NEW CASTLE CHRYSLER HIGH SCHOOL • NEW CASTLE, IN 47362 • (317) 529-5212
VOLUME 77 • 1995

Pressure is a word that can have good or bad connotations. Students dealt with a variety of pressures throughout the year: from peers, from parents, from teachers, from themselves.

Pressure came in a variety of forms:

Pressure TO build
OR REMODEL THE
school

Pressure TO SERVE
NUTRITIOUS MEALS TO STUDENTS

Pressure TO do
SOMETHING NICE FOR SOMEONE ELSE

Pressure TO RESOLVE CONFLICTS
IN A CALM MANNER

Pressure TO build
TRUSTING RELATION-SHIPS WITH PEERS

Pressure TO
FUTURE

Pressure TO BE A POSITIVE ROLE MODEL FOR OTHERS

Pressure TO do
YOUR BEST IN EVERYTHING

Pressure TO MEET
CHALLENGES IN ATHLETICS

Pressure TO MEET
DEADLINES DURING BUSY TIMES

Pressure TO follow
YOUR DREAMS FOR SUCCESS

Pressure TO BECOME
WHAT YOU DO BEST

THE Pressure TO BE THE BEST THAT YOU CAN BE!

Student Life

The pressure of school work was made more tolerable because of the quality of student life at NCCHS.

Class and organizational officers kept busy planning activities for students. In addition, athletics provided many exciting moments. Students showed school spirit during wrestling meets, during the Trojan boys basketball game against Kokomo, during the girls basketball tournament, and in Hinkle Fieldhouse during the boys basketball semi state.

Several senior girls showed their Trojan spirit and athletic skills as they played flag football.

On the reverse side, seniors Chris Bell, Joel Harvey, Chad Tabor, Jeff Millikan, Jackie Stewart and Eric Hastings provided the fans with a little humor at the game as they led cheers.

"This is really fun," Hastings said. "I might pursued cheer-leading in college."

"I was a little embarrassed at first," Bell added.

The student government once again sponsored a talent show. Many students polished their acts and performed before a large crowd of their peers and teachers.

The MORP dance attracted students in their casual attire.

One of the grandest events of the year was the prom, held at Westwood Country Club. Students donned their best apparel and practiced their best behavior for the event.

"I really had fun at the prom," senior Jessica Groves said. "It was fun to be dressed up and to be with all of my friends."

Seven seniors honored at Achievement Day

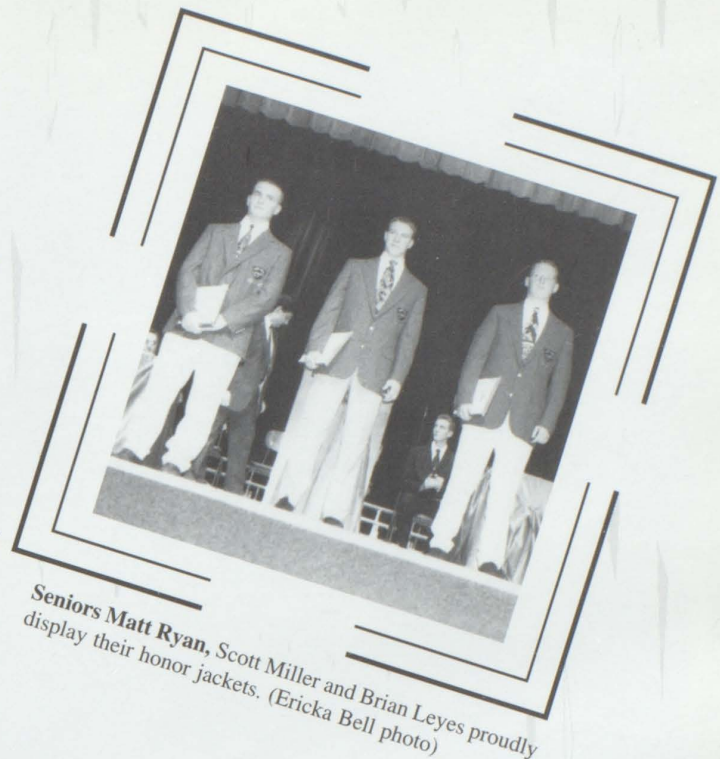

Seven NCCHS seniors were honored for maintaining an 11.0 (A) average for seven semesters of high school during the 35th annual Achievement Day Convocation. The honorees received green blazers displaying the school crest.

The seven honorees included Ellen Bishop, Benjamin Grant, Brian Leyes, Scott Miller, Frank Ryan, Patricia Schätzlein and Amy Van Arsdol.

"I knew that eventually hard work and long hours would pay off in the end," Miller said.

The featured speaker for the event was Indiana State Senator Beverly Gard, who stressed the importance of hard work and dedication in her address. She cited examples of dedication of former Presidents Kennedy and Lincoln, who failed many times but through dedication succeeded in life in the end.

At the end of the ceremony, student leaders lit the spirit bowl. Senior class president Niccole Edwards presented the spirit to junior class president Greg Cox, who then passed it to student government president Kristen Champion.

Other students honored for Good Grades

Seniors who held a 10.0 average received honor crests. These seniors were Hope Bowman, Charles Brenneman, Amanda Catron, Melissa Davidson, Mike Dudley, Niccole Edwards, Rachael Hopseker, Christina Legge, Matt Lundquist, Jenny Masengale, Kelly Rains, Jodie Roll, Ross Shauver, John Shupert, Amanda Sorrell, Emily Troxell and Alex Upchurch.

Juniors who held a 10.0 or higher average included William Aitchison, Wes Akers, Brady Armstrong, Misti Asberry, Laurie Bowman, Kelly Cole, Kim Cole, Greg Cox, Josh Estelle, Michelle Gunn, Marc McAllister, Laura Mullen, Brandy Patton, Laura Riehle, Brock Ryan and Ruth Ann Sorrell. They received framed certificates.

Getting a Head Start on the holidays

Adopt-a-Child

Too many news broadcasts and newspaper headlines suggest that our youth are too involved with violence and other undesired behaviors, but the Head Start Christmas Program brought together many organizations to show that many NCCHS teenagers are caring and wish to show their concern for others.

On December 8, 1994, NCCHS sociology students and the staff from Henry County Memorial Hospital provided Christmas presents for 100 Head Start youngsters in Henry County.

Over 120 students "adopted" a child this year to show the meaning of caring for others. This Christmas party has been an ongoing effort to provide the fun of sharing in this community for seven years. New Castle sociology teachers Harold Huffman and Jerry Koger coordinated the program.

"It was fun to be around little kids and know that they were excited for us to be there," junior Emily Haddin said.

This idea of sharing Christmas with young ones was started by the sociology class of 1982. What started out as a party for twenty children has now grown to over a hundred and past students have yearly shown up to give the love and meaning of Christmas.

Lending a helping hand

United Way

Each year NCCHS students participate in many activities which benefit the community.

This year students raised $1,467.34 for the United Way Fund drive. Second hour classes competed with each other to raise the most money per capita. They did this by developing creative ways to collect money, including selling items such as donuts.

Dave Clark's second hour class won the competition, followed by students in the classes of Miss Kuhn, Joy Robbins, Ms. Morgan, Mrs. Carmony, Mr. Burdsall, Bev Cronk, Mrs. Polk and Mr. Dicken.

