real life and real responsibilities.

As high school graduates you will be expected to be a little different. You will be expected to possess a little more information; to have a little better manners; to be better poised; to think a little more soundly; and to have your horizon lifted just a little higher. Your experience in high school will have built into you higher aspirations, higher ideals, deeper appreciations, and more wholesome attitudes.

It will be easy to go back into the crowd and be lost in it. It will be easy to float with the current or to be driven by the wind. But you will not permit this to happen to you, for your four years of study, research, and laboratory work have taught you to think independently, to judge objectively, and to reason methodically. These are marks of distinction of the high school graduate.

But you have only started to grow. You have just completed the foundation for your life structure. Some of you will perhaps feel that after these long years of preparation it is time for an intellectual holiday — that you deserve a rest. That is the danger! It will be easy to slip into careless, lazy, indifferent, easy-going thinking. Let me suggest that you continue to cultivate and practice selfdiscipline in thinking. Establish as a part of yourself the desire for continued study, observation and search for truth. Life then to you will be one interesting challenge after another. Determine to do something constructive each day. Make up your mind to be actively interested in your community's welfare - shoulder early responsibilities of citizenship.

> Cordially yours, J. R. MITCHELL

From Dante

So varied is the scope of the curriculum in our school that we travel from the exactitudes of scientific research to the tripping of the light fantastic from the intricacies of the machine shop to the tragedy and humor of drama. Each student has an opportunity to find a field for the development of his interests and talents. Whether it be in cooking, drafting, music, or athletics, the teacher stands ever ready to guide him in his training for future life.

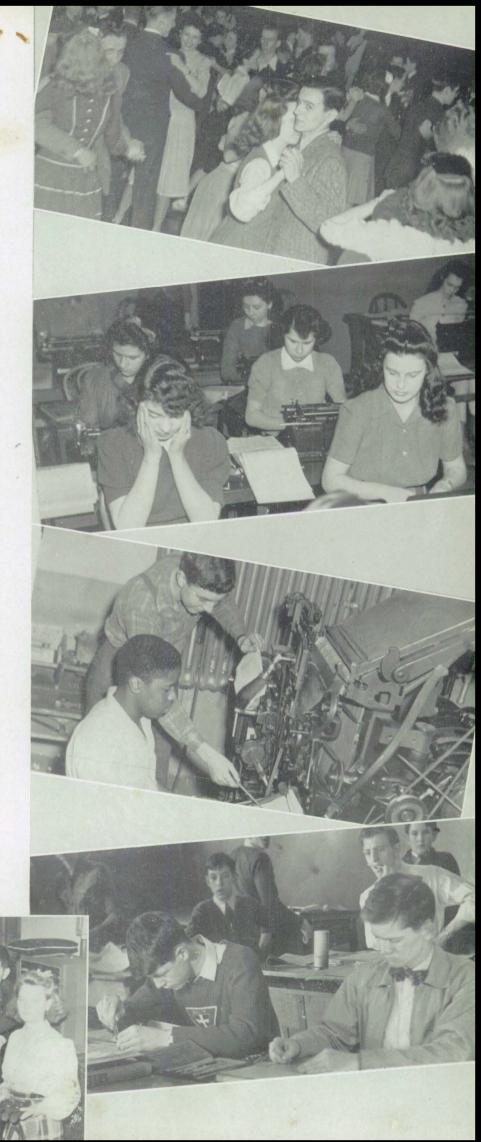

The student must learn to adapt himself to each period of the busy school day. He must forget yesterday's daydreams and devote his full attention to the ideas and information he is receiving today. Tomorrow may be too late to trouble with the basic knowledge he should have grasped in high school. Tomorrow he must be ready to delve further and deeper into far greater problems than he has ever faced before and to be prepared for this, he must take full advantage of the foundation his high school is able to give him.

Each day the student is confronted with designing his life's work. By parparticipating in the variety of subjects offered here, the student finds himself better prepared to meet the demands of the business and professional world. Now, more than ever, we realize the importance of being in readiness for living in post-war times.

Each student builds for himself a store of memories as he goes through the four years of his high school education. The first two years are based on preparation the last two on participation.

