Walter P. Chrysler Memorial High School New Castle, Indiana

The CHS Student

Chrysler High is a world of 1,000 different teenagers, but a ROSENNIAL survey last fall proved that we are really very much alike.
The average Trojan boy is a junior with brown hair and blue eyes.
He stands five feet, eight and weighs nearly 150 pounds.
His favorite subjects are math and science, and he enjoys playing a game of basketball or baseball in his spare time.
Brown hair and blue eyes are also typical characteristics of the Trojan girl. She weighs 110 pounds, is five feet, four and a junior. Most of her study time is devoted to business classes and English. She likes bowling and spends much of her summer vacation relaxing at the swimming pool.

Typical students like Don Miller study from five to ten hours a week on daily assignments and for exams.

We filled the northeast corner of the Fieldhouse during convocations. Listening to outstanding professional and student talent was interesting and educational. This was also the setting for our pep sessions.

Under the leadership of president Billy Steele, Student Council purchased the victory flag, the portable ticket booth, and sponsored Heart's Hop.

No, you're not seeing double. Sally and Susan Krausbauer pause to check their

After-the-game dances were popular with most of our students. Kelly Smith and Toni Class stand this one out.

The Student Grows

With all the enthusiasm of youth, the Student plunges into the excitement and thrills which age and learning bring . . . . He just can't grow up soon enough. . . . . Those uncomfortable spike heels, party dresses, daily shaves, and dinner jackets show the world that he is now an adult . . . . As he is transformed from an immature sophomore to a serious-minded senior, he is growing inwardly too . . . His loyalty, pride, and ability make our school an outstanding one He learns to reason and to make his own decisions, and above all else, to finish whatever job he starts, no matter how difficult.
appearance in the new mirrors at the end of the business wing.

Dressed as creatures from outer space, Jerry Day and their costumes judged at the annual Fasching party his other masked friends stand in line waiting to have

The Student Laughs

Throughout every busy day, the Student finds time for laughter and fun . . . . Whether he is a sophomore eating watermelon to win the contest at the annual Watermelon Feed, a junior at Spring Fling trudging energetically to beat the seniors in the tug of war or a wagon race, or a mighty senior proudly wearing his colorful senior cords, he enjoys many unforgettable events . . . . The Student spends his happiest moments in the company of his friends, sharing with them the carefree hours, and sometimes the heartaches that are to become treasured memories.

It's great to be a senior. Gathered together in the cafeteria for a class meeting, 290 excited seniors eagerly make plans for Vespers, Baccalaureate, Commencement, and other special senior events.

Peggy Ooten and Ralph Hunnicutt agree that it's messy but the best way to eat watermelon. They are enjoying themselves at the annual Watermelon Feed which welcomes us back to school in September.

Concentrating deeply on the Scholastic Aptitude test are seniors Mike Day, Mike Owens, and Phil Coursen.

The majority of our students hope to go to college or to take some type of training after they graduate.

The Student Hopes

Questioning, always searching, the Student constantly tries to answer to his satisfaction such questions as,
"Who am I?," "Where am I going?" . . . . He wants friends, to be like others, to develop a pleasing personality, to make good grades, to be respected . . . . He works hard to choose a future occupation in which he will be happy and successful . . . . Every new problem strengthens his desire to explore further and deeper . . . . He wonders at everything about him from atoms to human feelings, challenging each thought with another, believing in what he has found to be right.

Basketball, the favorite spectator sport of the students, continued to fill our gigantic Fieldhouse with excitement. Here, Butch Joyner, our leading scorer, goes up for a jump shot gainst Rushville.

Going to church regularly is one of the characteristics of the average C.H.S. student. Bobby Fisher and Marta Garbert attend Sunday morning services.

The Student Shares

Chrysler High School and its students are the center of our community . . . . The student shares his activities, enthusiasm, dreams, hopes, ambitions, and friendships . . . . He shares the huge new fieldhouse for basketball games, public performances, and senior events . . . . He gives speeches and musical programs at Rotary, Kiwanis, and other civic clubs His home is opened to foreigners during our annual Foreign Student Day . . . . He serves in youth programs which broaden his understanding of others . . . . Wherever he goes, his generosity, faith, and skill tell the world that the future is secure.

Foreigners were guests in many of our homes on Foreign Student day. Here Mr. and Mrs. Roland Selke, Pat Badell of Rushville, and Susan Selke entertain Miss Rudi Tantiwongse of Thailand.

With hearty appetites, Frank Haven and John Jacobs stack their lunch trays full of food. We consumed 1,200 bottles of milk a day.

A film which will guide future teachers was made at C.H.S. by Indiana State College. Mr. Reed Stewart was their outstanding student teacher.

Sixty boys took part in intramural basketball, as ten teams played every Thursday night for three months. Tourney champs Jerry Bond, Bob Meador, Bob White, Junior Elkins, Tyrone Jester, Kay Reese, Bob Fisher and John Griffin smile proudly after winning the final game. They finished the season with an undefeated record.

Mike McKechnie and Judy Batson, wait their turn as Mr. Warren Worl, local tailor, makes sure Dan Riley's achievement jacket is a perfect fit. Thirteen seniors earned the right to wear these jackets by achieving a 3.4 scholastic average during their first three years of high school.

Susan Jacobs, escorted by her parents Mr. and Mrs. L. Q. Jacobs, walks down the main hall for the last time as a student. She has reached the goal of all high school students - graduation.

The Student Achieves

Whether they are big or small, accomplishments are a part of everyday for the C.H.S. Student . . . .

He draws house plans in drafting class, leads a group discussion in social studies, displays a magazine rack he designed in general metals, shows off the " $A$ " he made on a term paper, cheers for a touchdown on the football field . . . . His progress is evident through the report cards, honor rolls, honor jackets, and scholarships he earns . . . . Day by day, he also can see changes in himself as he becomes more secure in his knowledge and in his ability to meet every situation.

The Student And His Classes

A student eager to learn . . . . a desk stacked high with books . . . . nightly homework . . . . the silence of a classroom during a test . . . . memorizing lines of Shakespeare, history dates, and the conjunction of Latin verbs . . . . term papers and themes . . . catching butterflies and dissecting frogs . . . . the rhythm of typewriters . . . . solving the problems of algebra and geometry . . . . report cards and honor rolls . . . . major exams . . . . field trips . . . . all this is part of the daily C.H.S. class routine.

We Practice Good English In All Our Classes

English is the background for all courses in high school and for success in life.

As sophomores we decided whether to enroll in regular or college English classes depending on our plans after graduation. In every class, however, we spent hours on grammar rules and reading good literature. All of us were taught the techniques of making speeches, writing good themes, and preparing book reports. American literature was featured in our junior year and the 139 seniors who took senior English concentrated on world literature.

Whether we were sophomores or seniors, we spent one or two periods a week in Reading Center. Here, by reading timed essays and viewing film strips, we learned good study techniques and improved our reading speed and comprehension.

The "how, what, where, when, who, and why" of wellwritten news stories is explained by Danny Bennett to others members of his 22C English class.

Steve Alexander and Dollie Johnson admire the World War I pictures from old magazines which Mr. Risley used for theme ideas.
"This is WYSN with your morning news." This is a familiar sound around C.H.S. as Barbara Becker presents the daily announcements.

Barbara Young tells members of her economics class that savings are an important factor in our social and economic democracy. Legislation which leads to better living was an important part of this senior course.

Social Studies Review The Past And Present

Outside reading is necessary for a complete understanding of the topic under discussion. Miss Andrews shows Cathy Knotts a book for reference.

U. S. history was a required but popular course for all juniors who learned to understand the social, economic, and political growth of our country. We felt extremely proud of our democratic heritage as we studied the problems and achievements of our forefathers.

As seniors, we all took one semester of government and one of economics. In government, we held heated debates over such topics as federal control and began to see the complex structure of our local, state, and federal government.

In economics, we learned how income is produced and business organized, and we even figured imaginary income taxes. All this was part of the over-all study of the principles of the American economy under the system of free enterprise.

"Gee, this looks complicated," thinks Steve Walls as Mr. Ackenhusen explains to him the use of a new analytical balance. He will try to weigh chemicals.

Because of new developments and research in the fields of space, medicine, and atomic energy, science is being stressed more and more in our academic curriculum. This year, 320 sophomores enrolled in biology and another 17 in the new physical science class. Chemistry was taken by 101 juniors, and 48 seniors studied the fundamentals of physics.

This year, we added closed circuit television in two biology rooms. This made it possible for sophomores in both classes to see the same lectures and demonstrations. Minute organisms, too small for the naked eye, filled the 24 inch TV screen and everyone was able to study them carefully.

In all science classes, laboratory work was important. There we were able to use our knowledge through experimentation.

Using Modern Equipment, Prospective

Barbara Anderson is going to be brave. Despite the smell of formaldahyde, she and Tom Wilson are ready to dissect a frog to study its life processes.