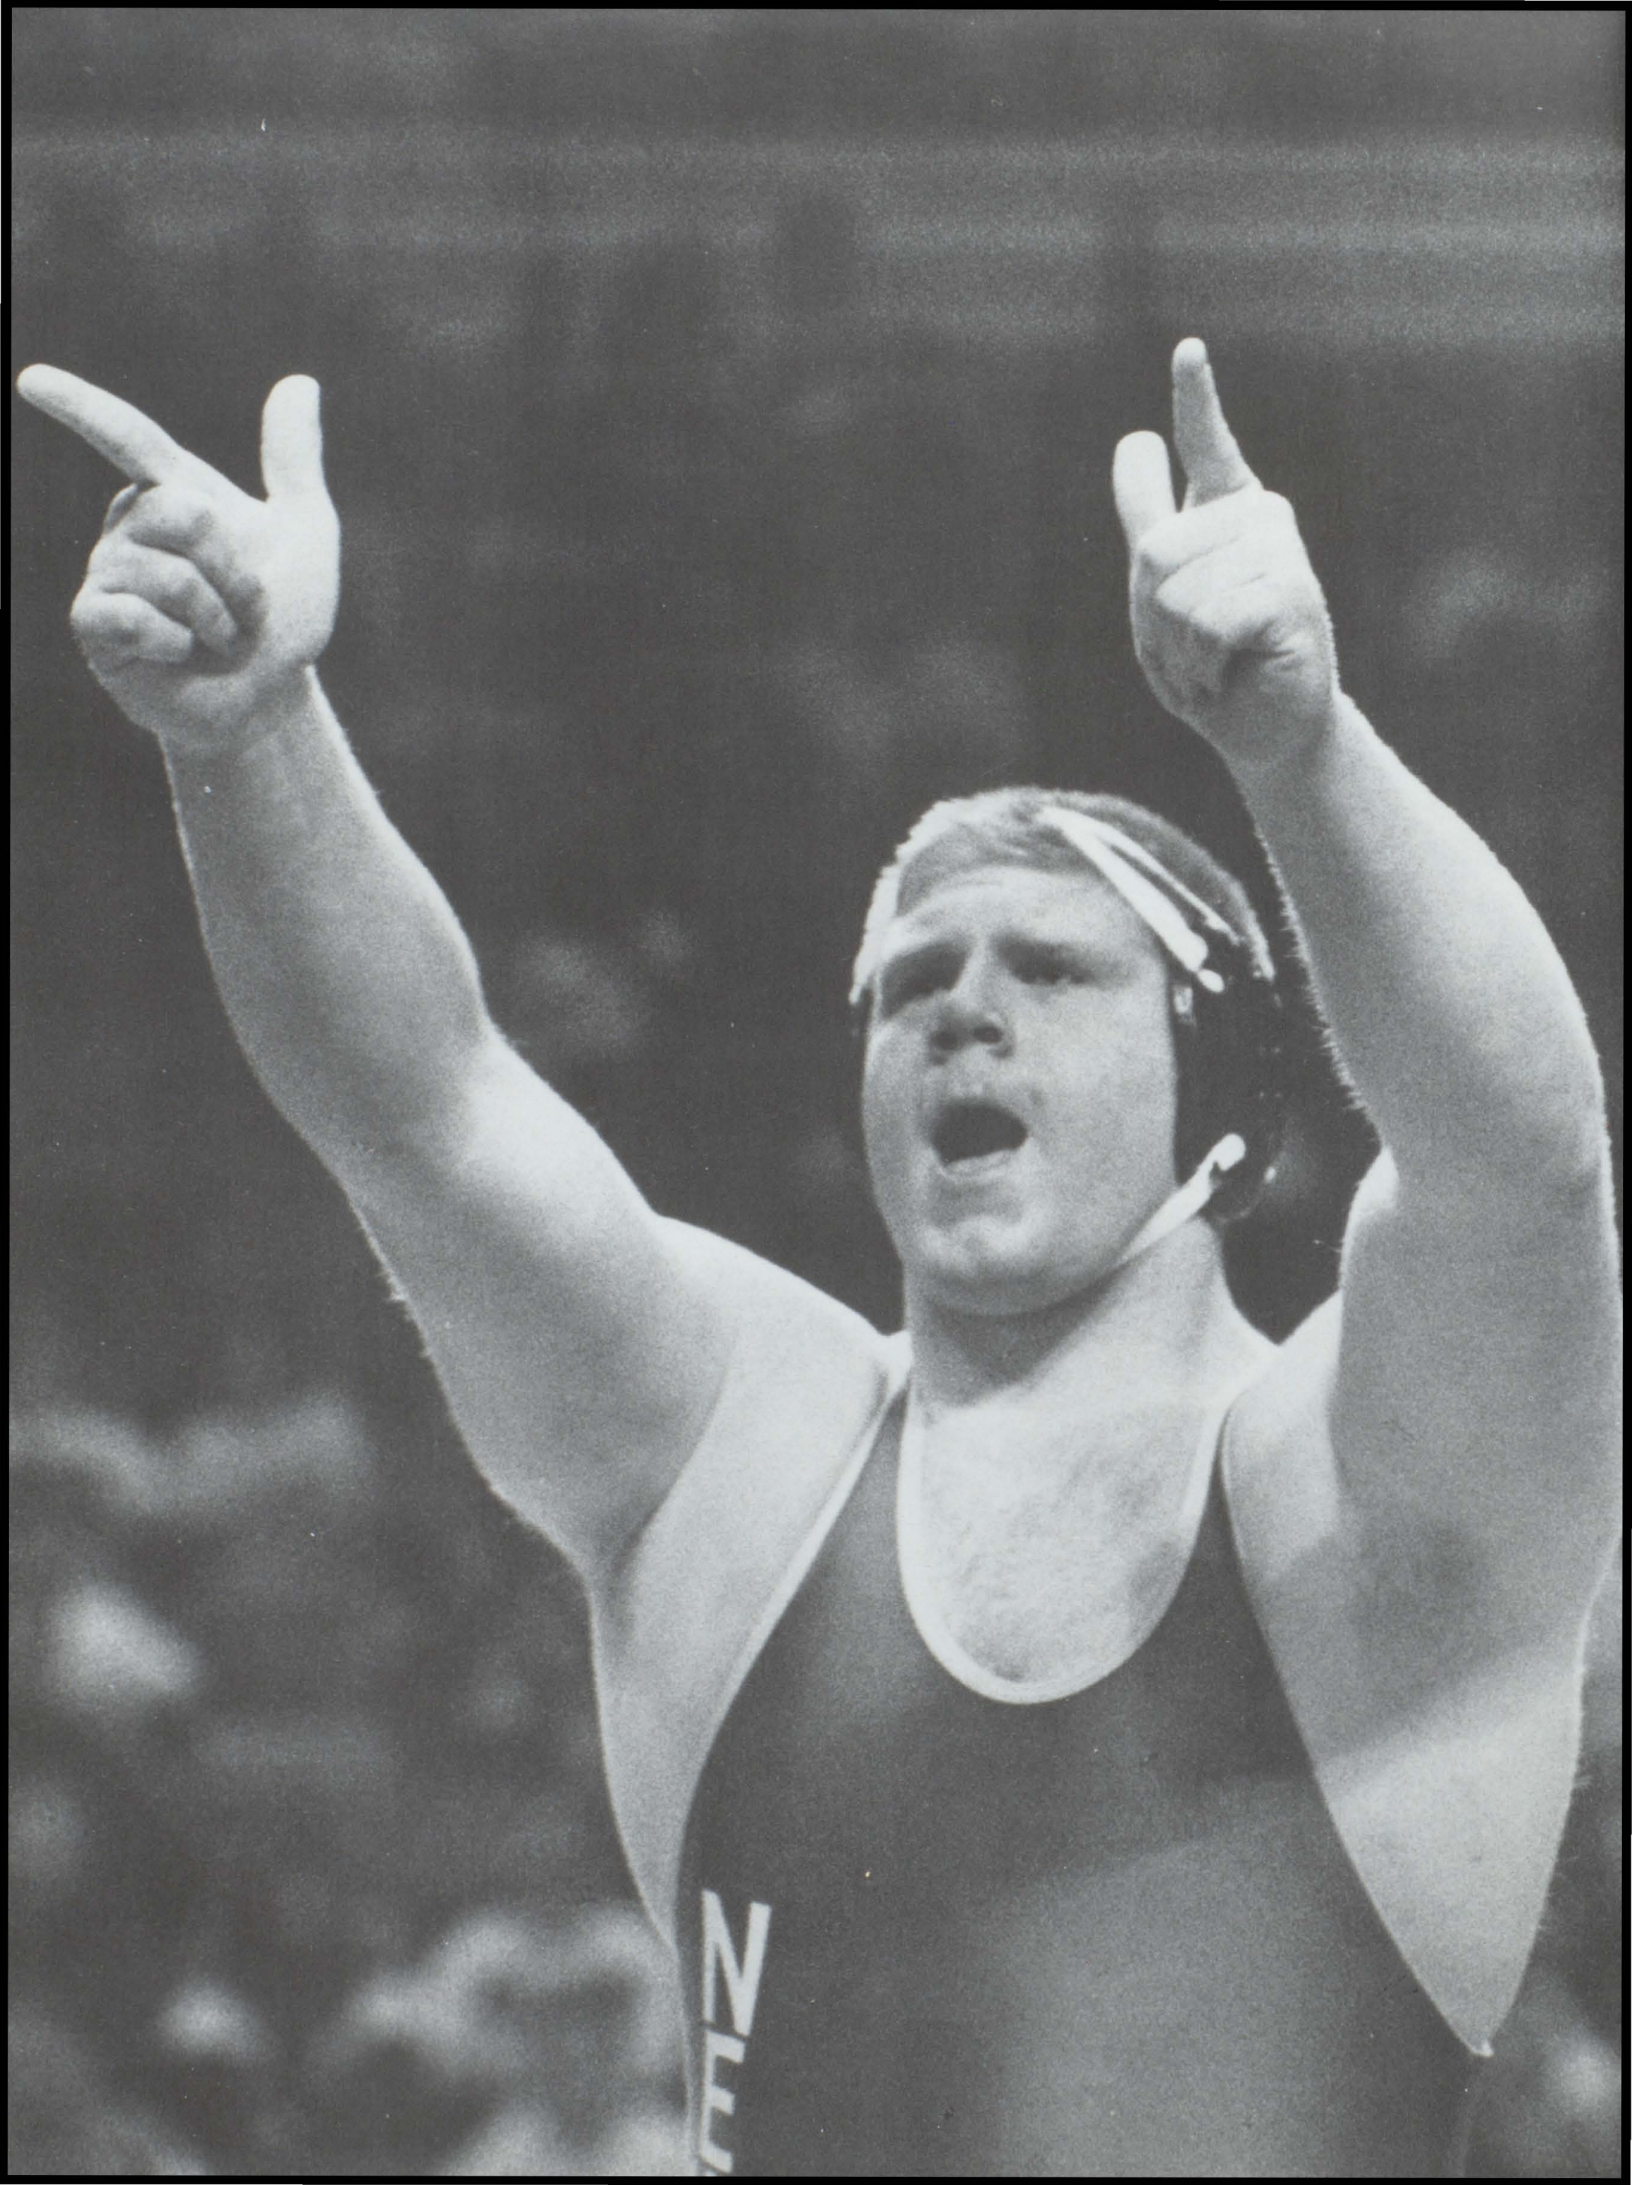

"The students really did give more from the heart than from the pocket," English teacher Steve Dicken said.

Students also answered the call for help with a gift lift, a canned food drive and a blood drive.

State Heavyweight Champion James Dickerson

They say that it is best to save the best for last — and in junior James “Bubba” Dickerson's case, that meant being the best in the state in the heavyweight wrestling class.

Dickerson pinned his opponent in the final match of the state tournament in 1:20 to claim the title. In fact, he pinned all of his opponents during the state finals. His was the only only pin in the final round.

He ended the season with a 35-1 record.

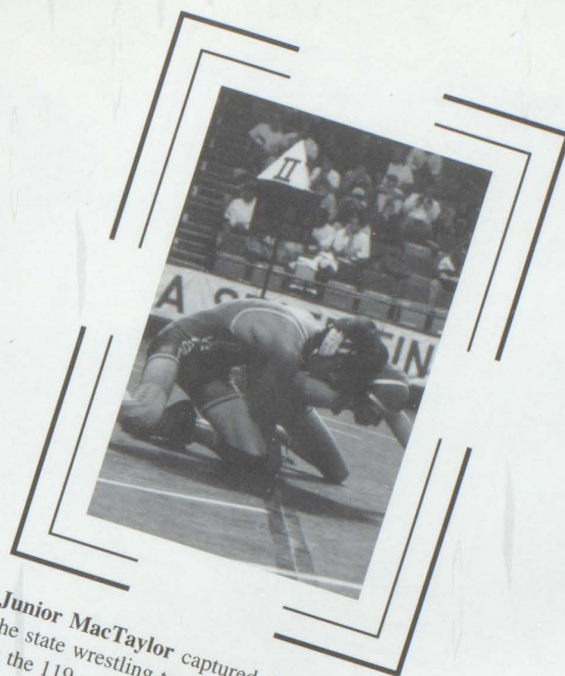

“There are a million things going through my mind,” Dickerson said of his victory.

Dickerson was the first state champion wrestler for NCCHS since Bill Lewis won the heavyweight title in 1963.

Four other Trojans competed in the state tournament, also. Junior Mac Taylor placed third in the 106-pound class, and senior Jayson Madden came in fourth in the 215-pound division.

Jeremy Platts and Josh Hardwick were defeated in the first round.

As a team, the Trojans tied with Belmont and Decatur Central for second place in the state with 60 points. Evansville Mater Dei won the championship with 82 points.

Two swimmers go to state Dudley & Carroll

Senior Mark Dudley swam his way to the IUPUI Natatorium and the state finals this year in the breast stroke. His teammate, Australian foreign exchange student Sam Carroll, qualified for state in the 100 butterfly.

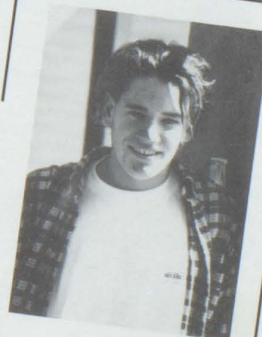

Dudley placed eleventh in the 100 yd. breast stroke, setting a new school record with a time of 1:00.93.

Carroll's road to the Natatorium took an unexpected turn when he contracted chicken pox the week of the state meet. His doctor released him to swim, however, and he placed 31st in the 100 butterfly.

Student leaders gather for Leadership Day

The cold weather didn't dampen the spirits of the students who attended the student Leadership Day at Memorial Park.

Cooperation, friendships, and teams made the day a success. Students selected for their potential leadership gathered at Memorial Park to participate in many challenging activities. The group performed a variety of skits and songs in a competitive atmosphere to understand how to work together.

Many students were apprehensive at the beginning of the session, but as the day wore on, they began to open up and feel more comfortable with their schoolmates.

"I thought it was great because everyone was working together, and you got to know some different people," junior Laurie Bowman said.

By the end of the day most people were glad they participated in this program. Most students said they left feeling better about themselves.

As junior Laura Mullen said, "It was really cold, but everyone worked together and we had a great time."

Students earn a living Employment

Many students had jobs, making it a challenge to balance their time and maintain their grades.

"I'm either working or doing homework," sophomore Christy Slover said. Slover said that she worked at Hills Department Store 25-30 hours a week.

Senior Nathan Simmons held two after-school jobs. When he was not at school he said he was working at Wendy's or at Bundy Tech.

"I can easily spend 50 hours in Bundy during a performance week, but usually only five hours in a normal week," he said. Simmons was an administrator for Bundy Auditorium.

Child labor laws limited the amount of time students under 18 could work during the school week.

Students clean up their act for

Fall Dance

The Westwood Country Club was filled with excitement just in time for the fall dance. The theme for this year's dance was "On the Dark Side of the Moon."

Students arriving at the dance were treated to valet parking by members of the New Castle Breakfast Optimist Club.

The dance gave many students a chance to have fun dancing and socializing with their friends and teachers.

"Mrs. (Bev) Cronk was the hottest one there," junior Brian Rainey said.

Students also remembered the dance performance of Mrs. Polk.

After the main part of the dance, the night didn't slow down. The Country Club provided dinner, more dancing and karaoke.

"I looked forward to afterwards," senior Jamie Shaw said.

The memories of the dance will remain in the minds of many NCCHS students. The night was filled with fun and excitement "On the Dark Side of the Moon."

Rhine teaches life lessons

Sam Rhine

Students were treated to a special convocation in the fall when geneticist Sam Rhine visited NCCHS. He addressed the issue of teen pregnancy.

Rhine stressed that pregnancy affects not one but three lives — the mother's, the father's and the baby's.

According to Rhine, teenage pregnancies are high risk for a number of reasons.

"The number one cause of mental retardation among babies of teenage couples is alcohol and drug abuse," Rhine stated.

Rhine also said that teenagers often don't know that they are pregnant until they are well into the pregnancy.

"Nine out of ten couples will not know when the mother is pregnant," he said.

TMB returns to Hoosier Dome

Band State Finals

The Trojan Marching Band started another winning season at band camp in June. They worked through the hot summer until freezing temperatures arrived. The band began the season with a high goal in mind — to win a state title.

"It takes dedication to win a state championship," Band Director Mark Middleton said.

When tournament season arrived, the TMB travelled to Elkhart for the regionals. Although rain fell throughout the contest, the TMB finished fourth, which entitled them to compete for a state championship.

"It is sunny and 70 degrees in the Dome," Middleton said.

When the day of the finals arrived, the band did several run throughs, then went to the Dome.

"I was nervous when we got there," senior Jenny Caldwell said.

"I felt full of pride and energy and power and sadness all at the same time," said senior Laura Cronk.

The band finished fifth at state.

Where do you draw the line

Church vs. State

The theme of the competition program for the TMB this year centered around religious songs.

The separation of church and state is always a hot topic in education. Religion is a personal value that everyone cannot agree on.

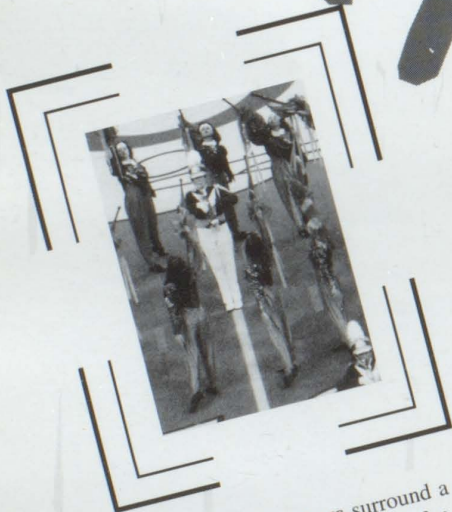

Where is the line drawn?