Seniors, Unlimited

As we seniors look forward to the close of school we pause, hesitantly, glancing backward not with remorse, but with regret, regret that four years can be so long and yet so short. If the school clocks could and would run time four years backward as swiftly as they have forward, very few would raise voice.

We have had four grand and glorious years. Each composed of many, many periods: very few dull — and many gay, — parades that turned heads; pep-sessions that really pepped; convocations that thrilled one and all; entertainment, plenty; dances, quite a few, with her and him, and your friends and mine. Then, just one more time for exams, the last for school and the first for the real school, life, where grades aren't given; but sustenance and freedom for the individual are the lush fruits of sweat and pain.

Two social affairs await: our last Prom and first Commencement. It's going to be an experience that you and I have been waiting for more than half our lifetime to happen, and now, it is here with a chest-filling pride that is yours only if you have earned it. You'll know if you have or have not; no one need tell you. Keep your chest high, eyes straight ahead, your feet on the ground and your head high in the clouds. Fasten your mind to your soul; take a deep breath and walk out into a world that needs you as it has never needed you before.

Yes, we realize that ours is not the first class to graduate ever within the shadow of world destruction, but don't fight shy of the work. We all realize that ours is the task to cleanse, rebuild, and teach a new world old, tried and true, faithful principles that a man is a man among men and under men. Ours is the coming generation with a challenging opportunity to preserve for posterity the individualism of unlimited democracy for all; red, black, yellow, and white unlimited.

So live and laugh, you Trojans, and the world will truly realize that the Trojans did not die in past ages, but do, and will continue to live on forever.

The greatest responsibility and the prime achievement of the Junior Class is the planning and effecting of a successful Junior Prom in honor of the seniors. Each junior has an equal opportunity to contribute his ideas or suggestions for his Prom to any of the class officers or to one of the committees appointed for this event. The Junior Prom is one of the most outstanding and looked-forward-to events in our school year.

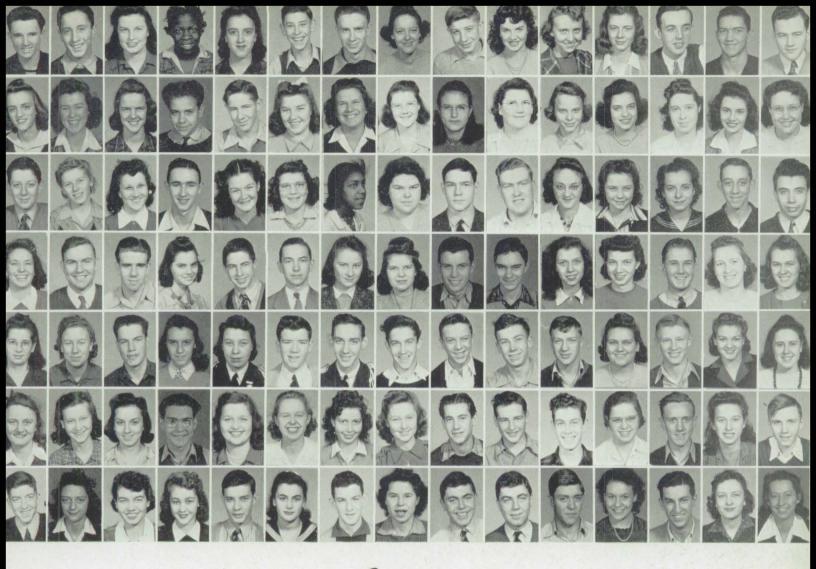

A junior has much with which to cope, for although he is considered an upperclassman by sophomores and freshmen, he still feels a little inferior to the dignified seniors. He has to prepare himself for the difficult senior year in which he must round up and complete his high school education. His first year as a freshman was taken lightly as he eccustomed himself to high school behavior. In his sophomore year he became very aware of his superiority over the freshmen but still he saw graduation a long way off - something not to be worried about until later. Now he is a junior and must begin to think seriously of what obstacles must be removed in order that a clear path toward graduation will be prepared by his senior year.