Back and forth it goes. Mr. Ashton demonstrates the use of the pendulum as he explains Newton's fundamental laws of motion to two physics students, Mary Beth Conway and Phil Coursen.

Scientists Combine New Techniques, Logic

Using our newly acquired closed circuit television system, Nancy Esham and Dale Kendall are able to diagram minute organisms projected from a microscope onto the screen.

"I'll never be able to say that," says Russian student Mary Beth Conway, as she and Elsa Clift prepare to answer after listening to a tape recording. Work in the electronics laboratory improves pronunciation.

Languages Cultivate A Great Awareness

Posters by Bill Ratcliff and Ray Pearson added color to our German room as we publicized our annual funfilled "Fasching Party."

Language is the basis of all human relationships because we must communicate with one another for world understanding. Although English is the language which occupied most of our time, we had 288 students enrolled in Latin, Spanish, German, and Russian.

In these foreign language classes, we studied grammar and practiced correct speech. To help us with our pronunciation, we used the modern electronics laboratory with its individual booths, microphones, and headphones. There we listened to tapes which we answered or repeated.

Besides learning to write and speak these languages, we developed an appreciation for foreign countries and their people.

Warriors, gladiators, horses, and chariots - symbols of the ancient Roman Empire - are pointed out by Bob Sloan to members of his Latin Class.

Of Other Countries And Their Customs

"Que lo se?" Spanish student Jeff Lowe asks Sharon Neal the pronunciation of a word combination. The study of Spanish not only includes grammar but also geography and history of Spanish speaking countries.

Board work is important to sophomores in geometry. Mary Nelle Morris with the help of Jim Wilson constructs a perpendicular to the tangent of a circle and finds the length of the secant.

Math Students Develop Reasoning Power

In the scientific world of today, research requires the aid of a great deal pf mathematics, so math has become an increasingly important course for us in C.H.S. Whether or not we are interested in science, the reasoning and self-thought which it develops make it a necessity for all of us in this complex world.

Our revised mathematics curriculum offered plane geometry to 253 sophomores. There, we used theorems to solve problems and learned the need for exact definitions.

[^0]As juniors, 109 of us studied advanced algebra and also had a short unit of solid geometry during the second semester where we used the slide rule and logarithms in making computations.

College-bound seniors tackled senior math, an excellent preparatory class for the work we would have as college freshmen. We spent one semester in trigonometry and during the second semester concentrated on analytic geometry with some calculus and college algebra problems.

Students often come in after school for additional help. Susan Crawford asks Miss Hudson for assistance with a tough geometry problem.

Using Cones, Slide Rules, And Graphs

Seniors find they can solve many problems by using graphs. Charles Shively points out the factors involved in graphing this linear equation. Students help each other by explaining how they got their answers.

Personal Grooming, Care Of Family And Home

A Public Service demonstrator shows housing students Ilene Whitton, Doug Smith, and Larry Bowlin the difference the right lamp shade can make.

Two classes recommended for seniors only were housing and family living. This year, 104 students were enrolled in these two courses.

In housing, we learned how to choose the location and style of our future homes and discovered that color schemes and selection of furniture are very important. Both boys and girls built imaginary dream homes by drawing rough drafts from magazine pictures. In this one semester course, we also learned how to arrange our future homes for convenience without an extremely high cost.

The broad-minded senior found the semester in family living class a challenging one. Daily discussions covered problems of growing up and conflicts which face many of us teenagers today.

Susan Wright and Barbara Young point out what pills, antiseptics, and bandages should be kept in every medicine cabinet. This project made an interesting program for an F.H.A. meeting.

Carefully putting the corners together, Jeanettia Thomason and Mary Lee Wiley fold bed covers to demonstrate the proper method of making a bed. In their home nursing class, neatness is essential.

Are Vitally Important In Home Ec Classes

Illustrating important personality traits, Ann Smiley shows her family living class they must "Accentuate the Positive, Eliminate the Negative."

Qualities needed to be a good housewife were taught in clothing and home nursing classes.

Ninety-three girls enrolled in clothing classes this year. Using modern sewing machines, needles and thread, thimbles, and straight pins we made skirts, blouses, dresses, and slacks for our wardrobes.

The differences in fabrics were studied in textile classes by 70 girls. We stretched and pre-shrank pieces of cloth, tested stayfast colors, and studied the weave of many different types of materials.

Practical bandaging was just one skill acquired in home nursing class. Girls learned the proper way to care for the bedfast and the importance of hygiene.

Art Encourages Interpretation, Creativity

Bill Edstene and Susie Moistner practice the art of simple engraving in their art class.

Susie Moistner, Bill Edstene, Bill Townsend, and Barbara Roberts helped us celebrate Christmas with this colorful manger scene.

Our study of art not only includes drawing and painting, but appreciation as well. We had 81 students enrolled in four different classes where we studied form, color, line, tone, texture, and design.

Some of our projects included still-life drawings with milk and crayon, designs picturing natural objects, wire sculptures, woodblock printings, and paintings in various media. The advanced classes made jewelry, designed styles of printing, and worked with clay.

Practical projects here at school included making posters and signs to advertise school activities. During the Christmas season we created a beautiful life size manger scene which was displayed in our Student Center. We also made decorations for the bulletin boards which are located outside of every classroom.

In crafts class, Shirley Alexander smooths out the inside of an ash tray which she has molded from clay. It will be fired and then painted.

"If you like to sing, play an instrument, or appear before the public, music class is just for you." With this explanation, 116 students signed up for elective music classes this year. Some of our music students joined in a week of vocal training at the high school during the summer, and members of the band attended the August Band Camp at McCormick's Creek State Park.

Most students take these music classes because they like to sing or play and hope to continue it as a hobby. A few who will major in music in college or hope to be musicians are taking music theory in which they study rhythm and harmony.

In all of these classes we learn to appreciate music in addition to studying the correct techniques of singing and playing.

Mr. Houston helps Kay Reese and Rosemary Wallen as they study harmony and rhythm in theory class.

Music Brings Pleasure To Us And Community

Choir provides us with an opportunity to study and appreciate music and to give programs for the public.

The bass fiddle can be played by a girl, too. Carol Clark proves it to Don Furbee.

Nearly $\mathbf{8 0 0}$ Of Us Enroll In Business Classes;

Keeping her eyes on the copy, Connie Saylor tries to type with five errors or less to pass a daily timed writing in secretarial typing.

Working to perfect a neat and legible Ditto copy, llene Whitton slowly turns the crank on the fluid duplicator in office clerical practice.

Keen comprehension in shorthand class is the key to accurate, rapid transcription. Betty Costello affempts to write as fast as she thinks.

Typing Attracts One-Third Of Student Body

From texts, workbooks, and practice sets, 125 business majors learned the fundamentals of double-entry bookkeeping. Daily class routine included balancing debits and credits for imaginary business firms. In advanced bookkeeping we learned business law for personal use.

Merchandising was the topic of students in retail selling class. Their show window was always decorated to display the products of some local retail merchant or some big school event, such as the Homecoming for the class of 1932.

Duplicators, calculators, dictaphones, and electric typewriters were the essential equipment for office clerical students. Every one learned to operate each machine and gained experience needed for permanent jobs in the business world.

The mystery of the curving lines and weaving symbols in shorthand was solved by 56 beginning shorthand pupils. The advanced class learned shorthand symbols for five-syllable words and phrases and acquired speeds of as much as 120 words.

Debits and credits must balance, Steve Walls learns this as he adds and re-adds his rows of figures in first year bookkeeping class.

Jack Kirkpatrick and Carolyn Batchfield, under the direction of Mr. Jack Voelz, set up a display of stereo and high fidelity records and phonographs. This was one of many displays we saw this year.

Sophomores Develop  Physical Fitness

Sitting quietly on the floor of the Girls' Gym, students listen as Miss Gloria Castelluccio points out the differences between girls' and boys' basketball before the two teams begin an exciting game.

Mike Shepperd turns to ask instructor Wilbur Veach the proper way to serve a volleyball as Don Sexton stands by, ready for action.

All C.H.S. students must earn one credit in physical education, usually in their sophomore year. Gym was taken by 392 girls and boys five days a week this year.

Girls learned the fundamentals of volleyball, shuffleboard, badminton, table tennis, kickball, and engaged in a game of girls' basketball quite often. During the warm days of fall and spring, gals clad in blue gym suits could be seen every day playing softball on the practice football field.

Basketball was the preferred activity in boys' "phy-ed," but they spent many weeks in volleyball, kickball, track, and gymnastics. The girls and boys also combined classes for a four week period of social and square dancing.

Physical fitness is being stressed throughout the country, and physical education is important in this program. It teaches students to participate in activities, develops skills, and creates sportsmanship.