Public schools are not allowed by law to incorporate religion into their daily routine. Religious material may be used in public schools, however, if the focus is on something other than the religious content.

"If the literature is musical and will lend itself to visual enhancement, it is acceptable by any standards," band director Robert Shauver said.

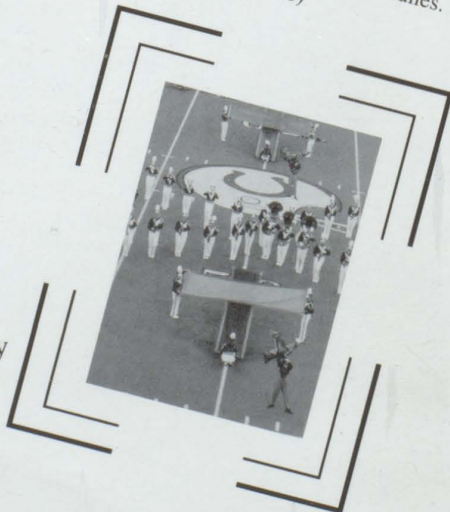

"Music becomes a work of art," Local attorney David Copenhagen said. "The fashion in which the music is played gives the context."

Students cut loose for Spirit Days

The success of the Trojan boys basketball team meant a lot of fun and games for the NCCHS student body during spirit days.

Student government sponsored many activities in the weeks prior to the IHSAA tournament weekends so that students could show their support for the team and have a good time.

During both lunch periods students could participate in activities such as tug of war contests, banana eating contests and lifesaver passing contests. Each class received points throughout the week for their participation, with winners announced at the end of each week.

The hallways displayed Trojan pride, also, with brightly painted signs, streamers, and balloons hanging on the walls and ceilings.

Many students demonstrated their support by dressing up for dress-up days. The themes for the days ranged from disco day to geek day to funny shoes day to green and white day.

"We should have won for green and white day. It was fun, though," sophomore Jeremy Motl said. Motl and classmate Jeremy Hoots painted their bodies for green and white day.

Rosennial students visit Kansas & Missouri

Twelve Rosennial students boarded a Southwest Airlines flight in late November and headed for Kansas City, Kansas and Marceline, Missouri to visit two Herff Jones yearbook production plants.

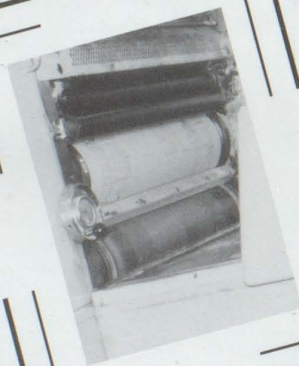

"A lot happens to our book after we send in our work," sophomore Jeremy Brown said. "I had no idea that it was so complicated."

The group, accompanied by Herff Jones Representative Chris Frick, toured the facility where the Rosennial is produced and met the people who actually put the book together. They also visited another plant in Mission, Kansas where they met with a professional artist and designed a cover.

The trip was not all work, though. The group visited several Kansas City attractions such as the Hallmark Visitors Center, Crown Center Shopping Mall and the Plaza.

"Shopping at the Plaza and Crown Center was great, and seeing how the yearbook was put together was also fun," senior Erica Wert said.

Two-Time Project XL State Winner

Robert Alford

Junior Robert Alford earned his second Project XL state title in the fine arts category in March. His work was also named "Best of Show" for the contest.

Alford designed a sculpture which depicted his image using an overhead projector. In the design he was being pulled through the projector, which was then projecting his image on a screen.

"I wish more people would enter the contest," Alford said.

Senior Rachael Hopseker also made it to the final round, although her poem did not place in the top three.

Senior Stephanie Lewellen's poem made it to the semifinal round.

Project XL is designed to encourage students to express themselves through art, writing, and music. This year's theme was "Project yourself into the future in a positive way."

Farm Bureau Insurance sponsored the competition.

After the Project XL competition was over, Robert found success as a member of the NCCHS boys track team. (Julie Lyon photo)

Shot heard round the state

Chad Tabor

In the semistate championship game, with one second left before the end of the first half, senior Chad Tabor took a last-second shot — a 72 foot shot — that was nothing but net.

"Well, to start off, I wasn't going to shoot the ball," he stated.

The shot received attention from New Castle fans and from ESPN and CNN television networks.

The game was memorable for seniors because, according to Tabor, "It was our last game in a Trojan uniform. I wouldn't trade the memories for anything."

Tabor was named to the All-Tournament teams by many reporters, including those at the Courier Times, Muncie Star, and the Indianapolis Star. He also said that he was contacted from several colleges who saw his post-season play.

Although Chad received many congratulations for the shot, he said that he still wishes that the shot would have counted ten points instead of three so that the Trojans would have advanced to the State Finals.

Seniors honored on Recognitions Night

Over $73,000 in scholarships and awards were distributed among members of the Class of 1995 at the annual Recognitions Night program.

Monetary awards were given for scholastic achievement, athletic excellence, positive attitude, extracurricular involvement, and community service.

Students with perfect attendance received certificates. Senior Tabathia Knost received a standing ovation from the audience and her classmates as she was recognized for 12 years of perfect attendance.