Membership in the National Honor Society is based upon leadership, scholarship, character, and service. The membership is limited to fifteen per cent of the 12A class, ten per cent of the 12B class, and five per cent of the 11A class.

Under the leadership of Miss Westhafer, the most important activity of the Honor Society is the sponsoring of the hall patrol system. Additional responsibilities are the ushering at convocations, and the compiling of the honor roll. This year the members collected news of the school which was of interest to the citizens of the city and submitted it to the New Castle paper.

Student Council

President Vice-President Secretary Treasurer

The Student Council is an organization made up of students elected in each home room to act as representatives for that group. Although the members haven't any authoritative power in the government of the school, they are often consulted for suggestions regarding the improvement of school and student relationship.

The faculty sponsor is Mr. Baughman, who sits in on their meetings and offers advice from a teacher's point of view. Among the numerous activities sponsored by the Student Council, is the decorating of the building at Christmas time; planning school parties; and sponsoring pep meetings. This year the Council sponsored the buying of a phonograph and a portable public address system to be used at our mixers and convocations.

Phoenix Staff

Those students who believe they might someday like to become journalists enroll in the beginning Journalism classes which are taught by Mr. Greenstreet. In these classes they learn the fundamentals of newspaper writing, and are permitted to arrange and print one copy of the Phoenix themselves. During this first semester they are known as the Baby Staff. If the student is still interested and desires to go on with this course, he enrolls in the advanced Journalism class and automatically becomes a member of the Phoenix Staff in one capacity or another. The editor-in-chief and the business manager are elected by the students in this class and the other positions on the staff are appointed by those elected. The Phoenix is printed once a week by the students themselves.

Tri-Hi Club

Service, character, and leadership are the main ideals of this club that consists of forty girls, chosen from the junior and senior classes. It sponsors the mixers, annual Valentine Dance, a Red Cross Drive, concessions at the basketball games, and also co-sponsors the youth movement with the Hi-Y Club. The Tri-Hi organization is outstanding for its many social, charitable, religious, and serviceable functions both in the high school and in the community. At the end of each year it presents the senior class with one-half of its money. During the year they complete some project and purchase an article that will benefit the school. Under the sponsorship of Miss Harrington, this club has proved its worthiness in many ways. At Christmas many children rejoice when they are given a doll by this organization that is commonly called Tri-Hi Y.

Hi-Y Club

Holding before them the code, "Clean speech, clean living, and clean sportsmanship," the Hi-Y boys build a definite program to be followed throughout the year. All boys of good character, who desire membership, are eligible to join this club.

Their activities include a hayride, selling pop and candy at the football games, presenting roses to the teachers on their birthdays and the annual Hi-Y Harvest Hop.

Mr. Thomas Van Hook, Mr. Clarence Wittenbraker, and Mr. Maurice Parsons are sponsors of the group.

French Club

Le Cercle Francais might well be the name of this organization, which is sponsored by Mrs. Eden and made up of a group of students who are attempting to broaden their knowledge in French.

During the meetings the members enjoy contests and games. Within this year two book reviews were given and a travel talk by Mr. Burr was greatly enjoyed by all of the members.

Latin Club

Students who are interested in Latin are active in a club which is under the sponsorship of Miss Mabel Hodson. The students in this club who believe "Roma fac ut Romani" are endeavoring to create for themselves an appreciation for Roman characters and customs. The State High School Conference, which was held at Ball State College, was attended by several of this club's members. Each year this activity sponsors a Roman Feast served in typical Roman style. At one of the programs Mr. Burr, who has traveled widely in many countries, gave a colorful talk on Rome as it is today.

Spanish Club

El Club es Espanol is to promote an interest in Spanish speaking countries and peoples. Every two weeks the thirty members gather to participate either in the singing of Spanish songs, seeing moving pictures of Mexico, or playing Spanish games.

Science Society

The Science Society, under the co-sponsorship of Mr. Bronson and Mr. Hodson is organized for the purpose of fostering an interest in scientific subjects and trends of modern times. Its meetings consist of special speakers and programs which demonstrate practically applied science. This year the students of the entire school were guests of the Science Society at a special demonstration of electrical inventions. Several trips have been taken by the chemistry department in the interest of modern science.