Over one-third of us were enrolled in industrial arts courses where we learned to operate fundamental tools and machines while developing skills and safe work habits. Our experience in electricity, drafting, machine shop, and general metals helped in the selection of occupations and trades.

During the year, we learned the fundamentals of electricity in electrical shop classes by makng extension cords and fixing modern household appliances such as electric irons and radios. Drafting students drew views of tools, blocks, and angles and even sketched plans for their future homes. From stock metal, machine shop pupils cut screw drivers, bolts, hammers, and jacks. In general metals, welding was the main objective. Projects were required and many boys chose to make trays, plaques, planters, and post signs.

We are one of the few schools to have modern drafting machines. Steve Arnold finds it useful in drawing plans for his future home.

Industrial Arts Build Skill And Efficiency

Better equipped, more attractive homes result from many shop projects. Wade Reed works on the base of a table lamp while Eugene Davis is busy on a radio extension cord.

Undertaking a special project in electricity, Don Ulmer wires a table to be used for the shrinking and pressing of new fabrics which will be used by members of Miss Eilar's home economics classes.

Our Senior Year Brought New Knowledge

Cadet teachers were Front Row: Greta Jo Neal, Lynda Tabor, Susan Selke, Joyce Morgan, Cynthia Stamper, Marilynn Thompson, Mary Beth Conway, Joyce Davis,

Peggy Ooten, Beth Hamm. Back Row: Barbara Jarrett, Linda Alexander, Margaret Harry, Roger Roberts, Mike Owens, Eric Harter, Chad Critser, John Griffin.

With us to answer our questions on College Conference Night were representatives of five Indiana colleges, two business schools, a beauty school,

As seniors, we filled our last year at C.H.S. with our regular classes and many extra-curricular activities. Some of us concentrated on our studies, while others leaned toward club activity and became the planners for our dances and parties.

Tests, such as the Scholastic Aptitude Test, and the results of the Merit Scholarship competition were uppermost in the minds of those of us who planned to attend college. Our counselors provided information which helped us decide our future training. Trips to our chosen colleges occupied many of our week-ends. Gradually, we were changing from carefree high school students into college students and responsible citizens of our community.
and two out-of-state colleges.

"Success - Be Our Destiny" was our class motto, and we tried to live up to it. We elected our class officers in the fall, and with their leadership our success as seniors was assured.

We chose royal blue and light blue as 1962 class colors and the snow white rose as the class flower. These, along with the class motto, will be reminders to us in later years of our graduating class.

Under the direction of Miss Catherine Ratcliffe, the senior class sponsor, we marched together at Senior Vespers, Class Day, Baccalaureate, and Commencement. Dr. Leo Hauptman reminded us of the "Real JOY of Christmas" at Vespers. The Baccalaureate sermon was given by Rev. Charles I. Johnson of the Trinity Methodist Church. Dr. John R. Emens, president of Ball State, delivered the Commencement address to our class of 283 seniors.

The small cast of this year's play included five girlsJoyce Morgan, Susan Jacobs, Elsa Clift, Roseanne Ginsburg, and Margaret Harry - and five boys -

Dennis Mikel, Mike McKechnie, Deane Planeaux, Don Miller, and John Sloan. "Three Blind Mice" originally was a successful Broadway production.

Comedy 'Three Blind Mice’ Is Class Play

Romance dominates this hilarious scene from the last act of "Three Blind Mice" with Elsa Clift, John Sloan, Margaret Harry, Don Miller, and Roseanne Ginsburg.

What happens when three sisters decide to find rich husbands in Miami, Florida? Those who saw the 1962 class play, "Three Blind Mice," will agree that everything happened in this hilarious comedy.

The Mason sisters, played by Elsa Clift, Roseanne Ginsburg, and Susan Jacobs, sold their small farm in lowa to raise enough money for a room in a luxurious resort on the beach. Once there, they hoped to catch wealthy husbands.

The sisters found that it was not as easy as they thought to trap unsuspecting males, however, and they had to use all their ingenuity to get them.

Don Miller, Mike McKechnie, and John Sloan played the elusive males. Others in the cast were Deane Planeaux, Margaret Harry, Dennis Mikel, and Joyce Morgan.
"Good is not good enough," and we knew it! We proved our determination to be superior by improving our grades and excelling in other activities. This resolution was apparent when we brought honors to ourselves and our school.

We showed our status as hard working seniors in other ways, too. We wore the ever-popular senior cords and class rings. Those of us in athletics found that the light-green and white letter jackets were symbols of our accomplishments. For the scholastic leaders, the dark green blazers with crests represented achievement. These symbols were not for our senior year alone; they showed twelve years of hard work.

Our enthusiasm for sports and our pride in Chrysler High were shown when we held an all-school parade just before our first basketball game. Green and white decorations added color to our cars.

Highlighting Senior Year Filled With Fun

Senior cords with expressions like "Rooten Tooten Ooten" and "Decisions Determine Destiny" were every day sights as the year progressed. Charles Shively is showing his cords to Millie Wantz and Mrs. Sheddrick in the school bookstore.

We tried to crowd as much work and as many activities as possible into this very special year. Every minute was taken up with something. Our hours at school, study, clubs, and parties kept us busy. Sports -everything from football to golf-filled our athletic schedules.

Nevertheless, we still found time to attend Curtain Call, Class Play, "Carousel," and other big events. Topping our list of social activities were Heart's Hop, Prom, and the Chamber of Commerce "Night Club Party" which was held after Commencement especially for the seniors.

After school and on week-ends we were constantly with our high school friends. We saw them at Frisch's, at our homes, and at school affairs. Even in our church and civic activities, we worked with our school acquaintances.

When the time came to send out our invitations for Commencement, we began to realize that soon we would be leaving the good friends we had known for so long. Some of us soon will be going on to colleges in every corner of our country, and others will be taking jobs in many different fields. We had prepared ourselves for the time when this would happen, but we faced graduation with mixed emotions. We were confident of our ability but already lonely for the good times at Chrysler High.

Our first class meeting in October brought us together to choose class officers and to receive general information from the counselors about our activities as seniors.

We Looked To The Future With Confidence

A humorous Russian play about typical tourists abroad was prepared by Jim Roberts, Mike McKechnie, Karl Fant, and Elsa Clift and presented for the Business and Professional Women and the P.T.A. Council.

Our Superintendent and Our New Principal

REXFORD G. WRIGHT

Administering a school system with 240 teachers and nearly 6,000 students makes Superintendent Rexford G. Wright one of the busiest people in New Castle. During the school year, he attended many state meetings, worked on Henry County school reorganization, pushed for expanded facilities, and labored for an improved curriculum for all students. Mr. Wright received his A.B. at DePauw University and his M.S. at Indiana University.

Determining the school corporation policy and maintaining a balanced program were the tasks of the members of the School Board.

Home is the place to relax with the family, and our Superintendent, Mr. Wright, spends as much time with Mrs. Wright and his sophomore daughter, Mary, as his busy schedule will allow.

Set High Standards For Chrysler Students

The friendly smile and cordial greetings of our new principal, James L. Pugh, make all of us feel a part of Chrysler High School. Striving for excellence, Mr. Pugh constantly reminded us that "Good is not good enough." As we saw him often in the halls and classrooms, we were reminded of his interest in our success.

Here at Chrysler High School, Mr. Pugh heads a staff of 61 teachers. He and the faculty members hold the responsibility of educating over 1,000 students. Mr. Pugh obtained his B.S. from Ball State Teachers College and his M.S. from Indiana University.

JAMES L. PUGH

We soon learned to know not only our new principal but also Mrs. Pugh and their daughters Linda and Marsha. The whole family quickly became loyal boosters of all Chrysler High School activities.

Administrators Guide Our School Wisely

New Castle's School Board was kept busy during the year establishing definite school policies. Pictured at one of the monthly meetings are Mr. Alan J. Fromuth, treasurer; Dr. Robert S. Ensign, secretary; Mr. Rexford
G. Wright, superintendent; Mr. Phillip S. White, president; Mr. Lawrence Renfro, attorney; Mrs. Edna Townsend, secretary to the school board; Mr. Claude L. Harry; and Mr. Vance C. Downey.

Mr. James Pugh, our principal, and Mr. Lewis Larrison, our vise-principal, met regularly to discuss school problems and improvements. They placed emphasis upon school spirit and attractive hall and classroom displays.

Examining the scores of juniors and seniors on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test are our three counselors Mr. Robert Rinehart, Mrs. Mary Sinnock, and Miss Evelyn Rentchler, counselor chairman.

Members of the Advisory Board are Miss Berniece McCord, English; Mrs. Juanita Bishop, business; Miss Frances Eilar, homemaking; Miss Ruth Andrews, social studies; Miss Jean Stellingwerf, physical education;

Miss Evelyn Rentchler, counselor chrmn.; Miss Juanita Rucker, speech; Mr. Richard Hamilton, practical arts; Mr. James Houston, music; Mr. Robert Ackenhusen, science; and Mr. James Pugh, principal.