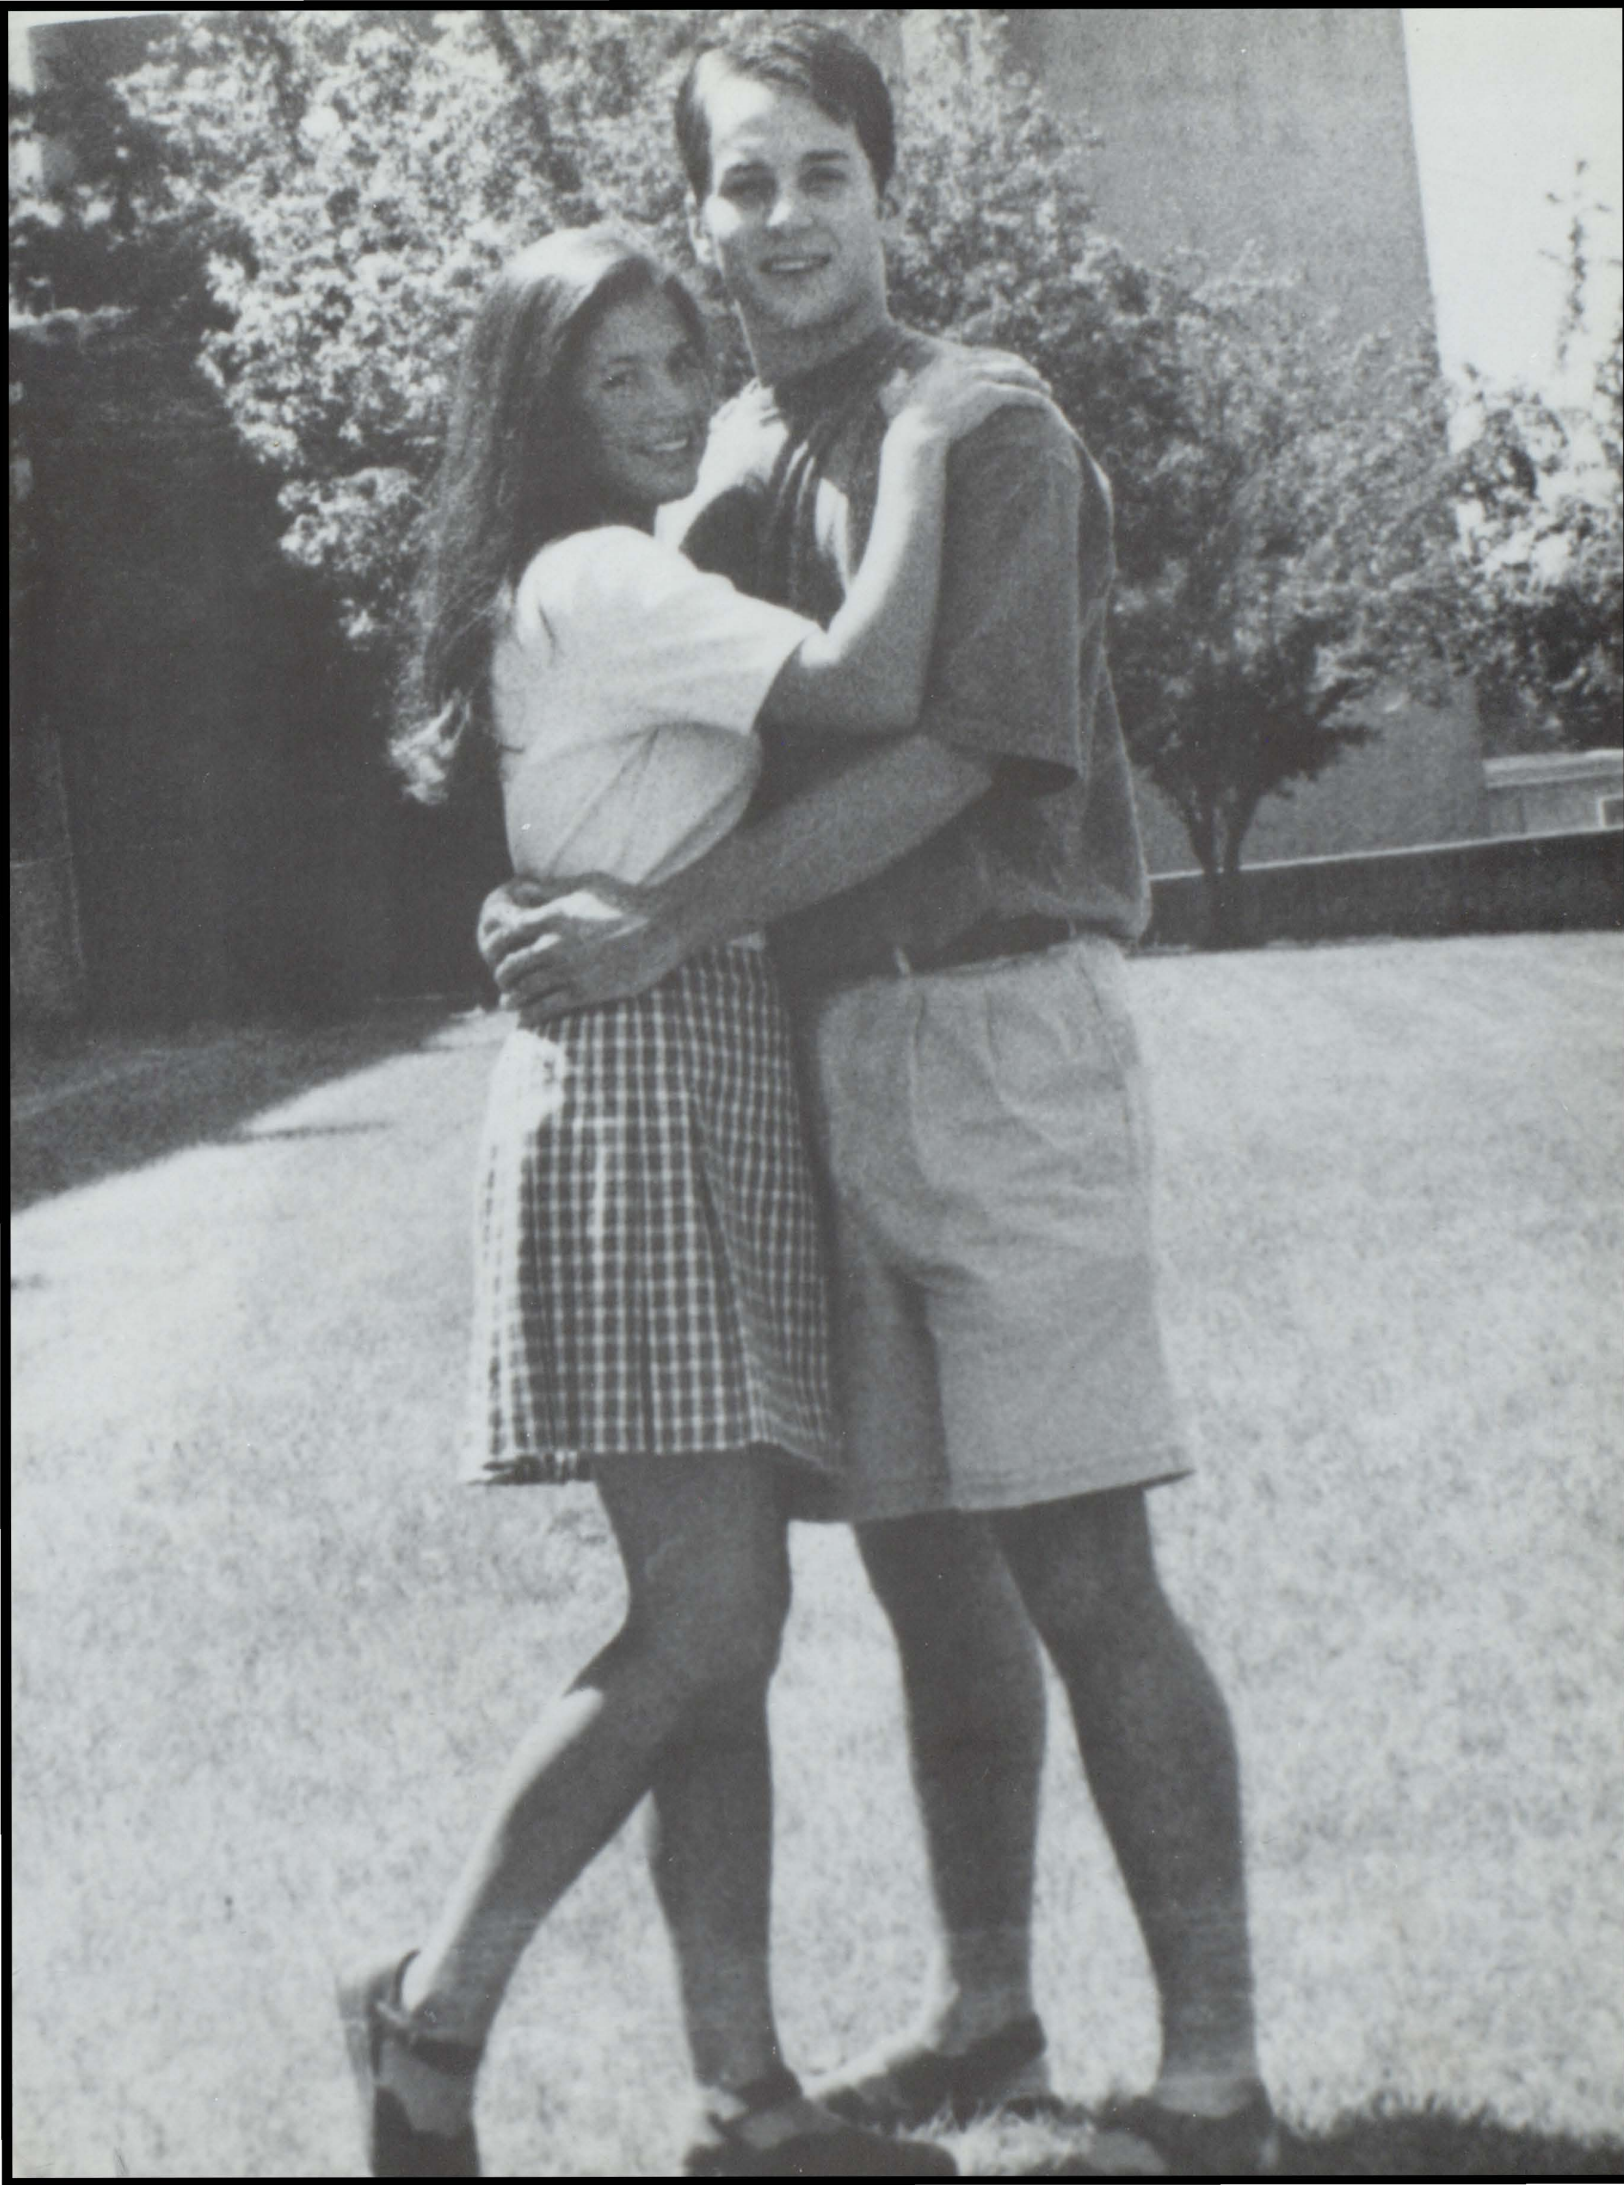

At the end of the evening, senior class officers gathered on stage with leaders of the junior class and student government to pass on the spirit of NCCHS.

Seniors Tricia Schätzlein and Brad Chamberlin prepare to say farewell as they anticipate graduation night. Schätzlein finished her senior year with the second highest grade point average, thus earning the title of class salutatorian.

After dark students cruise to Night Club

Graduation is an emotional time, as these seniors know all too well. (Ericka Bell photo)

Some halls of NCCHS quickly turned into a scene from the Love Boat after the graduation ceremony.

Seniors received passports for themselves and one guest to celebrate graduation with an all-night party. Many parents, community members and local businesses donated time, money and supplies for the evening, which stressed having a good time on a simulated cruise ship.

Students could dance in an Arctic dance hall, dine in a Caribbean hut, pass through scenes of tropical paradise, and play games in the game room.

One popular new attraction was a big velcro jumping wall. Students put on a special outfit and jumped on the wall, sticking to the surface.

Night club offered students one last chance to be together before going their separate ways.

April Bertram (1976 - 1994)

Tragedy struck the senior class early last summer when senior April Bertram was killed in an automobile accident. April and her boyfriend, James Anamone, were struck by a drunken driver while they were heading home on State Road 38.

According to April's friends, she enjoyed a number of things, from cruising Broad Street on the weekends with friends to spending time with her family, friends and James.

"April put her friends before guys and would break dates to be with her friends if they needed her," senior Ericka Bell said.

Another of April's friends, Carrie Sipe, said, "April loved to sing opera and loved all Monte Carlos, especially the one she had."

April was on the speech team and had played drums in the band. She planned to attend college after high school to become a teacher.

"April was a great person and friend," Sipe said. "We will all miss April a great deal, and we'll never forget her."

Sheila Polston & Chad Tabor

Spotlight
ON SENIORS

Sheila Polston and Chad Tabor love playing basketball - so much that they took their talents into the international arena last summer. The pair travelled with the International Sports Exchange to compete against Chinese athletes in Beijing, China.

"We were there for ten days," Tabor said. "We made a lot of new friends during that time."

During their stay they visited such sites as the Lama Temple, the Temple of Heaven, Tienanmen Square, the Summer Palace, and the Great Wall of China. They also sat in on classes at a Chinese middle school.

Tabor said his team played a total of four games. He said that his team averaged a winning margin of about 30 points.

"It was a really good experience for

Misty Major & Oprah

Senior Misty Major and her brother, Matt, appeared on Oprah last summer. They went on the show to tell their story of the pressures children face when they worry about the health of a parent.

In Misty's case, her stepfather, Jim Jackson, had had three heart attacks, but he wouldn't go to the doctor. Misty, Matt and their mother feared that they might lose Jim if he did not start taking better care of himself.

Misty said that she wrote a letter to Oprah describing her concerns. Then producers from the show called to get the full details of the situation.

"Everyone was really nice," Misty said.

Misty Major and her brother Matt appeared on the Oprah show last summer.

Ellen Bishop

1994-95 school year.

Ellen's list of accomplishments is long.

She placed first in all but two golf meets this year, and she made it to the state meet for the second time in her career.

"Making it to State the second time was a thrilling experience" she said. "It shows that I worked hard, and I felt like I deserved it."

Throughout her career, Ellen gained notoriety in the North Central Conference — finishing as NCC medalist three times and making the all-conference team four years in a row.

During the summer Ellen travelled the state playing in junior golf tournaments.

Ellen's success was not limited to the golf course, however. Her hard work in the classroom brought rewards, also. She was a top student in her senior class, and she was a member of National Honor Society.

In the fall, she received a green blazer at the Achievement Day Convocation for maintaining an 11.0 or higher grade point average during her high school career.

Ellen planned to attend Northwestern University — to continue her studies and possibly her passion for golf.

Academics

Perhaps the biggest challenge students faced in school was to keep up with the work in their classes. Students spent seven periods a day doing schoolwork, either in classes or in their study halls.

A couple of new teachers joined the staff this year. Christina Emig came over from Parkview Junior High school for one hour a day to teach a beginning foods class.

Another Parkview teacher, Doris Addington, returned to NCCHS to teach a French I class.

Also, Sandy Plyley replaced Greg Dorr in the Math Department.

Many students moved to and from New Castle, too, throughout the year.

Technology continued to be emphasized in many areas. Noncollege-bound English classes were revamped to reflect the state Tech Prep requirements.

The Home Ec. Department was officially renamed the Family and Consumer Sciences Department. A new class was added in that area, Orientation to the World of Work. The semester class gave students a glimpse of what the real world was all about.

"I really like the class," junior Anna Thornsberry said.

Several new computers were added to the library, also. This allowed students to access updated versions of software and to work on more powerful machines.

Adding A CREATIVE FLAIR

Black, white, blue, green, red, and yellow.

For many NCCHS students these colors held a special meaning.

They hold the key to their imaginations and self-expression. Creatively transforming ideas into visual reality was a hard but enriching job that art students tackled head-on.

No matter what their medium was, expression was their goal. Sometimes it was frustrating, while other times it was invigorating.

"I enjoy the personal freedom to express my feelings in my own way," senior Jill Dishman said.

This expression was much more than the standard stick figure.

Junior Robert Alford earned statewide recognition for his artistic talents when he captured his second straight title in the Project XL contest. Not only did his sculpture win first place in its category; it also was named the "Best of show" for the entire contest.

Alford's sculpture depicted himself with an overhead projector, beaming pieces of himself on the screen, and thus demonstrating the theme, "Project Yourself Into the Future"

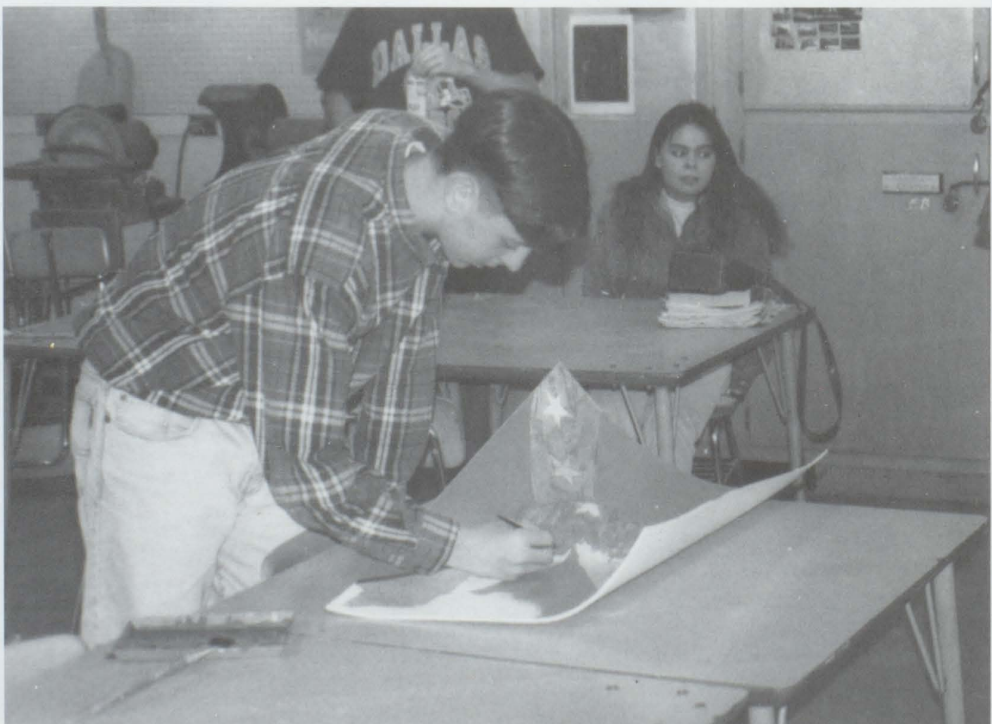

From self-portraits to basket weaving art students learned that creativity and self-expression were the most important tools in creating art.

Working Toward A LIVING

Things changed in the E wing this year.

Last summer the American Home Economics Association changed the name of Home Economics Departments nationwide.

The new name, Family and Consumer Sciences, showed that the focus has changed to stress family relations and living skills.

Enrollment in the department reflected a change over the past few years, also, as more boys enrolled in the classes.

Foods class changed, with less emphasis on cooking and more how food preparation could be an art.

Parenting students learned the keys to raising children: love, support, guidance, encouragement and self-esteem. Many times the class turned out to be a therapy session. Not only did they learn how to deal with their children in the future, but also many of them began to understand their own parents.

Child development classes explored conception and prenatal care. Next, they examined the miracle of birth. Finally, they followed up with post-natal care and the first six years of life.

Students learned that pregnancy isn't all fun and games, thanks in part to a new tool — the empathy belly. Students, with parental permission, strapped on the belly and actually felt the weight and pressure a pregnant woman experiences.