Student Forum

In our busy classes there is little time to spend in the discussion of current events, and for this reason the Student Forum was organized. This club, sponsored by Mr. Leslie, meets every other week in order that students who desire to analyze and learn more about the present world situations may have a chance to exchange their ideas with others. Groups of students are assigned certain topics on which to report, and the others then join in on the discussion. A convention of Student Forums from all over the state meets once every year and holds panel discussions on the more important topics of the day.

To study, discuss, and preserve our local history is the theme of the Junior Historical Society. Under the leadership of Mr. Heller, an authority on local history, the club has compiled a scrapbook on the Second World War as it affects Henry County. Also it has attended two meetings of the State Junior Historical Society. One of its members, Dorothy Ellen Caldwell, participated in the panel discussion at the first of these which was held in Indianapolis. Another member, Mary Ellen Symons, was elected to the Executive Board at the latter of these two meetings held at Aurora, Indiana. This is indeed an honor as the board consists of only three members and is the main governing body of the State Junior Historical Society.

Hiking and Bicycling Club

The name of this club speaks for itself as it is essentially a hiking and bicycle-riding organization. Its purpose is recreational, naturally, but with the aim of building up the physical body to meet with the requirements of this ever-changing world of production. Although the organization began only as the hiking club, with the increase in popularity of bicycles, it now includes both.

The Skiing Club

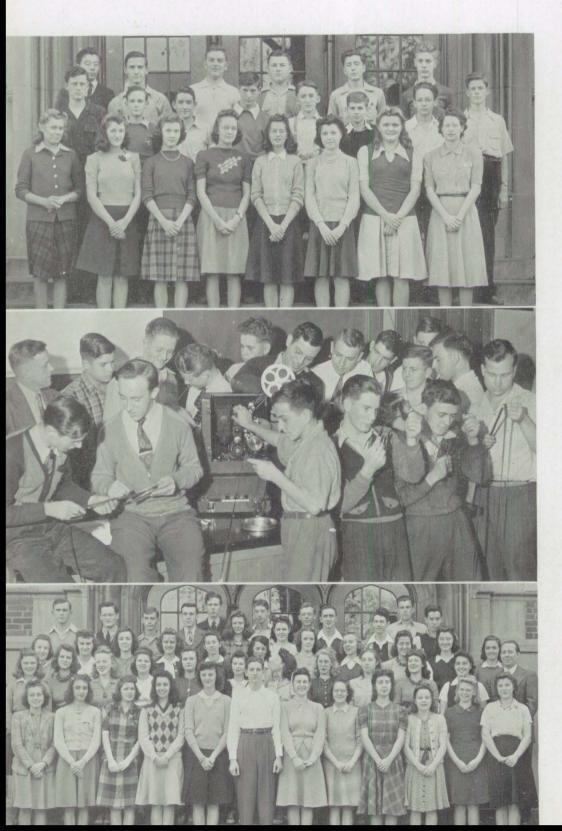

During the winter season each member of the Skiing Club eagerly awaits the report of snowy weather. A quick take-off from the hilltops north of town to a happy landing on the slopes below is a thrill to all skiers. Even though there is very little time for active participation in this sport, the club has a large membership. With such enthusiastic members skiing has become a well-loved sport in New Castle High School.

Safety Club

Safety first is the aim of the Safety Club in N.H.S. under the sponsorship of Miss Pinnick. Since the war has touched America, the Safety Club is planning the air raid drills and the shelter of students in case of attack. Each room is assigned a section in the main corridor of one of the two lower halls. The students march two by two to their assigned position and line up four deep against the wall, allowing a passageway for the first aiders; for sudden evacuation of the building in case of fire; or for other such emergencies. This is an indispensible service to the school and may some day save the lives of many of our students.

Bowling Club

Because there are so many high school students who enjoy bowling, it has become necessary to separate the boys and girls into two groups in order that all can participate. The girls meet every Tuesday and the boys meet every Thursday immediately after school at Schuhardt's Bowling Alley. Special low rates have been provided for these afternoons to the high school students. A record of each person's scores has been kept from week to week so that he might observe his progress throughout the year.