Our Counselors Give Us Individual Advice

Scheduling classes, talking with students, and conferring with parents are regular responsibilities of our three counselors. They also conduct standardized tests and are ready to help us with the many personal and educational problems which confront us daily.

Ready to help us are Vice-Principal Lewis Larrison and senior counselor Miss Evelyn Rentchler.

Mr. Lewis Larrison, our vice-principal, is in charge of student behavior and attendance. Miss Evelyn Rentchler, the counselor chairman, works with the members of the senior class. In charge of the junior and sophomore classes are Mrs. Mary Sinnock and Mr. Robert Rinehart.

Mr. Robert Rinehart and Mrs. Mary Sinnock offer their advice to sophomores and juniors.

Office Staff, Custodians Are Always Friendly

Students were often helped by our friendly, capable office employees. Gathered in the bookstore are Mrs. Edith Ingram, Mrs. Jean Zeigler, Mrs. Bertha Van Hoy, and Mrs. Jeannette Sheddrick.

Keeping our attractive high school clean and neat was the job of our custodians. Working on the day shift are Mr. Robert Byers, head custodian, Mr. William Lowe, Mr. John York, and Mrs. Ruth Davis.

Many hobbies occupy the free time of our high school teachers. A favorite recreation of several teachers is horseback riding. Every Wednesday after school Mr.

Larry Horney, Mr. and Mrs. William Zeigler and their son Steve can be found at Miss Janet Fleming's farm north of New Castle near Springport.

In the evenings, after finishing her school work, Miss Carolyn Webb could be found knitting a sweater for her fiance.

Despite her many science activities, Miss Montag still finds time to spend with her two dogs Pooh and Penny.

Faculty Is Active With Families, Community

The day before school opened was a day of preparation for our teachers, but they received a pleasant "welcome-back" from the PTA. Tea and cookies were served to Miss Jean Stellingwerf, Mr. Jack Renner, Mr. Russell Coers, Mr. Hobart Risley, and Mr. Curtis Jones by Mrs. T. L. Nelson and other PTA members.

We Juniors Supported All School Affairs

One of the musts at the beginning of each semester is paying book rental. Phil Brown is paying his homeroom teacher, Mr. Jones.

Our junior year was filled with many highlights as we became upperclassmen. In October we elected our junior class officers Ralph Hunnicutt, Don Furbee, Carol Burgess, and Steve Walls. At the beginning of the new year we selected shiny new class jewelry to wear as seniors. Our class dues and dance profits helped pay for our Prom, held May 4, in the Girls' Gym.

Hard work and much planning has made the school year a success for us. We worked hard to make good grades in such classes as chemistry, math, English, and business. We started making plans for college, as we were on our way to becoming the seniors of 1963.

Crowded halls, confusion in the cafeteria, and academic classes greeted sophomores as they entered CHS in September. As the largest class, with 421 members, they contributed much to making our school one of the best in the state.
"Come on kids we can do it!" This seems to be the consensus of opinion as these junior girls get ready to compete in a Spring Fling event. Winning the relay race for their class are Lana Bouslog, Judy Baskette, Pat Sears, Lea Ratcliff, Sue Brookshire, Orlita Kissane, Sharon Price, Lynda Ford, and Connie Henby.

Our Sophomore Class Had 421 Busy Members

A volleyball game will soon be under way. After the nets are put up, another team will compete in an exciting game against Norma Wells, Sharon Cole,

Our sophomore year was filled with many events. The Watermelon Feed was the first big activity we took part in, and we sophomores were the champions in the "Watermelon Gorge." We also danced to the latest records, talked with our friends, and became acquainted with many upperclassmen.

With its large white $V$ on a background of Trojan green, our Victory Flag flew from the flagpole this year to signify many honors won by CHS students. Its purchase was one of the major accomplishments of the Student Morale Committee. The Committee was composed of several members of Student Council, selected students from each class, a cheerleader, and faculty sponsors. Mr. Jack Renner was the adviser.

In addition to planning pep sessions, the Morale Committee members were responsible for the Trojan mascot, making signs for the halls before games, purchasing Trojan booster tags, and planning the pep parade before our first home basketball game. They also arranged for buses to several out-of-town games. The Morale Committee stressed "Fight With White" on Fridays and did much to create school spirit.

Raising the Victory Flag as Mr. Pugh watches are Student Morale Committee members Billy Steele, Pat Sears, and Kay Reese. The flying banner signifies an honor won by an individual student, an organization, or athletic team.

Outstanding Students Bring Recognition To

Selected to attend the World Affairs Institute because of their interest in world conditions were Juniors Jerry Day, Susie Fleet, Marcia Keller, and Larry Gough.

To eight senior leaders went the honor of being named Junior Rotarians this year. These boys were selected for scholastic achievement, professional ambition, and leadership qualities. Each was honored for one month by the local Rotary Club and was a guest at their luncheons each week. In this way, they met many of our outstanding citizens.

Also sponsored by Rotary, four juniors were selected to attend the World Affairs Institute held in Cincinnati in March. There, they heard nationally known experts discuss "The U. S. and the International Communist Challenge."

Fifteen students made a study of the United Nations and its functions and then took a standardized test. Virginia Sharkey and John Griffin were our school's winners.

Themselves, Their School, And Community

Membership in National Honor Society is based on outstanding grades, leadership, service, and character. Members were selected by recommendations of the faculty.

Active in New Castle since 1921, this organization sponsors the King Eskimo Dance and is responsible for compiling the Honor Roll, selling note paper, and conducting the Christmas Toy Drive. Highlighting the year was the formal initiation in April.

Officers for the first semester were Mike McKechnie, president; Jim Means, vicepresident; Elsa Clift, secretary; and Marcella May, treasurer.

The second semester officers were Alton Marsh, president; Marta Garbert, vicepresident; Phyllis Betz, secretary; and Ginger Lowhorn, treasurer. Miss Catherine Ratcliffe is their adviser.

Studying governmental procedures which will help them in operating their state governments at I.U. for Boys' and Girls' State are Skip Wiesmiller and Frances Hinton.

The opportunity to take part in state government was extended to several outstanding students last summer as they were selected for Boys' and Girls' State. They were chosen by their social studies teachers because of their leadership, scholastic ability, citizenship, personality, and interest shown in social studies.

The model state governments for Boys' and Girls' States were established on the Indiana University campus in June, and the delegates became members of imaginary cities and counties within their dormitories for one week.

Some of the delegates ran for office and were able to campaign throughout the week by making posters and speeches.

Participating actively in these model governments helped each Boy and Girl Stater better understand the fundamentals of our democracy and election procedures.

Purdue Assembly, Girls' and Boys' State

Girls' Staters were Susan Jacobs, Frances Hinton, Carolyn Ozeretny, Jane White, Susan Hunter, Marcella May, and Phyllis Betz.

At Indiana University for Boys' State last June were Skip Wiesmiller, John Keesling, Mike McKechnie, Alton Marsh, and David Wallace.

P. Sears, S. Selke, J. Nead. Back Row: D. Morris, D. Wallace, J. Means, A. Marsh, J. Arnold.

Show Fine Representation From Students

Using a voting machine and following regulation voting procedure, five representatives and five alternates were chosen by the juniors and seniors to represent CHS at Purdue Assembly. Jay Arnold was elected senator with Skip Wiesmiller, Jack Nead, Susan Selke, and Pat Sears as delegates to the House of Representatives.

Bills on Federal Aid to Education, Foreign Aid, and Labor Conditions were carefully written by the delegates and their alternates following extensive research. Combining speech and government in the presentation and discussion of their bills, Skip was successful in introducing his bill in the House, and Jack was one of the thirty delegates who received special recognition for work in committee and on the floor of the House of Representatives.

Jay Arnold, who was elected senator, and Dave Morris, his alternate, study Federal Aid to Education.

Corralling the Jefferson Lafayette Broncos, the Girls' Cheerblock shows its support for the Trojans as the girls present one of their clever half-time skits.

Enthusiastically supporting the mighty Trojans, the largest CHS Cheerblock in history provided many yells and entertaining skits at all home games. Members of the Girls' Cheerblock also followed our Trojans to several out-of-town games.

Many half-time skits were cleverly planned and presented. The Logansport Berries, for example, were picked by the Trojans and put into a victory basket.

Attired in black skirts, green and white shirts, and white gloves, the Cheerblock, 270 strong, made an impressive appearance. Leading the block were Tommie Allison, president; Orlita Kissane, vicepresident; Linda Stilwell, secretary-treasurer, and Miss Gloria Castellucio, sponsor.