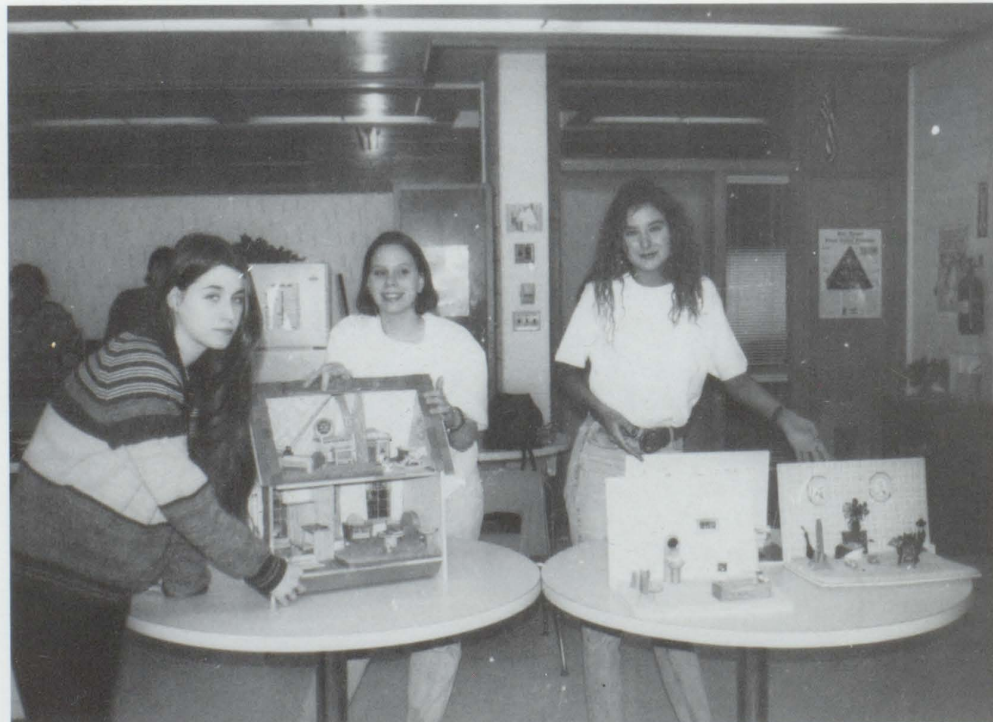

The time had come, and many students realized the importance of learning living skills. The Family and Consumer Sciences Department was prepared to teach these important skills.

LEARNING FOR A LIFELONG PROCESS

Physical education and driver education were two of the most memorable classes in a student's high school career.

No one will ever forget dressing in p.e. clothes or exercising in the middle of the day.

According to many p.e. students, running laps was the worst part of the class.

Phys. ed. classes used team sports, individual sports, and weight training to emphasize lifetime fitness.

Lifetime fitness, although unpopular among high school students, in the long run is one of the most profitable lessons anyone could learn, according to p.e. teacher Bev Cronk.

Out on the road driver education students learned how to function safely behind the wheel of a vehicle. The most dreaded part of driver's education was the infamous "brake" (on the passenger side).

One second students were driving happily down the road, and the next minute—BOOM! they were stopped cold in their tracks.

Both p.e. and driver ed. stressed safety — in the car and in their lives.

BREAKING COMMUNICATION BOUNDARIES

"It's a small world after all."

That song, made popular by the Disney Corporation, got the Foreign Language Department's message across.

In this day and age being bilingual is proving to be very important. Foreign language teachers were prepared to equip NCCHS students with an extra means of communications through learning and using another language.

Not only did foreign language students learn how to speak the languages, but they also studied the cultures associated with the areas which use the languages.

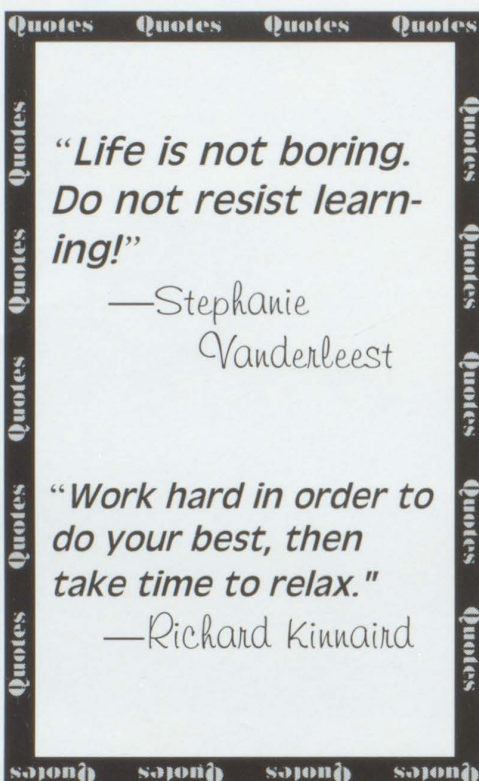

Music, art, literature and films allowed students to get in touch with their foreign counterparts.

Geography, conversation, culture and grammar combined to give students well-rounded exposure to a foreign means of communication.

"Foreign language opens your mind to other cultures and teaches you that Americans aren't the only ones on this planet," sophomore Julie Lyon said.

Another important aspect of foreign language study was learning that we were just like everyone else on the planet. The only thing holding us back was the great language barrier — a barrier being broken by the foreign language teachers and students.

BUSINESS keeps up with CURRENT TRENDS

The world was changing right before our very eyes, and nowhere was that more obvious than in the Business Department.

Disappearing were the days of shorthand and typewriters.

Instead the curriculum reflected the need for students to learn the latest trends in technology.

From accounting to keyboarding, from computer applications to business management, students gained knowledge needed for the future.

In this hi-tech world, understanding computers was a must.

Not only did teachers teach from books. Students gained hand-on experience in everything from key-boarding to decorating a business office.

Nancy Oakes' business management students organized a crew to redecorate their classroom to give it a more "business-like", or professional, appearance.

"It's a blast," sophomore Jeremy Brown said. Working with computers was not only necessary, but many students found them to be a source of fun.

Ready for the World of WORK

Machines and high school students — what do they have in common?

Industrial tech students could tell you what they have in common.

These students learned every day how to operate specialized machinery and special equipment.

Preparing for the world of work, technical school or college is the aim of the work-ready students.

Industrial tech. classes allowed students to get a taste of the world of work by getting hands-on training in areas such as electronics, drafting, photography, and woodworking.

Some classes emphasized how

The School is ALIVE WITH THE SOUND of MUSIC

The music department is famous for its sounds.

Even though these sounds may have sounded strange at times, they must have been good because both branches of the department received numerous awards this year.

Both the bands and the choirs spent endless hours practicing for the numerous concerts and convocations throughout the year.

The Marching Band received state recognition when they defeated rival Anderson Highland in the state finals competition at the Hoosier Dome and brought home a fifth place trophy.

"Marching my final show at the RCA Dome was neat," senior Justin McGraw said.

The band also performed their award-winning field show at all home football games.

During the second semester the band split into concert band and wind ensemble.

On the other side of the hall the choir explored many different types of music. The four choirs sang traditional Negro spirituals, folk songs, musically arranged poetry, and other selected songs.

The most important part of band and choir was performing. Even though this caused extreme nervousness in some performers, these groups came through with flying colors.

So Tell Us - WHAT'S YOUR ANGLE

From calculus class to geometry class, lines, functions, and inequalities were discussed and worked every day throughout the math department.

Many students enrolled in as many math classes as they could throughout their high school career, and they were guaranteed one thing: homework almost every night.

"It's easier if you actually do your homework and study," sophomore David Thrasher said.

NCCHS offered a wide selection of math courses for math lovers.

Serious math students met after school occasionally to take the math league contest.

One question that many people often asked was, "How do you study for a math test?"

"Going over my notes and doing a couple of sample problems," is how sophomore Aubrey Thompson prepares for her tests.

"During class, I ask questions," sophomore Vicki Dobbs added.

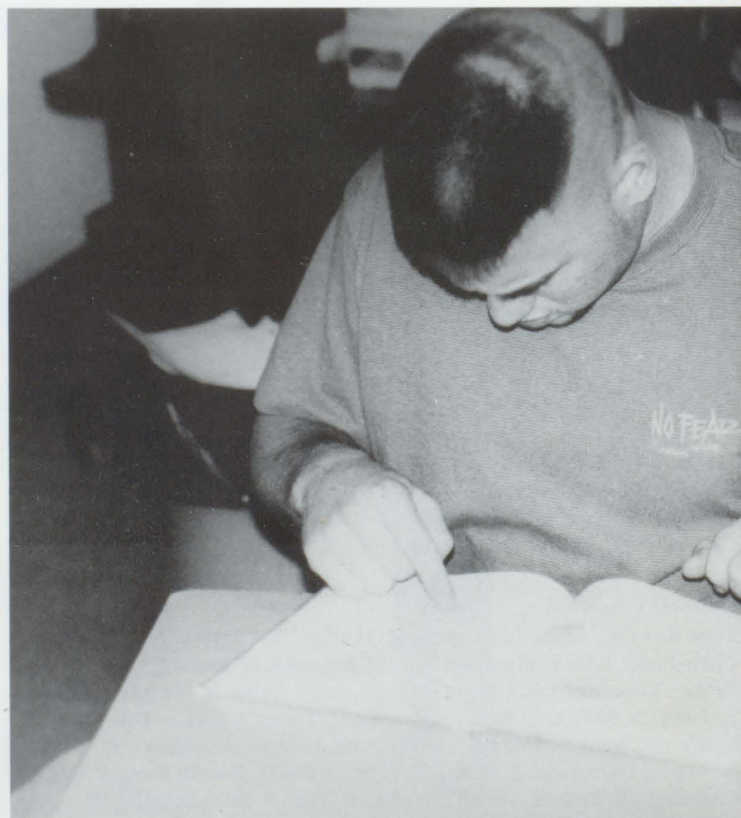

Whatever their study habits were, it was still a mathematical mystery to the many people around the world.

NEW GANG OF SCIENCE STUDENTS EXPLODES

This year a not-so-new "gang" made itself known—the SCIENCE GANG!

The science gang used their noggins and showed that smart is "cool".

Part of the gang consisted of biology students.

"Biology is intellectually stimulating," sophomore Julie Lyon said, "but it can get boring at times."

The main concentration of study was directed towards the basic functions and traits of life. One of the best ways to study life was to dissect animals. To some students the dissection was "gross and yucky," but to others it was "cool".

Two other parts of the gang were the chemistry and physics classes.

"Chemistry was just too 'formulatic',” junior Ashley Farnsworth said.

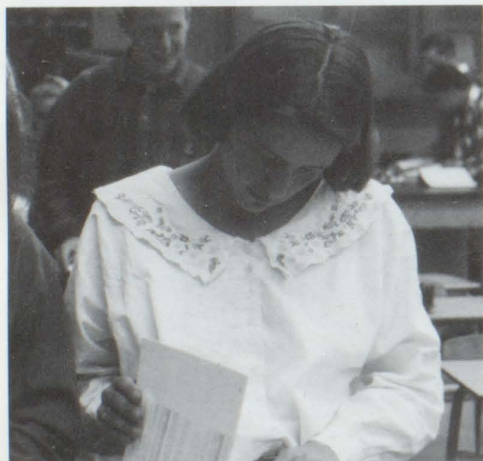

Students credited physics teachers with making the labs and lectures fun.

According to students, these "charming, witty, not-so-graceful teachers" entertained their students while they taught.

The lessons the members of the gang learned were very interesting and pertinent. The applications of science may not have been immediately apparent to students, but understanding is the first step in a whole world of knowledge.

This gang was adventurous enough to explore that world.

Take It to the LIMIT

There was only one place where freedom and communism were combined: the social studies department.

One second you were in the U.S.A. experiencing democracy and free enterprise.

The next second you were flung to the outermost parts of the world where enslavement and capitalism were the rule of the day.

Social studies teachers prided themselves in being able to provide their students with a wide variety of activities.

Sociology students hosted the Head Start children's Christmas party.

Psychology students also worked with children and learned about their development at the same time.

Junior Achievement Economics classes founded and operated their own companies, selling t-shirts, key chains, and stock. The hands-on experience also gave them monetary enrichment.

Mrs. Sorrell's history students displayed their creative talents by carving pumpkins of historical figures at Halloween.

This group definitely took learning to a different level. Where normal classes left off, social studies began. Surpassing the normal bounds was something they did unlike anyone else.

THESE STUDENTS ARE MORE THAN SPECIAL

Here at Chrysler High School many students face the everyday pressure of writing the perfect paper or getting that math problem worked out just right.

But at the other end of the school students are faced with a different kind of pressure.

Special education students studied vocational skills, social skills and everyday living skills.

The special students had the opportunity to attend many classes which paralleled the regular academic classes.

Adaptive p.e. was one such class. In this class, the students worked on their motor skills by playing games.

They also worked with a vision consultant and a speech teacher.

Some students in Beth Hobbs' classes held afternoon jobs at local businesses, such as Wal-Mart.

According to Special Needs teacher Margene Groce, most of the students entered the work force at places like Raintree Industries after they get out of high school.

"I thoroughly enjoy my job," Groce said. "They're a really great bunch of kids; you get really attached."

"I love the wide variety of choices I've got," junior Tracy Wymer said about the clubs at NCCHS.

There were, indeed, many opportunities to belong to any one of the several organizations that existed at the high school. These groups ranged from service organizations such as Ocatagon Club to religious based groups such as SFC and FCA.