The Footlight Club

For all the future Garbos and Barrymores in N.H.S., the Footlight or Dramatics Club was organized. This club, under Mr. Burr's guidance, has been in existence for eight years, but it was only this year that the group adopted its name, the Footlight Club. They have done much to stimulate an interest in the theater and the stage. This organization is also one of the few in high school to have provided pins for its members.

The Projectionist Club

No other organization in school is more active in rendering service to the school at large than the Projectionist Club. These boys, under the supervision of Mr. Hodson, have become very efficient in operating the projector. The films that are shown to the different classes are pictures that pertain to definite subjects which are presented in a most interesting way and are educational in nature.

Nature Club

In the spring and in the fall everyone enjoys being out of doors, and there is one club in N.H.S. whose purpose is to stimulate the love of nature in students. Under the guidance of Miss Smith, the club sponsors picnics, hikes, and treasure hunts, taking care to observe and study the natural surroundings as they go. Its projects consist of the collecting of leaves, the showing of several motion pictures at various meetings, and the observing of birds as they return in the spring. For the high school naturalist this club offers opportunities of furthering his interest and knowledge in the out of doors.

Band

Every loyal Trojan feels his heart swell with pride whenever our band begins to play. It was unfortunate that Mr. Carrol Copeland, who first organized and worked with our N.H.S. band, had to leave our school to be in the army. Over a period of three years he built up our band and orchestra to their present size by taking young children in grade school and training them on musical instruments in order that when they reached high school they would be enough advanced to enter the band or orchestra.

Another man who has made a name and a place for himself in N.H.S. is Mr. William Kleyla, present director of our band and orchestra. It is very difficult for anyone to fill another person's place, but Mr. Kleyla has been well-equipped for this task. He is a graduate of Indiana University where he held solo chair clarinet, was concert-master, drum major, and student director of the Indiana University Band, and played bass clairinet in the orchestra. He was chairman of the Music Student Council, a member of the honorary music fraternity, Kappa Kappa Psi, and a member of the Pro-Music Club. We are very fortunate to have such a talented musician with us.

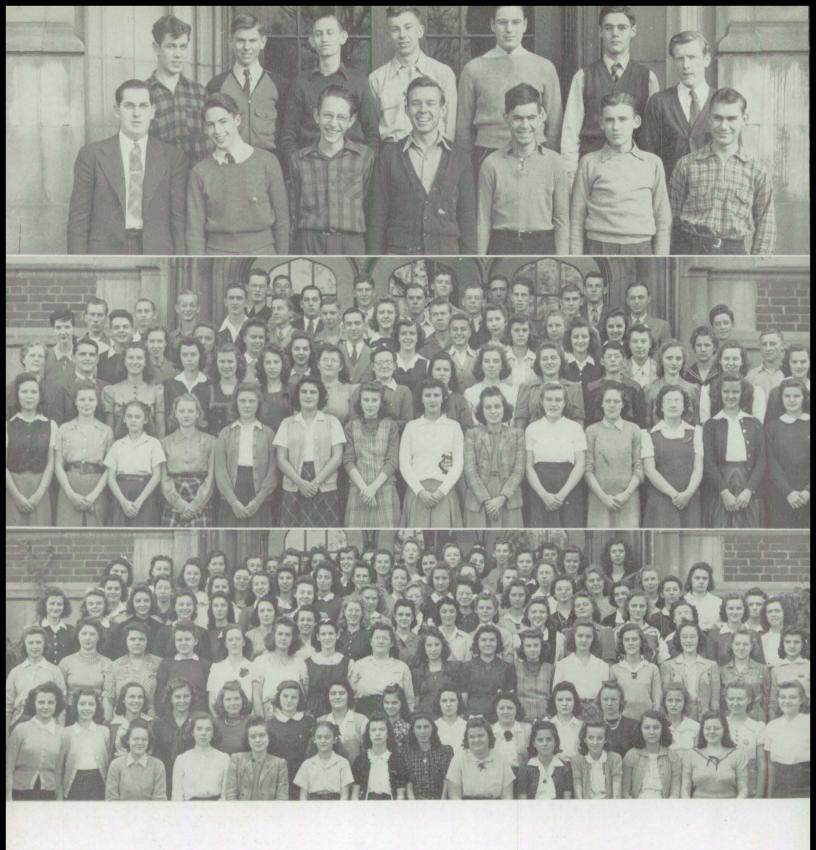

Orchestra

The organization and direction of an orchestra is of necessity more difficult than that of a band in that there is the ever-present problem of the lack of stringed instruments.