The boys went to Muncie Central and to Kokomo to back our Trojans, traveling by chartered bus. Members of the Cheerblock also sold refreshments when the Globetrotters played in our gym, and they were responsible for many of the peppy signs which filled the halls before games.

Boys' Cheerblock members were easily recognized by their sparkling white shirts, dark slacks, and green derby hats with white plumes. These terrific Trojan boosters were led by Bobby Fisher, president; Chad Critser, vice-president; Don Miller, secre-tary-treasurer, and Mr. Chandler sponsor.

Serving as officers and class representatives for this year's Boys' Cheerblock were Chad Critser, John Sloan, Jay Arnold, Steve Klein, Don Miller, Jerry Bond, Leon Jones, and Bobby Fisher.

N.F.L. Gains Local And National Recognition

Steve Wirth, who earned a rating of excellent at I. U., presents one of his extemporaneous speeches.

An impressive dark brown and gold plaque was presented to our chapter of the National Forensic League last September when it was selected as the outstanding group in Indiana on the basis of quality, size, and activities. The national executive secretary, Bruno Jacobs of Ripon, Wisconsin, made the presentation to Mike McKechnie, president, at a convocation.

NFL has been active in New Castle for ten years and is open only to speech students who have earned twenty-five points or more in speech tourneys and civic programs in which they participate.

This year our speakers have competed in numerous tourneys and have won honors in all of them.

Traveling to all parts of the state in the early hours of morning, our debaters fought many battles of words to bring several victories to Chrysler High.

This year's question was "Resolved: That the federal government should equalize educational opportunities by means of grants to the states for public elementary and secondary education." Our varsity debaters broke even with a record of 19 wins and 19 losses.

At the I. U. Public Affairs Conference last November Jim Means, David Wallace, Steve Klein, and Max Muterspaugh brought home ratings of outstanding and Steve Wirth earned a rating of excellent. Jack Nead was cited as one of the ten best debaters at the Indiana State College Debate Tourney where we placed third.

Gathering facts for their next debate meet are David Morris, Jack Nead, and Marilynn Thompson.

Debaters Earn Top Ratings In Two Meets

Several of our debaters earned honors this year. On the debate team were J. Means, M. Thompson, P. Betz, C. Hall, C. Heldt, T. Nicholson. Second Row:

This year the club was one of the largest in the school with over 150 members. It was under the leadership of Lynda Tabor, president; Patsy Dishman and Pat Bell, secretary; and Barbara Goodin, treasurer. The sponsors this year were Miss Sarah Hall and Miss Carolyn Webb.

FHA Brings Cheer to State Hospital Patients

Working on projects such as "Careers In Home Economics" and joining with other Indiana chapters to adopt a five year old Korean orphan, Kyong Sook, were among the activities of the Future Homemakers of America this year.

This year, too, a patient from the New Castle State Hospital, Kathleen Andrew, became an active member of F.H.A.

Other activities included sponsoring the annual "Peppermint Twirl" with Judy Hufford as queen and planning the menu and helping to prepare the food for our allschool party, "Spring Fling."

Officers included Linda Alexander, president; Barbara Young, vice-president; Linda Stilwell, secretary; Linda Durham, treasurer; Miss Frances Eilar and Miss Muzetta Guymon, club sponsors.

Christmas gifts have a special meaning for many of the patients at the State Hospital, and these members of F.H.A., Linda Alexander, Barbara Vestal, Linda Stilwell, and Kathleen Andrew tried to make it a happy occasion.

Effective Planning Is Shown in DECA Displays

Planning and organizing projects for the club are Mr. Jack Voelz, the new club sponsor, Joel Stephens, Sue Batchfield, John Rogers, and Bernie Laurie.

The club officers for this year were Darry Hood, president; Bernie Laurie, vicepresident; Sue Batchfield, treasurer; Joel Stephens, secretary; and John Rogers, historian.

Special Skills Are Developed Through GAA

Bowling was added to the list of sports this year for the Girls' Athletic Association and 24 girls spent six weeks bowling at the Rose Bowl. Other activities included volleyball, softball, swimming, and individual recreational games.

Highlighting the year for members of GAA was the spring banquet which was held to honor the girls who accumulated the most athletic points throughout the season. At this time a special plaque was given for sportsmanship, personality, and character. Wanda Chaney was elected by the club to receive this honor.

Officers of the association this year were Wanda Chaney, president; Susan Johnson, vice-president; Sue Ensign, secretary; and Ruth Derrow, treasurer.

- Its tenth anniversary as an active high school organization was celebrated by the Bible Club this year. Formed on the request of interested students, it always has stressed a more thorough knowledge of the Bible and a new inspiration for service.

To become better informed of the Bible's teachings and to hear the interpretation of experts, members have invited several teachers and guest ministers to be their speakers at most club meetings.

Throughout the year, Bible Club raised money from their five cookie sales. Their annual Christmas party was held at the home of Carol Clark. In November, sponsor Mr. Hobart Risley, with the help of Bible Club members, presented a very interesting display in his classoom of pictures and other material pertaining to World War I.

Selling all sorts of good things to eat at one of Bible Club's five cookie sales are Linda Dick, Glenna Raybourn, Mary Roberts, one of the former members of the club, and Barbara Malone. Mary was invited to attend a meeting in nonor of their tenth anniversary.

Active members of Machinist Club were Front Row: Walter Gulley, Barney Mikel, David Malkemus, Paul

Lockridge. Back Row: Arthur Hughes, Gilbert Braswell, Lonnie Duvall, Mr. Jett.

Workmanship Is Stressed By Machinist Club

Machinist Club is an organization strictly for the boys who are interested in motors, "Hot Rods," and machines in general.

Meeting once a week, the organization tries to help its members better understand how to properly operate machines. It also gives them their basic training for possible apprentice jobs in factories. All members of the club also are enrolled in the course in machine shop.

Manufacturing of ball point pen key chains was their chief project of the year, and these were sold to many students.

Club officers this year were Gilbert Braswell, president; Paul Lockridge, vicepresident; Barney Mikel, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Hurley Jett was the sponsor.

Paul Lockridge, vice-president; Mr. Hurley Jett, sponsor; and Gilbert Braswell, president, carefully check the operations of milling out a drillpress vise.

Practice makes perfect for Barbara Glasco and other members of the orchestra. They met for class first period every morning directed by Mr. James McConnell.

Daily sessions in class, training at Band Camp, and early morning marching practice were regular routines for bandsmen like Joe Shelley and Jim Grubbs.

Vocal Clinic, Band Camp Are Music Projects

Chrysler High is very proud of David Matthews who became known state-wide as a pianist.

Excellent instruction is necessary for all successful groups. Under the supervision of choir director Gordon Gustin, the music department was able to produce the famous musical "Carousel."

Music department activities got off to an early start last summer. A first for the choral portion of the music department was their summer Music Clinic. Meeting daily for one week in August, the students received basic instruction in music theory and choral conducting. At this time, the choirs were partially organized and plans for the year were outlined.

Band members enjoyed a summer camp for one week in August at McCormick's Creek State Park. Here skilled instruction in percussion, wind, and brass instruments was given. Daily, they practiced precision drills for the State Fair Parade and prepared half-time shows for our football games.

A new girls' trio was welcomed in our music department this year. It was composed of Cathy Norris, Janis Dyer, and Cathy Binion, all of whom are A Cappella Choir members.

Members of the cast for "Carousel" were Front Row: P. Ooten, J. Johnson, B. Bond, L. Gray, B. Hamm, J. Linginfelter, C. Johnson, W. Vincent, C. Norris, S. Ingram. Second Row: J. Bond, D. Wallen, G. Lowhorn,

Singers Show Professional Talent In Carousel

Julie and Carrie look on in disgust when Billy returns from a night on the town with Jigger, but conservative Mr. Snow tries to be a good influence.

Amidst the whirl of color and excitement created by the carnival people, the music department presented Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Carousel" in April.

Mastering the main roles were Kay Reese as Billy Bigelow who comes back from heaven to give his daughter a star, and Peggy Ooten as Julie Jordan who runs away from the mill boarding house to marry n'er do well Billy. When he learns that he is to be a father, Billy is determined to become wealthy and under the influence of Jigger Craiger, Charles Shively, commits a robbery and then kills himself when he cannot escape.

Other leading parts were taken by Beth Hamm as Carrie Pipperidge who marries the conservative Mr. Snow, played by David Wilkinson, Becky Bond as Mrs. Mullin who is the owner of the carousel, and Rosemary Wallen who is the understanding Nettie Fowler.

Rehearsing for the nights when they will wear their "old-fashioned" gowns are dancers Vicki Norris, Virginia Dickerson, Jackie Smitherman, Linda Gray, Sheila Stampfli, and Saundra Popejoy.

Shown in one of their impressive formations are the 65 members of this year's band. Unmistakable in their uniforms of black trousers, dark green jackets, and hats trimmed in white, they proved their ability at all performances. New to Chrysler High this year was their director, Mr. James Houston.