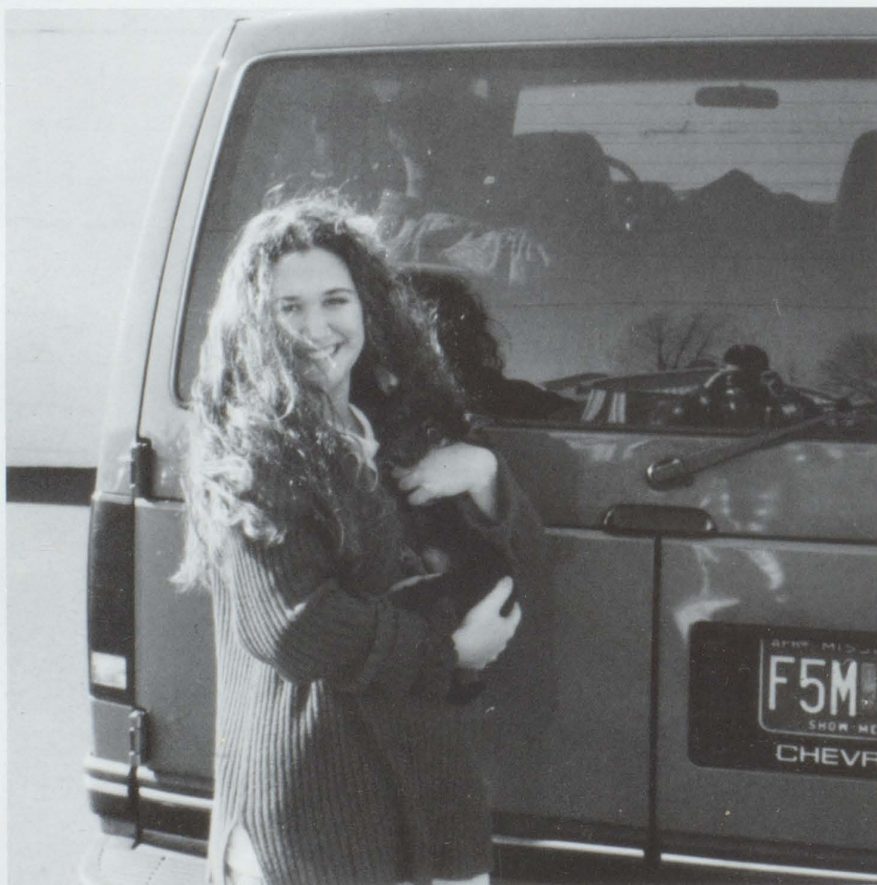

"I really enjoy spending my time being involved in a positive organization," senior Justin McGraw said.

McGraw was involved in a variety of organizations, including band, Rosennial, and Young Life.

Juggling schedules to include time for extracurricular activities, however, sometimes turned out to be a great pressure.

"It's hard for me to find time to study with all of the activities I am involved in," junior Amber Witham said.

Some organizations competed with others across the state. The speech team, under the direction of new coach Brandon

The Trojan Marching Band faced a tough season when they returned to school in August. Band members had endured the heat and the summer practices, and their work paid off in a return trip to the state finals in the Hoosier Dome.

"It was great finishing my marching season at state," senior Justin McGraw said, "especially when we beat Anderson Highland."

After marching season, the musicians broke into smaller concert and jazz bands. These bands performed at concerts and basketball games.

The Trojan guard often performed with the bands, especially during marching contests and basketball games.

In late November, twelve Rosennial students, two parents, Miss Kuhn, and Herff Jones representative Chris Frick flew to Kansas City to tour the Herff Jones yearbook production plant. The group got to see all the different kinds of machines, how they work, and how the yearbook comes together in the end.

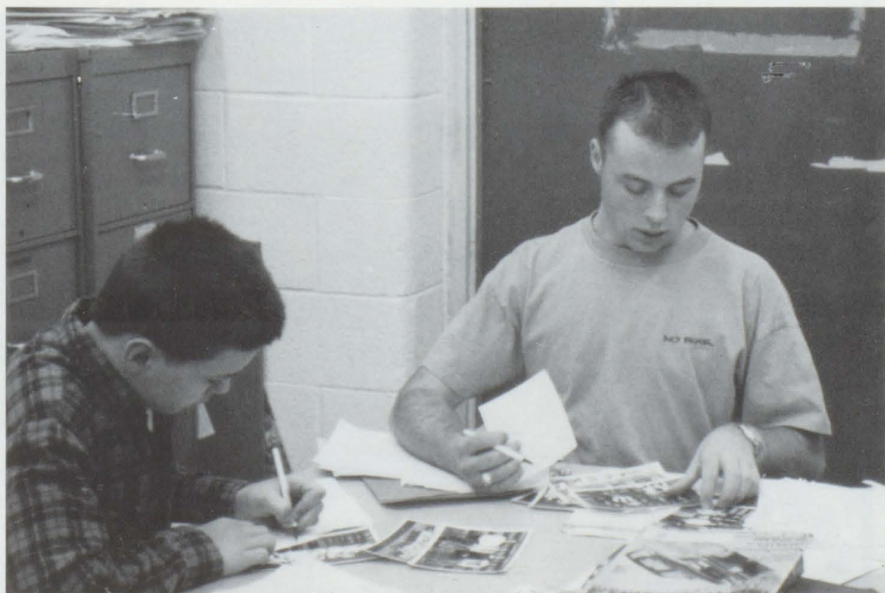

"It made me realize I would never want to work at a yearbook plant because of how much precise work is done," sophomore Julie Owens said.

"I think Kansas City was an educational, and a fun experience too," senior Erica Wert added.

Earlier in the fall, two staff members were recognized for their work on the 1994 Rosennial. Seniors Regan Tramel and Justin McGraw placed third for the 1994 student life section at the Indiana High School Press Association State Convention.

The Phoenix took on a new look this year — magazine style. The staff decided to add more graphics to the paper, as well as a slick, color cover.

"It's very sleek and attractive," associate editor Carrie Robertson said. "Students seem to be more interested in reading it rather than throwing it in the trash."

Students Rule

by Jeremy Brown

The student government kept the spirit of NCCHS alive this year by sponsoring many activities for students.

In the fall, teachers nominated students with leadership potential to attend the fall leadership conference at Memorial Park. Chuck Roach returned to lead the group in activities which helped develop leadership skills.

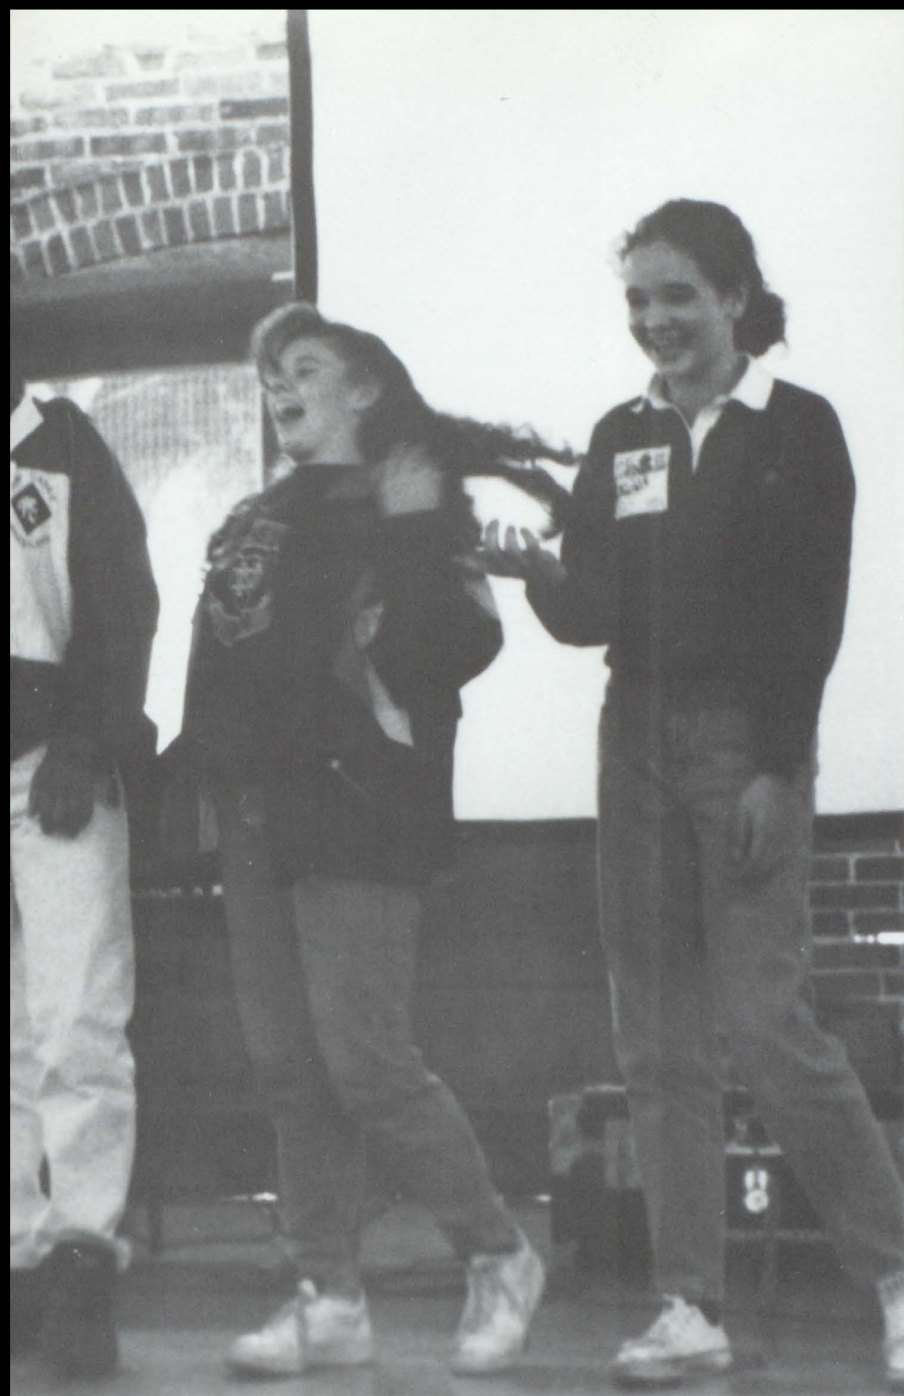

"The Leadership Camp was a fun and learning experience in one, and it helped to get to know everyone better," senior Carrie Robertson said.

Later in the year students visited the Westwood Country Club for the fall dance. Student Government members decorated the clubhouse to reflect the theme — "On the Dark Side of the Moon."

"The Fall Dance was great," senior Regan Tramel said, "but the best part was the food."

When the Trojan boys basketball team entered the IHSAA tournament, student government sponsored spirit days. During these days before the sectional, regional and semi state, the group organized and ran contests such as the banana eating contest and a tug of war.

Student government also encouraged students to dress up for spirit days.

Ready to win

by Jeremy Brown

The National Honor Society began the year with the fall induction ceremony. Miss Indiana Tiffany Storm addressed the inductees, telling them to set goals and work hard to achieve them.

The other big event of the year was the MORP dance. NHS members "trashed" the girls gym and invited students to "dress down" and dance.

"National Honor Society was great," senior Chad Tabor said.

NHS was not all fun and games, though. They sponsored the canned food drive in December and worked in the concession stands during the basketball games. In the spring they tutored elementary students at different schools around town.

The academic teams also had a successful year, with the fine arts team placing 4th at state.

"I think this year's team is an excellent group," sponsor Judy Sorrell said.

Talk it out

by Regan Tramel

When Jim and Joy Robbins retired as speech coaches last year, many students questioned what would happen to the successful speech program. When Brandon Cosby took over as the new coach, however, their questions were answered with continued success.

"Speech is a very good organization that I think will prepare me for the future," junior John Basler said.

"But getting up at 4:30 a.m. every Saturday is really uncool," he added.

Several Talkers captured top finishes in the sectional and regional tournaments. As a team, the talkers captured the championship trophies for both tourneys.

Speaking of fun

by Jeremy Brown

Many students took their interest of foreign language a step beyond the classroom by joining Spanish Honor Society, German Club or FORSCO.

Spanish Honor Society members taught Spanish and read Christmas stories to Eastwood Elementary students in December. Senior students taught four special Spanish sessions at Sunnyside Elementary in February. Approximately 28 members visited Riley Elementary and taught basic Spanish and culture in April.

"This year's group is a great group of students willing to share the Spanish they know with the younger kids, and they are very service-oriented," sponsor Barbara Sorrell said.

The German Club travelled to Heidelberg—a German bakery in Indianapolis—in December to eat and shop in the gift shop. During the winter German Club sponsored Muhle tournaments. Kim Cole, Jason Carnahan and Greg Cox were early winners.

"German Club is great," Carnahan said.

FORSCO members learned about different cultures by travelling around the United States and Canada and by visiting with the foreign exchange students.

Taking the lead

by Regan Tramel

Along with spiritual growth and fellowship, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Students for Christ, and Peer Facilitators experienced a year of learning and fun. These three groups offered students a chance to share their beliefs and to get along harmoniously in a school environment.

FCA met regularly to discuss their Christian beliefs and how they affected their everyday lives.

Peer Facilitators helped students solve their problems by talking and listening and by mediating conflicts.

Students For Christ met before school one day each week to talk about Christ and the joy of knowing Him.