Every child who is musically inclined dreams of the day when he might be able to play in the high school band, and for this reason many children learn to play wind instruments. This constitutes a problem in the organization of a high school orchestra. Still another problem, though of less consequence, is that of finding students to play those odd instruments, such as the oboe, bassoon, English horn, and others. We are proud to say, along this line, that our orchestra possesses two oboe players and one bassoon player. Many high school orchestras have to go without these instruments, allowing others to play those parts.

Our orchestra is growing and coming into its own by now. The heretofore under-nourished string section is beginning to come into its own now that some of those students trained by Mr. Copeland in grade school are reaching high school. Mr. Kleyla has done splendid work with the orchestra in one semester as was displayed by the annual orchestra concert on April 12. The orchestra also played during the past year for the presentation of the Senior Class Play, and for the annual Crescendo Varieties. We may be justly proud of the great strides our orchestra is making under the various handicaps which present themselves.

Girls' Glee Club

At the beginning of each school year, a call is made for girls interested in singing to make an appearance with the Girls' Glee Club. Usually about ninety girls answer this call. Unlike the choir, the membership in this organization is not based upon the competitive system. Its purpose is for the furthering of interest in group singing. The members participate in the Crescendo Varieties, Baccalaureate Services, and other musical programs during the year.

Choir

The forty-eight choir members end each school day with the eight notes of the scale, although in a somewhat jumbled order at times. Each member is chosen by Miss Dorsey through a series of try-outs. The members of the choir sang in the District Music Festival at Knightstown and the State Choral Festival at Indianapolis. They also provided music at several convocations and presented their own concert in the spring.

Crescendo Club

In the students' memories will long linger the Amateur Show, Crescendo Varieties, the Minstrels, and Operettas which the Crescendo Club has sponsored. This club attempts to promote the interest in all types of music in New Castle High School. Under the leadership of Miss Dorsey and Mr. Kleyla, it has attracted many young modern Bachs, Rachmaninoffs, and Carusos to its membership.

Boys' Glee Club

Not unlike the girls the boys, too, have a musical organization. Although not as many boys participate as do the girls, the club is very active. Helping in the Crescendo Varieties and Minstrel chorus, the boys proved a great asset. The Minstrel proved to be quite successful under the direction of Mr. Copeland.

The Rivals

Written in 1775 by Sheridan, THE RIVALS was produced in Coventry the same year. It is a satricial comedy of the aristocracy at Bath. More great actors and actresses have reached the heights of fame in this play than in any other. The title tells the plot - several suitors striving to win the admiration of Lydia Languish, a beautiful, romantic young girl. The names of the characters are symbolic: Languish, languid; Mrs. Malaprop, Lydia's aunt who misuses every word in the English language; Absolute, the father of Jack Absolute who is very determined in his ideas. The play serves love, romance, heartbreak, and comedy. Bob Acres and Mrs. Malaprop furnish the most laughs. Mr. Acres is a country gentleman who wears expensive ill-fit clothes, dances the fold dance, sings the fork songs, and swears in a genteel way: "Odds, barrels, and bullets," or some such delicate language. Mrs. Malaprop tries to be a young fetching woman, but she is the opposite. She has a large vocabulary which she misuses at will: "You lead the way, and we shall 'precede'."

The romantic quarrels and rivalry conclude in a duel which, fortunately, is stopped before anyone is killed. The young couples are reunited. Acres wishes to soothe Mrs. Malaprop's wounded feelings for Sir Lucius O'-Trigger has shunned her attentions, so he plans a dance and every one is happy.