Band Features Precision Drills At Home Games

Drum major, Jim Wilson, and band director, Mr. Houston, check over the formation plans for a half-time show for a home football game.

The preparation of inspiring concerts and presentation of precision drills at home football games called attention to this year's Trojan band. For most of their appearances, they were joined by bandsmen from the Junior High.

Several members were first place winners in the Regional and State solo contests, and the band earned a rating of excellent at Ball State in April. Dwight Davis and Charles Shively were two of the twelve Indiana high school finalists for the honor of representing Indiana in the Robin Hood Band in the Parade of Roses.

The pep band could always be found at our pep sessions and basketball games, and they occasionally made appearances when the team traveled.

Orchestra Performs With College Musicians

Attending String Week-End at Ball State where they played with the Ball State symphony orchestra in a public concert was a highlight of the year for members of our orchestra. They also took part in the MidState Orchestra program at Connersville, with Martinsville, Connersville, West Lafayette, and Southport.

Our orchestra also took part in our school activities. They presented programs preceding Senior Vespers and played the traditional march for Baccalaureate and Commencement in June.

They joined with band and choir members to form the pit orchestra for the production of "Carousel," our spring musical. Some of our musicians participated in the district solo and ensemble contest at Ball State and won honors.

Discussing music arrangements which the orchestra will play are its officers Carol Clark, John Griffin, and Don Furbee. Mr. James McConnell was the director.

This year's A Cappella officers were Peggy Ooten, president; David Matthews, vice-president; and Beth Hamm, secretary-treasurer.

Although the production of "Carousel" in April and the performance of the "German Requiem" in May headed the list of vocal music activities this year, the $A$ Cappella Choir, under the direction of Mr. Gordon Gustin, has found time to give several concerts and other performances. They gave a Christmas concert at the Christian Church, entertained at various convocations, and sang for civic groups throughout the community.

These concerts served a double purpose for the Choir members. In addition to providing entertainment for students and adults, the programs provided a chance for the students to work with good, solid musical literature.

Hours of hard work go into each performance, and the finished product has never failed to bring honor to CHS.

Thespians Practice Production Techniques

Long hours of working on play production led to full membership in the International Thespian Society. Each apprentice earned at least 10 points before he became an active member.

Believing that the theater is still the best form of entertainment, the ten members of Thespians proved this by using their ability in costuming, applying make-up, and planning stage settings for the two plays this year. Besides enjoying their work, these students gained experience which developed their confidence.

Officers for this year were Bill Ratcliff, president; Ilene Whitton, vicepresident; Linda Alexander, secretary; and Roseanne Ginsburg, treasurer. Mrs. Grace Judd was their sponsor.

Curtain Call Production For '62 Is Big Hit

An hilarious comedy, "We Shook the Family Tree," was the Curtain Call production this year.

This production was given in November with Elsa Clift portraying Hildegarde, a 16 year old girl who was faced with the terrible problem of acquiring an escort for the biggest dance of the year. To add to Hildegarde's troubles, her mother tried to help by getting her a date for Prom with the boss's son played by Artie Schwenk.

Varied And Stimulating Convos Are Frequent

Honor blazers, crests, and certificates were awarded to scholastic leaders at our Achievement Day Convocation in September. The guest speaker, Mr. Hugh Maxwell Walters, discussed the importance of scholastic achievenent.

Three athletic convocations during the year honored those who participated in sports. Shown is Mr. Hay, our football coach, presenting a letter jacket to senior football player, Leon Jones.

We had several pep convos but the one at Sectional time was special. Here Mr. Lawson arouses our school spirit as only he can do, aided by cheerleader cuties Mr. Voelz and Mr. Ashton.

Everything from pep talks on scholarship to pep talks for victories on the hardwood was featured on our convocation schedule.

Our first all-school assembly last fall was Achievement Day, and we honored those with outstanding grades and saw four seniors receive academic jackets.

An honor day for football and cross country lettermen was held by the athletic department in November. Thanksgiving was the occasion for another November convocation when Rev. Thomas Luke of Lafayette gave a challenging message.

In March came the convocation honoring our wrestlers and basketball team. A highlight of this convo was the performance of two champion gymnasts from Ball State.

Mr. C. I. Craig of Delco Remy stressed the importance of good grades and a sound educational background for future careers as the Career Day speaker in March.

Our Easter program was held on Good Friday afternoon, and the spirit of the occasion was deeply felt. With May came the annual election of six varsity and two B-team cheerleaders and honors for those who participated in spring sports. On Honor Day, special recognition was given by the school and community to many students.

Mr. C. I. Craig urged us to build a firm educational foundation for our future.

Student office helpers have added much to the efficiency of our school this year as they have used part of their study period to serve in many ways. They delivered messages, collected attendance slips, recorded attendance, and were available when needed for other duties.

Other girls who were a real asset to the school were the receptionists who were on duty each period at the northeast entrance. These girls always greeted our visitors. Their helpfulness has gained a reputation of friendship for our school.

Library helpers each period added to the efficiency of the library. These students checked out books, gave aid to students who were unfamiliar with our library, and tried to maintain order for our librarian.

Foreign Student Day Promotes Fellowship

Pointing out his country and name marker to Susan Selke while another foreigner watches, is one of the foreign students from Pakistan. The huge world map, bordered with flags of the various countries which were represented, helped make our visitors feel welcome and at home during their one day visit.

Enjoying the informality of the open house held at the home of Jane White in the honor of our foreign guests are CHS students Mike McKechnie and Susan Hunter and foreign students from several countries.

Many interesting faces and costumes were seen around CHS early in March on our annual Foreign Student Day The 39 guests, students from Ball State or I. U., were warmly greeted by senior English students who served as hosts for the day. They showed our visitors to classes where all of us joined with them in discussions of education, government, and customs.

After school our high school PTA entertained our foreign guests with a coke party in the Student Center, and the visitors met senior hosts who took them home for dinner.

An open house, at the home of Jane White, preceded the Internationale dance. There the foreign students had a chance to dance and talk with us before presenting varied entertainment for our enjoyment.

With the end of the dance, came the close of another successful Foreign Student Day and the feeling of world friendship.

Early November found the senior TROJAN TRIBUNE staff members compiling and publishing the STUDENT DIRECTORY which contained names, addresses, and phone numbers of students and teachers. Later in the year the members of the staff, directed by Charles Shively and Mike McKechnie as co-editors and Miss McCord, Miss Halberstadt and Mr. Horney as sponsors, edited our 76 page literary magazine.

Themes, essays, short stories, and poems which were published had been submitted by students through their English classes. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors were all well represented with articles which portrayed fine creative thinking and outstanding writing ability.

'62 Rosennial Theme, 'The CHS Student’ Is

Ready for a meeting at the Indiana High School Press Association Conference at Franklin College are Dannie Selvidge, Nancy Harter, Donna Harris, and Frances Hinton.

A collection of pictures and stories representing the CHS student's way of life is featured in the 1962 ROSENNIAL. Using the theme, "The CHS Student," the staff, with the help of the counselors, conducted a survey to find out what the typical Chrysler High School student is like.

The fifteen senior members of the staff combined their talents as they planned lay-outs, wrote copy, took pictures, sold advertisements, cropped pictures, and balanced the budget - all a part of yearbook production.

Heading the staff this year as co-editors were Nancy Harter and Donna Harris. Dannie Selvidge and Frances Hinton, as business managers, kept our finances straight although it was hard to stay within our budget. Nancy, Donna, and Dannie attended the two-week workshop in yearbook production at I. U. last summer.

Six juniors joined the staff the second semester and began the tedious job of indexing the yearbook. They also carefully watched the seniors put together their sections so they could understand all phases of yearbook production. The editors of the 1963 ROSENNIAL were selected from this group in May.

Section editors of the 1962 ROSENNIAL were Barb Jarrett and Susan Selke, activities; Ginger Lowhorn, seniors; Carolyn Ozeretny, underclassmen; Cynthia Stamper, faculty; Joe Costello, Skip Wiesmiller, and John Sloan, sports; and Alton Marsh and Jane White, advertising. Helping us all was our staff secretary Millie Trent. Underclassman members were Marcia Montgomery, Vicky Fuller, Jon Williams, Marcia Keller, Artie Schwenk, and Suzie Sutphin.

Checking copy is a long, hard task for Cynthia Stamper, Alton Marsh, Jane White, Ginger Lowhorn, Millie Trent, Joe Costello, Carolyn Ozeretny, and Miss Halberstadt.

Cleverly Done With Pictures And Layouts

Skip Wiesmiller and John Sloan, working on the sports section, check over their word count with Susan Selke and Barbara Jarrett, co-editors of the activities section.