All of these groups incorporated fun with learning and sharing.

Members of Octagon Club, Art Club and Science Club explored their creativity and performed community services.

Octagon members participated in a bowl-a-thon during the winter to raise money for future projects and for charity.

They also hosted a bake sale before Valentine's Day.

"Art Club was the coolest," sophomore Lisa Powers said.

Several artists showed their school spirit and artistic talents by decorating the hoops for the basketball games this winter. The Pfenninger Agency sponsored the project.

Science Club members wandered Indiana on field trips.

"The cave trip wasn't fun," senior Brandon Weaver said. "It was a quest!"

"The trip to the cave was more than an adventure," senior Christy Godby said. "It was a challenge."

The 1994-95 winter sports teams were very successful at winning North Central Conference Championships.

Three teams in the winter sports season brought home conference crowns, including the wrestling, girls basketball, and boys basketball teams.

"It is a good feeling to know my team dominated the NCC every year I was in high school," senior wrestler Matt Ryan said.

Five wrestlers advanced to the state finals.

Senior James Dickerson pinned every opponent he faced at state, earning himself a state heavy-weight title and leading the team to a second place state finish.

The Lady Trojan basketball team tied for the NCC title with Lafayette Jeff.

Polston received a personal honor as she was invited to the Top 40 workout in both volleyball and basketball.

Senior Jeff Millikan added, "The NCC is by far the best conference in the state. It is a good feeling to know the 1995 team is at the top."

The boys basketball team ended the season by tying for the best record in New Castle history, going 18-2.

Senior Chad Tabor pointed out, "We have the best record in New Castle history. I hope people will remember us as one of the best teams to come through New Castle."

Lady Trojans cause problems for the competition; Polston named one of top forty in the state.

The 1994-95 Lady Trojan volleyball team had a good season, finishing 25-11. Of their eleven losses, seven of them went to teams ranked in the top five in the state. The pressure of competing with some of the top teams in the state helped the Lady Trojans develop throughout the season.

The rigorous competition led to several big accomplishments for the girls. Among these were a victory over twelfth-ranked Michigan City Rogers, a third place finish in the tough NCC, and a championship crown in the New Castle tournament.

Probably the sweetest part of the season was a sectional championship.

"By the end of the season we were competitive with everyone," second-year coach John Shondell said.

Five volleyball players were named to the all-Henry County team: seniors Sheila Polston and Amy Van Arsdol; sophomores Tracy Gray and Kiya Griffin; and freshman Mandy Clark.

Polston and Gray were also named all-NCC. In addition to being named all-conference and all-county, Polston was also named to the Muncie Star all-area team, and she participated in the Top 40 All-State Workout.

GOING THE DISTANCE

New Castle runners put pressure on the competition; juniors move into leadership roles

Several young runners led the girls cross country team this season. This team faced the pressure of following the best season in school history. They handled this pressure by finishing the season with the best record ever.

They finished eighth in semistate and won the Union-City Invitational. They also earned a second in both sectional and regional.

Sophomore Kendra Champion set a school record with a time of 15:29. She also finished third in the NCC and also made All-Sectional team, along with junior Amanda Watson. Sophomore Bridget Armstrong joined Champion and Watson on the All-Regional roster.

The Most Valuable Runner was Champion, and Leah Cassidy was the recipient of the Most Improved Runner. Armstrong was given the Mental Attitude Award.

The boys cross country team had to go through the season with no seniors. This was one of the big pressures the young team had to face.

Another pressure was having to battle eventual state champions, the Richmond Red Devils, four times.

Juniors Marc McAllister and Mac Taylor took the leadership role and led the Trojans to a 7-3 overall record. McAllister was the team's number one runner for most of the season and was awarded Most Valuable Runner and the Mental Attitude awards. Taylor received the Most Improved Award.

Other contributing team members were Chad Reece, Adam Driskill, Stephen Potts, Travis Callaway, Jeff Pass, and John Stewart.

According to Coach Dave Pryor, some impressive highlights of this season were having a 7-3 record, and finishing second place respectively in both the Union City and Anderson Invationals.

ACING THE COMPETITION

Trojans record best season in 20 years with a 13-5 finish and back-to-back sectional titles.

The boys tennis team recorded its best season in 20 years this year, finishing with a 13-5 record.

After a successful finish in 1993, the Trojans were challenged to do as well or better than the previous season.

The team started the season by winning their first four matches. They lost only one match in the first four.

The Trojans placed sixth in the North Central Conference, tying with Lafayette Jeff.

They won their second consecutive sectional title by defeating county rivals Shenandoah (3-2), Tri High (4-1) and Blue River Valley (5-0).

In addition, they were runners-up in the regional, narrowly losing to Batesville, 3-2.

"It was a great season," Coach John Burdsall said.

Among other highlights Burdsall mentioned was beating perennial rival Connersville 4-1 and shutting out five other teams in matches.

In the last match of the regular season the Trojans defeated NCC foe Marion, 3-2. This marked the first time in two years that the Trojans had beaten the Giants in tennis.

Throughout the season the Trojans showed their depth, never losing a match 0-5.

Senior captains Curt Huntley and Ross Shauver received the Most Valuable Player Awards.

The Most Improved Varsity Player Award went to Junior Britt Wilson.

The recipient of the Bill Walker Mental Attitude Award was Junior James Whiteman.

For the junior varsity team, freshman Andy Beguhn was named the Most Improved player.

POWER AND PERSISTENCE

Trojans give it their best shot against tough North Central Conference opponents.

Even though the 1994-95 New Castle Trojan football team did not see a win this season, they never gave up and hustled right through the last game of the season. Ending the season at 0-9, the Trojans faced one of the toughest schedules in the state. This, along with facing the strongest running backs the North Central Conference had to offer, was one of the biggest pressures the team had to go against each weekend.

"Although the '94 team was winless, this group of players exhibited an outstanding attitude and effort," Coach

Calvin "Buzz" Duff said.

The Trojans led two opponents, Muncie Central and Anderson, before losing in the second half. Anderson came from behind to score the winning touchdown with less than one minute left in the game.

Two Trojan football players graduated as four-year varsity lettermen: Wally Logan and Chris Bell. Logan finished his career with 624 carries and almost 3,000 yards rushing, while Bell received all-NCC honors and led the Trojans defensively. Bell and Logan served as two of the five team captains, along with seniors Geoff Barber, Collin McAtee, and Jayson Madden.

Jeff Millikan led the team in total receiving yards.

At the sports banquet, various senior athletes received awards. Joel Harvey was given the Eddie Dyer Award. Robby Chesher was awarded Outstanding Defensive Lineman, while Matt Ryan was the recipient of the Outstanding Offensive Lineman and the Highest Academic Award. Collin McAtee was handed the Mental Attitude Award, and Jody Gray got Outstanding Defensive Back.

LEARNING THE RULES

Inaugural season proves to be a learning experience for young Trojan soccer players.

A new sport hit NCCHS this year - soccer. The team, coached by Glen Marcum and his assistant Kelly Sry, faced many challenges this year - including finding soccer fields to play on and making out the first soccer schedule.

"The pressure to win was not there for this season because no one expected us to win," Marcum said.

The leadership roles for the team belonged to the only two seniors on the team: co-captains Jeremy Platts and Joel Troxell.

According to Marcum, freshmen made up 70% of the team.

"We were the youngest team in the NCC," he said.

The squad ended the season with a 2-10-1 record. According to Marcum, this year's team members concentrated on getting needed experience because most had not played in about six years.

"Soccer leagues only are played until the sixth grade, and after this, there are no other ways for the kids to play," he said.

Marcum added that his team showed "a lot of spirit and enthusiasm throughout the whole season," despite their season record.

The top scorer for the season was junior Angelo Harris. Freshman Danny King was the second highest scorer.

The Most Improved Player Award went to sophomore Benjamin Harvey. Sophomore J. W. Pindell received the Mr. Hustle Award.

All-NCC honors went to Troxell, who earned a soccer scholarship to go to Tri-Sate University.

PRIDE AND PROGRESS

Bishop returns to state for lady golfers; Coach Meyer survives first year as girls coach

Senior co-captain Ellen Bishop made a return trip to the state finals — the first since her freshman year — and led the team throughout most of the season this year.

The team ended on a successful note, finishing with an 8-4 record.

"This team was easy to coach — no problems," Coach Larry Meyer said. "There was really no pressure — except what we put on ourselves."

The team placed third in sectional, then went on to place sixth in the regional. Bishop was the only Trojan to move on to the state tournament.

"Making it to state the second time was a thrilling experience," Bishop said. "It shows that I worked hard, and I felt like I deserved it."

Bishop's honors included earning medalist at the NCC meet for the third time, being named to the all-NCC team for the fourth season, and receiving the Most Valuable Player Award.

She also made the all-State first team and the all-State Academic team.

According to Meyer, junior Erin Gordon was the most improved player.

Senior co-captain Margaret Preble earned recognition for her positive mental attitude.

At the beginning of the season, the team set some goals of having a record such as last year and to place well in the conference.

Trojan swimmers give competition a lot to worry about during the season.

Junior Ashley

Farnsworth practiced many times in the Natatorium during her private lessons and during competitions with the Dive Indy team. So when she competed in the state meet at the Natatorium, she was familiar with the surroundings and the competitive atmosphere.

"It was an indescribable experience," Farnsworth said of her trip to the state. "I got cold chills as soon as I stepped on the board to attempt my first dive."

She finished 17th.

Earlier, she set the school record with a 390.10 in 11 dives during the sectional.

"I've been trying to break the record since I was a freshman because Coach always told me I was close to it," Farnsworth said. "Then when I broke it, I did it by 30 points."

As a team the Lady Trojans finished with a 9-3 record. They ended the season with a third place in the sectional.

One high point of the season came when the ladies defeated Connersville in the dual meet season.

Junior Jenny Garcezowski placed third in the 500 free and second in the 100 breaststroke at the North Central Conference meet.

At the fall sports banquet, senior Joni Grimes received the Most Versatile Award.

Junior Kelly Copenhaver earned the Mental Attitude Award.

WRESTLERS ROCK STATE

Trojans wrestlers set record for consecutive dual meet victories with a 42-0 record.

This year's team earned itself the title of the best Trojan wrestling team ever, and will be known as one of the best athletic Trojan teams ever.

The wrestlers won their fifth straight North Central Conference championship. In addition, they had a record-breaking 42 victories in a row without a loss. This also broke last year's school and state record of 41-0.

Five wrestlers qualified for the state tournament this year, earning a tie for second place in the state and the highest finish ever for a Trojan wrestling team.

Heavyweight wrestler James "Bubba" Dickerson earned the first Trojan individual title in almost thirty years when he pinned all of his opponents to win the state title.

Junior Mac Taylor placed third in the state meet, and senior Jayson Madden earned a fourth place. Jeremy Platts and Josh Hardwick also competed.

Senior Matt Ryan was named First Team Academic All-State.

Along with winning a sectional, regional and semi state title, the Trojans brought home the NCC title with six individual champions: Taylor, Matt Hardman, Platts, Josh Kissick, Nathan Pickle and Madden.

Both Madden and Taylor also set new state records with Madden setting a record for most pins in a single season (37) and Taylor setting a record with 58 consecutive wins to break the old record he set last year with 53 wins.

"State was quite an experience," Dickerson said. "Wrestling in front of 10,000 people was a dream come true. I was so pumped up before the finals."

TROJANS MAKE '94-95 MEMORABLE

It took eventual state champions Ben Davis to put New Castle out of state tournament.

Ever since the classes of 95 and 96 started playing basketball in the 7th grade, people all over the community talked of how good the team would be this season.

The team let none of these people down, finishing the regular season with a 18-2 record and tying the record for most Trojan wins in a season. They also captured the NCC title with a record of 7-1.

In addition, they went undefeated at home, 17-0.

This team stretched the season out about as long as they could, bringing in an 8th straight sectional title, along with the 2nd regional title in the past 3 years.

The Trojans made it to the championship of the semi-state before losing to eventual state champions Ben Davis.

In the end the Trojans compiled a 24-3 record, the second best in school history.

The team also accomplished something that had not been seen by a boys basketball team in 36 years: defeating Lafayette Jeff at Lafayette.

Coach Alford reached a personal milestone as he got his 300th career victory.

Seniors Chad Tabor, Kyle Huckleby and Scott Miller earned All-NCC honors.

Huckleby participated in the Top 40 tryouts. He also was named to several special teams, such as the McDonald's All-American team. He also earned the Trojan rebounding award.

Tabor won the defensive award, and Miller won the Jerry Lamberson Mental Attitude Award.

The Eddie Dyer Award went to Chris Bell, and junior Brian Latham won the field goal percentage award.

The team also set a school record free throw percentage with 77%

The team was very deep, with 8 seniors: Geoff Barber, Bell, Joel Harvey, Huckleby, Collin McCartt, Scott Miller, Jeff Millikan, and Tabor.

LADY TROJANS DOMINATE OPPONENTS

Trojans win a share of the NCC for the first time since 1979.

The Lady Trojans had a season that ended with the second most wins in school history. They ended with a record of 19-4.