Coaches

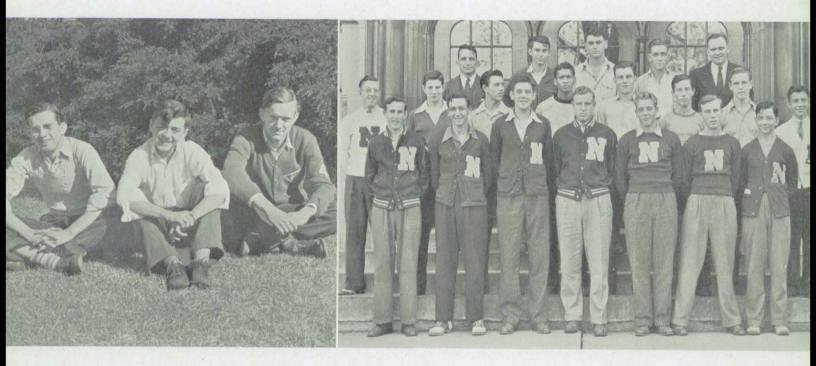

Head coach, "Griz" Baker, along with assistant coaches, Randall Lawson, Red Eastman, and James Rogers, drilled his "raw recruits" into a well-oiled, smooth working machine before the season came to a close. Morale, hindered by defeat, was kept high throughout the season by "Griz" Baker's marvelous ability to handle boys. The rest of the staff did a great job in toughening up the substitutes for first string work. The results of their work will add much to the strength of the Trojans of future years.

As the 1942 football season came to an end, eleven of "Griz" Baker's padded warriors walked off a high school football field for the last time. Here we present the bulwark of the Trojan forward wall along with the "Brains of the Backfield."

Co-captains Bob Cronk and Bill Wells have formed one of the most formidable guardcenter combinations seen here in many years. Each has had three years of first team experience. Denzil Burris, in his first year out, became our regular end before the season was half over. Charley Sweigart performed at the other end position. He was tops in breaking up end runs. All of these boys will be hard for "Griz" to replace. This group of six players composes the remainder of the eleven seniors. The absence of Eddie Eden, George Dominick and Bill Gordnier alternating at the tackle positions will greatly hinder the forward wall of the 1942 Trojans. Both Eden and Dominick were stalwarts on defense while Gordnier played his best game on defense. Fred Alexander after try-outs at running guard and quarterback, finally came into his own at the fullback spot. Ernie Bryson, the "light weight" of the squad, has performed majestically at guard for the past two years. Alva Arford, the running halfback, played his best near the end of the season. These boys leave behind a great record for the future Trojans to envy.

The Trojan Trail

One point was the margin of defeat in the opening game of the season with Morton Memorial. Our Trojans, fighting a determined opponent, were outscored 14-13.

Central of Fort Wayne became the second conqueror of the Greens as they plastered a whitewash on our scoreboard. The score was 38-0.

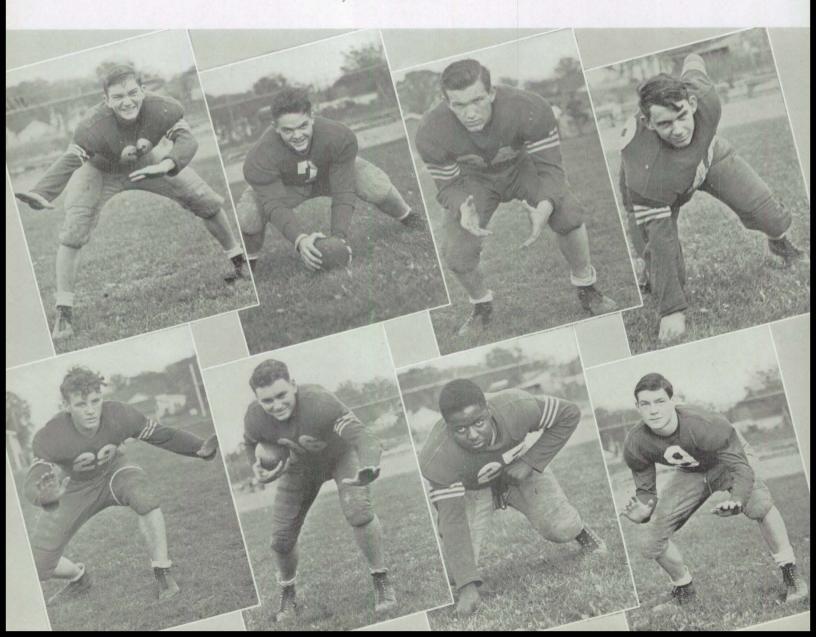

The Trojans marked up their first victory of the season at the expense of the Rushville Lions; New Castle 26, Rushville 7.