Indexing and making plans for their 1963 yearbook are Suzie Sutphin, Vicky Fuller, Marcia Montgomery, Marcia Keller, Artie Schwenk, and Jon Williams.

Studying the layout used in one of the many exchange papers from other high schools are Susan Jacobs, Don Miller, Susan Hunter, and Mr. Horney.

Many persistent reporters, two harried editors, a developer-drenched photographer, and a competent business staff worked together to produce the PHOENIX, our school newspaper, this year.

Behind each publication was a busy week of selling ads, planning layouts, assigning and writing stories, and meeting deadlines. The PHOENIX appeared each Friday with editorials, important news and sports, jokes, the school calendar, and the senior personalities. All of these presented a full picture of school life at CHS.

Also on Fridays, the staff's routine activity included folding over 1,000 copies of the PHOENIX, distributing them to the various classrooms, and mailing approximately 100 copies to other schools.

Sharp Cartoons, Pictures, And Make-Up

This year's PHOENIX staff was composed of Front Row: Mr. Horney, D. Planeaux, S. Hunter, P. Betz, P. Davis, S. Maze, S. Fleet, J. Janulis, J. Zimmerman, S. Jacobs,
M. Harry, M. Baker. Back Row: K. Goodwin, J. Baskette, G. Groves, S. Jordan, B. Joyner, D. Miller, J. Arnold, D. Morris.

Writing stories, checking on ads, and deciding what pictures to use are problems facing underclass members Butch Joyner, Judy Baskette, Judy Janulis, Susie Fleet, and Joan Zimmerman.

Looking over the finished product of their special eight page PHOENIX which was distributed on the first day of the Sectionals are Phyllis Betz, Deane Planeaux, Margaret Harry, and Kip Goodwin.

Are Features In Our Weekly School Paper

The co-editors Deane and Susan attended the I. U. Journalism Institute last summer where they learned much about news writing and layout. Working with them this year in important staff positions have been Judy Baskette, business manager; Susan Jacobs, news editor; Phyllis Betz, feature editor; Margaret Harry, society editor; and Don Miller, photographer. Reporters were Mary Baker, Joan Zimmerman, Sharon Maze, Patty Davis, Susie Fleet, Judy Janulis, Dave Morris, Jay Arnold, and Kip Goodwin. Mr. Larry Horney was their adviser.

The PHOENIX was printed in the school print shop by vocational printing students under the supervision of Mr. Bernhardt Beguhn. When it was delivered to the staff each Friday over 1,000 copies were folded and distributed to classrooms.

On the production staff for the PHOENIX were boys taking printing under the guidance of Mr. Beguhn. These students also were responsible for printing school stationery, passes, report cards, and other items.

Senior Carolyn Ozeretny shows the sweet smile and gay personality which brought her the title of Heart's Hop Queen as she is crowned by Student Council president, Billy Steele.

Couples whirled around in a romantic atmosphere created by the theme "My Valentine and $\mathrm{Me}{ }^{\prime \prime}$ as Student Council planning became reality at Heart's Hop.

The guests entered the transformed Girls' Gym through a large red heart trimmed in white lace. Carrying out the chosen colors, fluffy hearts in red, white, and pink adorned each wall; and red cupids decorated the guest table and serving table.

Entering through two large hearts the six queen candidates and their escorts met and were introduced. Excitement reached a peak as a little cupid, Jeff Perdew, presented the sparkling crown lying on a red velvet pillow to Billy Steele, Student Council president, who placed it on the head of radiant Carolyn Ozeretny.

Carolyn Ozeretny Reigns As Valentine Queen,

Waiting for the announcement of the Heart's Hop queen are the candidates-two from each class- and their escorts. They are Danny Shelton, Carol Brunes, Delbert Hinshaw, Theresa Brookshire, Don Kennedy, Pat Sears, Lana Bouslog, Butch Joyner, Marta Garbert, Bobby Fisher, Carolyn Ozeretny and Don Ulmer.

After each home football and basketball game as soon as the cheers died down, CHS students hurried to the Girls' Gym for a record hop. These dances were sponsored by various school organizations as money making projects.

Interest was especially high at several because of the traditional crowning of a king or queen. Although methods of selection, titles, and awards varied, the support of the students and the surprise of the winners made each a gala occasion.

Among the royalty were the Peppermint Twirl Queen, King Eskimo, Mr. and Miss New Castle, and Mr. and Miss DECA.

Junior Judy Hufford reigned over the annual Peppermint Twirl dance sponsored by FHA.

After-Game Dances Also Feature CHS Royalty

Elected by the entire student body to represent New Castle at Tourney Trot were Tommie Allison and Steve Harter.

Stanley Becker crowns Darry Hood and Pat Bittner as Mr. and Miss DECA. They were elected by students attending the DECA dance and received boxes of candy.

King Eskimo Steve Arnold is shown being crowned by Elsa Clift, secretary of Na tional Honor Society.

LORETTA OWENS

Greeted by a huge multicolored fan, guests at Ku Fu Ku Ban, Prom 1961, were captured by the Japanese atmosphere. This mood was created through several murals of geisha girls in their colorful native outfits. Trees adorned with delicate cherry blossoms centered each table, and an enormous Japanese lantern with draped purple and pink streamers was suspended from the dropped ceiling.

Excitedly awaiting the announcement of the Prom Queen are the candidates and their escorts Jim Childs, Loretta Owens, Marilyn Farmer, Kay Reese, Marcia Dalton, Bill Steele, Rosanne Ginsburg, Janet White, Pam Goodpaster, Susan Selke, and Phyllis Davis.

Queen Marilyn's Reign

Prolonging the suspense, vice-president Kay Reese introduced each candidate and her escort. Then each couple proceeded to the stage which was appropriately decorated with bamboo pagoda, Japanese lanterns, and branches of cherry blossoms.

Promptly at 11:00, the thrilling climax took place, when Marilyn Farmer received her crown and bouquet of Japanese mums from class president Bill Steele.

Looking on with admiration as the happy Queen, Marilyn Farmer, accepts her bouquet and crown of Japanese mums are Kay Reese, Bill Steele, Janet White, and Marcia Dalton. Marilyn was elected by vote of the junior boys.

Senior Gridsters Show Spirit And Desire

MIKE DAY Mike was invaluable with his hard tackling and blocking. "Jog" was used on both offense and defense and played a game of tough football.

KAY REESE Playing his first year of football, this 210 pounder doubled at guard and tackle position. The team was benefited by his great spirit and persistant drive.

Hard charging and hard fighting linemen were Phil Coursen, Kay Reese, John Sloan, and Mike Day. These JOHN SLOAN Another first year senior, John started at guard position. His opponents knew he never gave up and would fight to the last second of every game.

PHIL COURSEN Phil packed power and was valuable to the team both in spirit and physical ability. A line backer, he often confused the tough opposition.

SKIP WIESMILLER Another indespensible member of the squad, Skip served as manager for two years. He was always available and helped boost morale.

Despite Poor Record During '61 Season

MIKE OWENS Completing two years of varsity football, this senior quarterback was at his best. Calling signals was the chore for this hard hitting Trojan runner.

DON MILLER AIthough hampered by several injuries during the regular season, this varsity fullback showed much desire when he entered the contests.

GLEN MARCUM The hard defensive tactics and rugged play of this senior end were known and feared. Glen always made it tough on the opposition with key blocks.

LEON JONES A first string offensive and defensive end, Leon showed team spirit and desire. His fine pass catching and blocking made him a valuable asset.

ERIC HARTER A deceptive and effective pass target, this first string offensive and defensive end could be depended on for fine blocks, catches, and runs.

Senior backs and ends were Glen Marcum, Eric Harter, Mike Owens, Leon Jones, and Don Miller. These men carried the responsibility of Coach Hay's new offensive running and passing attack.

Employing many offensive and defensive patterns, varsity coaches Langan Hay, Curt Jones, Jake Pasman, and Jack Razor tried to find a winning combination. Although the season was not a winning one, the coaches continued to impress upon the boys the importance of desire and team spirit. This instruction was evident to loyal fans who watched practice and home games against Madison Heights, Wood of Indianapolis, Frankfort, and Noblesville. Even in defeat the team fought with spirit and determination.

The Trojans must depend on underclassmen to get back on the victory trail next season as they will lose senior lettermen Coursen, Day, Harter, Jones, Marcum, Miller, Owens, Reese, and Sloan. Among returning underclassmen lettermen will be co-captain Dave Morris and Bill Archey, who earned all-conference honorable mention, and a group of speedy backs and hefty linemen led by the other co-captain, Jon Williams.

The team was led by Mike Kenemer. Here he finishes in front followed by his teammates.

Underclassmen were the mainstays of this year's inexperienced cross country team which compiled a season record of 2 wins, 6 losses, and 1 tie. Coach Wilbur Veach depended on fine running from senior Steve Arnold; juniors Mike Kenemer and Jerry Brooks; and sophomores Steve Klein, Eddie Layne, and Howard Barnett.