The men of Troy, outplayed Richmond for three quarters, but two long touchdowns spoiled the day and gave the Red Devils a 13-6 victory.

A stubborn Warren Central team fell under a Trojan offensive that netted 18 points to the opponents 6. This was our second victory.

Successive defeats at the hands of the Big Ten opponents, Marion and Anderson left our Trojans far behind in the won and lost column. Marion recorded a 27-6 victory while Anderson's margin was 13-6.

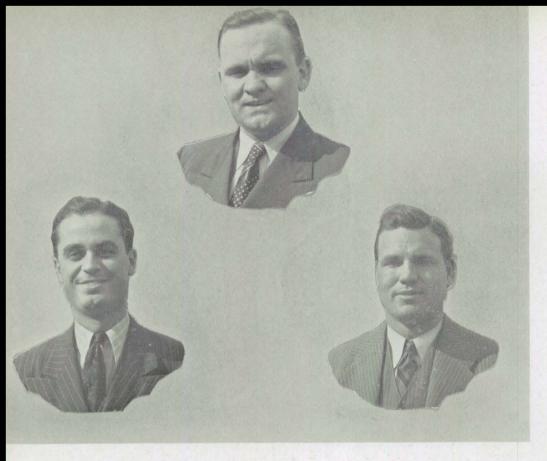

Our Trojans then went to Bloomington where one of the best games of the year was played. The final score stood: Bloomington 6, New Castle 2. Revenge for the Fort Wayne whitewash was taken out on our only out of state opponent, McGuffy of Ohio. It proved to be the last victory of the year for our Trojans.

The Bearcats of Muncie overran our Trojans on a snow covered field, 27-2. This was the sixth defeat for New Castle and it brought the 1941-42 football season to a close.

"Coaches"

"Strings" Allen again has shown his ability to handle the boys of the court. Starting the season with two star performers "Strings" whipped up a fine co-ordinative ball club after several games. Next year with height, speed, and ability coming up from the reserve ranks in abundance, Trojan fans may look forward to a banner season. These reservists were developed by assistant coach Randall Lawson and freshman coach James Rogers. All three of these coaches are doing a swell job and may continued success be their reward.

STUDENT MANAGERS Bud LaBoyteaux, Joe Tyler, Paul Lewis

"The Three Stooges," a suitable nickname given to the boys who act as guardians to the varsity squad. Keeping their equipment in order, establishing a high standard for morale and aiding in practice sessions are the chief duties of these boys. Joe is the head manager while Bud and "Farmer" are next in line.

Trojan Thinlies

"Griz" Baker's thinly clads will again take to the cinder path this year. Paced by several returning lettermen and with a number of underclassmen eager to secure starting assignments, "Griz" may again turn out a strong squad.

Eddie Sidwell, who throws the shot will provide Coach Baker with one of his most consistent point makers. Don Sidwell and Glen Crandall in the mile, Eddie Eden in the half mile along with Wayne Coers, James White, Jim Davis, and Everett New in the dashes, will be the main stays of the squad.

The Rose Relays, annual track festival has been cancelled for the duration of the war. A meet with Pendleton, a triangular with Cambridge and Rushville have been scheduled as well as the Sectional and State meets at Muncie, and Indianapolis respectively.

The Trojan Colts

The Trojan Colts, under the guiding hand of Randall Lawson, came through the 1941-42 season with twelve victories as against four defeats. The entire team is composed mostly of sophomores. By the use of a fast break and a stubborn defense the Colts overwhelmed Hagerstown 27 to 15 in the season's opener. Following a defeat at the hands of Ft.