Showing great effort, the squad won over Elwood, Rushville, and Muncie Burris. In a three way meet with Marion and Yorktown, New Castle placed second behind Marion. Our runners also were second behind a Middletown squad. At the conference meet, the team earned a hard fought sixth, and at the sectional the harriers placed fourteenth. Our team also traveled to the Southport Invitational where they placed eighth.

Grapplers Post Best Season In CHS History

Completing the most successful season in Chrysler High history, the wrestlers, under the very capable coaching of Curt Jones, finished with a fine 8 win, 5 loss record. The defeated were Carmel, Crispus Attucks, Greenfield, Lawrence Central, Madison Heights, Pike Township, and Richmond. The skillful matmen were encouraged by the support of the many spectators who attended each home meet.

After placing eighth in the conference, the team took fifth in the sectional at Richmond. Leon Jones became sectional champion in the 165 pound class with Bill Lewis, Larry Hinman and James Peavie also gaining honors. Three boys-Jones, Lewis, and Hinman-qualified for the regionals, with Larry Hinman placing fifth in the state.

Squad Is Led By Seniors But

Steve York - Often a starting forward, sophomore Steve rebounded with the best of the opposition. His ball handling and shooting improved with each game and was apparent in the Sectional.

Scott Sinnock - This fine sophomore forward improved steadily during the entire year, and by the season's end was performing well, often as a starter on both offense and defense.

Dennis Couch - One of the finest shots on the B team, Dennis, a sophomore, performed well, making points in crucial games throughout the season. His accuracy will be counted on next year.

Jerry Brooks - A good ball handler and defensive man, Jerry sparked the Colts to many victories this season and was given a position on the Sectional team to gain varsity experience.

Sam Taylor - This senior forward earned a 10 point average and an honorable mention in the NCC. Sam made shooting from the corner or underneath the hoop from the base line look easy.

Mike Marsh - Mike, a $5^{\prime} 8^{\prime \prime}$ senior guard, was the best outside shooter on the Trojan squad. Thrilling fans with his long arching set shots, Mike was especially accurate during the Connersville game.

Underclassmen Are Outstanding

Larry King - This sophomore forward proved to be a strong rebounder, and his fine shooting ability was evident throughout the season. Larry is sure to be helpful to future teams.

Butch Joyner - Being recognized for his aggressive all-around play, Butch, a junior, was chosen as a member of the first NCC team. His shooting average placed him third in the NCC.

Gary Arthur - A sophomore guard, Gary saw limited action this season, but he promises to be valuable to teams in the future with his accuracy from the field and his rebounding ability.

Bill Groves - Bill, standing $6^{\prime} 2 '$ ', was a rugged rebounder. This sophomore forward showed much improvement during the season and will be counted on for the next two years.

Eric Harter - 'Flash,' a fast and deceptive backcourt man, was always ready to boost the team effort. Stealing the ball, setting up teammates, and driving for lay-ups were Eric's specialties.

Steve Harter - Transferring from Mt. Summit, Steve brought to the squad a high talent for rebounding and shooting. With a 13 point average, Steve controlled the center spot.

Coaches Les Ray and Rex Brooks, with statisticians John Jacobs and Dale York, follow the play on the floor.

Although he had the smallest quintet in the North Central Conference, Coach Les Ray completed his second season as Trojan wach with a ten win, eight loss record in regular season play. The Holiday Tournament and Sectional, however, proved to be the difference between a fine season and an average one as the team was not able to manage a victory.

Although hampered by injuries near the end of the season, our Trojans downed such formidable opponents as Rushville, 74-69, Connersville, 64-60, Elwood, 69-52, and Logansport, 79-65. The Trojans also defeated Hartford City, Centerville, Madison Heights, Frankfort, Marion, and Muncie Burris.

This year's squad was composed of four senors, two juniors, and six sophomores. Leading in scoring this year was Butch Joyner, who also received recognition as first string all-conference guard. Sophomores Steve York, Scott Sinnock, Gary Arthur, and Larry King will be counted on to fill the vacancies left by Sam Taylor, who received honorable mention in the NCC, Steve Harter, Eric Harter, and Mike Marsh.

Taylor Receives Honorable Mention Award

The Trojans, though a relatively small team, were very effective rebounders as proved by Gary Arthur.

Rushville's Ted Lacy delays center Butch Joyner as he drives toward an attempted lay-up.

Long shot artist Mike Marsh thrilled fans all year with fine offensive and defensive tactics.

The agility and fine faking of senior Sam Taylor proved an asset to our team throughout the year.

Team Plays Well Despite Untimely Injuries

Scott Sinnock sees action under the basket while Steve York is fouled while fighting for a rebound.

Winning seven games in their first nine starts, the Trojan Colts completed their tough season schedule under the coaching of Rex Brooks. With a fine eleven win, nine loss record, the Colts looked especially impressive on their home floor. At home, they lost only two contests, one to Tech of Indianapolis and one to Lafayette. Their defeats of highly rated Logansport and Attucks provided the highlights of the season.

Aided by fine shooters, skilled ballhandlers, good height, and a strong bench, the Colts performed well during the entire season. This set of sophomores should provide a wellbalanced varsity team in the seasons to come.

Playing with the varsity in several games helped develop such boys as Gary Arthur, Jerry Brooks, Dick Callaway, Dennis Couch, Larry King, and Steve York. These boys could be called upon for good performances when playing with either the $B$ team or varsity.

For the second consecutive year, New Castle, with an outstanding 8-4 record, and an 8-2 NCC mark, became co-champions of the conference. Sharing top honors with them were Anderson and Logansport. With seven returning lettermen, Coach Rex Brooks guided the Trojan Nine to wins over Tech, Frankfort, Lafayette, Marion, Muncie, Centerville, Richmond, and Kokomo. The only losses came at the hands of Logansport, Madison Heights, Connersville, and Anderson.

Pitching for the Trojans was superior last year. Mike Marsh, hurling ace, won all but one of his games and was expected to lead this year's nine to many victories, along with Doug Sidwell, another accomplished pitcher.

The loss of seniors Doug Padgett, Mike Odom, Bill Baker, Monte Bennett, Joey Baughn, and Mike Williams will be offset by the batting and fielding of underclassmen Gary Stapleton, Mike Owens, Ron Kendall, John Mclver, Arvin Phelps, Butch Joyner, and Danny Shelton.

Junior Gary Stapleton, the team's first baseman, makes the putout on a Madison Heights player as right fielder Mike Marsh looks on. Hustling such as this helped the Trojans capture six close ones last spring.

Conference Championship In Two Years

Coach Rex Brooks plans strategy as his players prepare to take on a strong Madison Heights team.

Second Baseman Dan Shelton hits the ball solidly for a single which leads to another game in the win column.

Junior Leon Jones shows the perfect form which won him varsity points in his specialty - pole vaulting.

Bruce Woodward Sets New 4:34 Mark In Mile

Showing promise of becoming a conference power in the near future, our track squad was ably directed by coaches Wilbur Veach, Cecil Tague, Les Ray, and Jack Razor last spring. This year's team has depth in every event with fine underclassmen and lettermen filling the vacancies left by seniors James Skipper, Garvie Piercy, and Spencer Bavender, along with co-captains Duke Falck and Roy Garvin.

The final record last season showed four victories against two defeats in dual competition, a second place finish in the Noblesville Relays, a third in the New Castle Invitational, a fourth at the Muncie Relays, and a seventh in the NCC meet at Logansport. The squad picked up a third in the Sectional at Richmond and was represented at the Regional by Falck in the shot put, Skipper in the sprints, and Bruce Woodward in the mile. Woodward also represented New Castle in the Interconference Mile after establishing a new mark of 4 minutes, 34 seconds at the Muncie Relays.

Senior high hurdler Walt Jennings sets the pace in this short sprint to help the Trojan cause.

Sprinter Jon Williams finishes strong as he completes a hundred yard dash well ahead of the field.

Linksmen Rank High After Successful Season

Under the watchful eye of Coach Langan Hay, our golf team completed another winning season with a 10-2-1 record last spring. The golfers were paced by seniors Don Vivian and Tim Preble and sophomore Jerry Koger. They also received strong support from juniors T. L. Nelson and Jim Childs and sophomore Mike Fadely. The linksmen had wins over Richmond, Connersville, Anderson, and Muncie Central. In a three way meet, New Castle defeated both Marion and Connersville.

In Sectional competition at the Riverside golf course in Indianapolis, the linksmen were sixth with a total of 311. In the conference meet at the Frankfort Country Club, New Castle tied for fifth place with 338 strokes.

Members of the $B$ team completing the season with a 9-1 record were Edson Fadely, Ralph Hunnicutt, Steve Walls, Don Coomes, and Chris Paul.