The girls were only beaten three times in the regular season. They breezed by all their opponents, which included a 98-32 destruction of Muncie South.

The girls also added a North Central Conference to their list of accomplishments for the season. They finished the conference season with six wins and only one blemish to Lafayette Jeff, with whom they shared the conference crown.

This was the first North Central Conference title for the team since 1979.

The girls also won their sixth straight sectional title. They dominated the tournament with an average winning margin of 44 points.

"This team would have to be considered one of the top two or three teams in Trojan basketball history," Coach Curt Bell said.

There were many individual highlights of the season. Senior Sheila Polston became the fifth all-time leading scorer with 876 points, and the second all-time rebounder with 624. She was also voted to the top forty team.

Sophomore Erica Cory broke the school record for three-pointers by hitting 75 in a season.

Gymnasts were ranked in the top ten in the state for much of the season.

The gymnastics team opened the year being ranked number nine in the state. Being ranked in the top ten in the state put a lot of pressure on the team.

Krista Meador was the lone senior on the team. She and juniors Ashley Farnsworth and Amy White were team tri-captains.

The gymnasts finished the season with an undefeated dual meet record of 14-0. They also placed third at the Valparaiso Invitational, third in the North Central Conference meet, and third at sectional.

Sophomore Amy Riggs achieved personal recognition by being named to the All-NCC team. White and Farnsworth earned All-NCC honorable mention.

"One other pressure of this year's season was trying to score in the mid-90's each meet," Coach Tina Wood said.

The junior varsity also had a successful dual meet record finishing at 8-1.

"The team really pulled together and were very supportive of each other throughout the season," Wood said. "That is probably why we were so successful."

Rounding out the squad were six sophomores: Jamie Allen, Alicia Byers, Lisa Fisher, April Jeffries, Megan Lamberson and Riggs.

Next year's team can look forward to a successful season as well with everyone returning except one gymnast.

LAPPING THE OPPONENTS

More Trojan talent leads to a successful season for the swimmers.

The boys swim team had a lot more talent this year than it has had in the previous years.

Senior Mike Dudley and Australian exchange student Sam Carroll qualified for the state finals meet. Dudley finished eleventh in the 100 breast stroke.

Carroll, on the other hand, placed 31st in the butterfly.

The team finished the season with an 8-4 record.

Along the way they also won the Shelbyville Relays.

They also finished fifth at sectionals, qualifying more swimmers than ever before for the final and consolation meets.

The team of Adam Clock, Mike Dudley, Ross Shauver, and David Rains set a 200 medley relay record at sectionals.

In addition, the 200 free relay team of Clock, Carroll, Rains and Mark Dudley set a new school record.

Mike Dudley also set a new school record four times in the 100 breast-stroke.

This year's team was led by seniors Carroll, Clock, Mark Dudley, Mike Dudley, Scott Lee, Wally Logan, Ross Shauver, and Gus Valenca.

"State was a very neat experience," Mike Dudley said. "Having a winning record made this year a very exciting and enjoyable season to be a part of and lead."

GOLFERS DRIVE THROUGH SEASON

Shaw and Upchurch lead the Trojan golf team to successful record.

Senior Alex

Upchurch spent almost two weeks of the golf season in the hospital and at home, recovering from pneumonia and a collapsed lung.

However, Upchurch returned to the squad in time to take over his spot as the number one Trojan golfer in the sectional.

Upchurch and his teammate, senior Jamie Shaw led the team most of the year as medalists dual meets and in tournaments.

"This year was very fun and the guys on the team were great," Shaw said.

The Trojans turned in a respectable season performance, placing fourth out of 12 teams in their home tournament. Throughout the season they defeated teams such as Rushville, Yorktown, Madison Heights, Hagerstown and county rival Shenandoah.

They placed third in the tough Richmond sectional, behind the hosts and Cambridge City Lincoln.

They finished sixth out of twelve teams in the Noblesville Invitational.

Even with lots of success, the Trojans still fell short in a couple of important meets.

They placed 7th in the NCC meet at Lafayette.

They also came in seventh in the Monroe Central Invitational.

According to Coach Jerry Newland, senior leadership played an important part in the success of the team. Five seniors finished the season.

TRACK TEAM SPRINTS PAST FOES

Young track team gained experience as season progressed.

The pressure of competing at home did not seem to phase members of the boys varsity track team this year.

The team won their own invitational meet for the third straight year.

Senior Mark Dudley led the team with a first in high jump at the meet. He then moved on to the pole vault, where he captured another first place.

Sophomore Chuck Harpring captured first place in the 100 meter high hurdles, while teammate John Hahn won the blue ribbon in the 200 meter dash.

Dudley soared through the field events in many meets, placing first against such teams as Richmond, Anderson Madison Heights, Greenfield Central, and Connersville, where he had a personal best jump in the high jump.

He also nabbed first place in the NCC meet.

Overall, the team placed seventh in the NCC.

Eight Trojans advanced to the regional after strong performances in the sectional.

Dudley brought home the team's on (high jump).

Others who placed in the top five were Robert Alford (3rd - high hurdles), Chuck Harpring (4th - high hurdles), Hahn (4th - 100 meters; 3rd - 200 meters), Brock Ryan (4th - 800 meters), John Stewart (4th - 3200 meters); and Brian Winchester (4th pole vault).

"I'm pleased with the way things went this season," Coach Dave Clark said.

Dudley received the Most Valuable Field Event Award.

Hahn was named the Most Valuable Runner.

The Bill Walker Mental Attitude Award went to senior Adam Clock.

TEAM WORK BRINGS SUCCESS

Neither cold nor heat could stop this team from competition.

Amy VanArsdol's senior year did not end with graduation or night club. Instead, she had the honor of competing in the state track meet on the day after graduation.

VanArsdol advanced to state in discus, winning the event at the sectional and placing second at the regional.

Although VanArsdol threw with the best at state, she faced some stiff competition on the home field by teammate Francie Dickey.

Dickey broke the discus record early in the season with a throw of 119'3". VanArsdol later broke Dickey's record, hurling the disc 122'2".

VanArsdol received the Most Valuable Thrower Award.

The field events weren't the only strong points of the team.

Several runners made their mark during the season and advanced beyond sectional.

Sophomore Kendra Champion placed third in both the 1600 meter and the 3200 meter runs at sectional. She advanced to regional, where she placed sixth in both events.

Champion earned the Most Valuable Runner Award.

Sophomore Bridget Armstrong came in third in the 800 at sectional and placed 6th in the event at regional.

Sophomore Randi Hyden received the Mental Attitude Award, while junior Laurie Bowman earned the Most Improved Award.

"We had a very good year," Coach Linda Allen added.

TROYMEN GET PREASON RANKING

Seven seniors provide experience, leadership for Trojans.

Junior Tracy Wymer became the hero of the day when he pitched a no-hitter in the final game of the sectional to lead the Trojans to a 5-0 win over county rival Shenandoah.

The sectional challenge was twice as tough for the Trojmen because a rain-out on Saturday forced them to face both Tri High and Shenandoah in the same day.

Earlier in the day the Trojans defeated Tri High, 6-1, behind the pitching of junior Wes Akers.

The Trojans took a 19-8 record into the Richmond regional, where they faced Franklin County.

Expectations for the Trojans were high, especially since they began the season ranked among the top ten teams in the state.

Earlier in the season the Trojmen snagged an important victory when they defeated six-ranked Marion.

"It was a good game," sophomore Jeremy Motl said.

Senior Collin

McAtee led the team in offense for most of the season. His photo appeared on the cover of Hoosier Diamonds Magazine, and he was a leading contender in the state for the title of Mr. Baseball.

McAtee was named to the preseason All-State team.

"I'm really proud of the way the boys played this season," Coach Gary Brown said. "They were able to pull through when the going got tough."

TROJANS SWING INTO ACTION

Six seniors lead the Lady Trojans into the season.

Seniors, Ellen Bishop, Melissa Supinger, Holly Theobald, Angie York, Niki Rhodes and Amy Massengale had the responsibility of the leadership role for Bobby Cochran's softball team this year.

This was not an easy task considering the team graduated several seniors last year.

The toughest competition that the team had to face was against Carmel, Shenandoah, Logansport and Mount Vernon. In addition to these teams, they faced a tough North Central Conference schedule.

"I think this year we have seen a lot of the teams pitch faster and we are making contact," Cochran said. "Our pitching is more consistent and not walking as many."

Perennially tough, state ranked county rival Shenandoah provided stiff competition in the sectional.

According to Cochran, the team's strengths were their defense and their ability to put the softball into play.

He said that their only real weakness came when the team faced an overpowering pitcher who struck out a lot of girls.

The junior varsity team saw new leadership in Coach Sandra Plyley. Plyley, who played softball for the University of Indianapolis, found the jv to be challenging, but rewarding.

"I love softball, so I enjoyed teaching the girls the fundamentals," she said.

LADY NETTERS HAVE SMASHING SEASON

A slow start turns into a successful end of the season for the netters.

When Coach John Burdsall named his tennis team this year, he knew that things might be tough. Only three experienced netters returned to the team.

Although lost to county rival Shenandoah in the sectional, they maintained positive attitudes and worked hard to improve their play.

"All of the players were good fundamentally and were really focused on winning each match," Coach John Burdsall said. "The girls also worked very hard in each practice to become better tennis players."

Junior Laura Riehle survived the IHSAA tennis tournament to advance to the regional in the number one singles bracket.

Riehle advanced by virtue of her untarnished play in the sectional.

The number one doubles team of Heather Allen and Jennifer Newland scored big wins in several matches to help the team.

Midway through the season Burdsall revised his lineup, hoping to score more wins. One of the major changes he implemented was moving sophomore Erica Cory from a doubles team to the number two singles position.

Emily Denison was moved into Cory's doubles position, teaming up with senior Wendy Day.

"This group of girls was very fun to work with," Burdsall said. "I really enjoyed coaching them."

Allen and Newland received the Most Valuable Player Award. The Mental Attitude Award went to Day.

Sophomore Susan Gooding received the Most Improved JV Player Award, as well as the JV Tourney Winner Award.

CHEERING FOR SUCCESS

Trojan cheerleaders had a lot to cheer about this year in sports.

This year's cheerleading squad consisted of a group of girls who supported both boys football and boys basketball.

"Going to semi state was a memorable event that I will always cherish as I look back on my senior year of high school," Senior Heather Allen said.

In addition, the girls also made an appearance at the girls basketball sectional.

The squad did more than just cheer for Trojan teams, though. For example, they worked with the Indianapolis 500 parade. They also participated in competition at Cumberland.

Perhaps the most memorable achievement was winning all blue ribbons at UCA camp at Ball State.

The cheerleaders worked nearly year-round to perfect their cheers. They said that they were always winners at their sport.

"We win every game because we support the New Castle Trojans," Coach Linda Allen said.

Senior Jenny Dyer received the Most Improved and Best Spot Awards.

The Best Climber was Cindy Reece.

Senior Allen earned the Best Base Award.

"I'm really glad I cheered my senior year because I love support the guys on the teams and they're great," Senior Tia Riggs said.

"Cheering at Hinkle Fieldhouse in Indianapolis at semi state was an experience I will never forget," Reece added.

Support

Community support was important to every organization at NCCHS. Throughout the year every group at the school was involved in some sort of fundraiser.

Whether it was selling candy for speech or peddling wreaths for basketball, many students felt the pressure of having to participate in a fund raiser.

After reading the last sentence you may think it was a great burden to solicit funds. This was not always the case. Many businesses were very generous when it came to helping out school organizations and activities.

"The community was very supportive this year, as always," Rosennial and Phoenix sponsor Rhonda Kuhn said. "Their donations have greatly reduced the cost of the yearbook for students."

Publications were not the only groups to benefit from community support. During the holidays many local merchants contributed gifts for the annual Head Start party for underprivileged children. Harold Huffman and Jerry Koger coordinated the party.

Local businesses also sponsored activities such as Night Club and purchased meals for many of the schools athletic teams.

"New Castle shows lots of support to the activities associated with the high school," senior basketball player Jeff Millikan said. "We especially appreciate places like Rax, who supported our team."

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR DAUGHTER AND SISTER

April Bertram

April's Poem to James

Isn't it funny how life seems so great, and then one event can change it all. You feel so down; life is at end. Someone then rescues you from the fall.

Our love is so strange; the bond that we share - it's like nothing I've known before. When I'm with you I'm so happy!

Shall I compare thee to a summer day? It seems silly to even try! With a smile more lovely than an evening breeze and eyes bluer than the sky.

How do I love thee? Let me count the ways. Yes, it will take some time to do. There are so many reasons, an infinite number of reasons why I love you!

I remember when we met — it hasn't been that long. I could feel it even in the beginning of something. Somehow I had to get your number; I had to get your name. And if that day had never been, I wouldn't be the same.

For you are the moonlight that shimmers in the sky. Thou holdest my heart in the palms of your hands when you look into my eyes.

(This poem was written by April Bertram to her boyfriend James a few days before they were both killed in a tragic automobile accident involving a drunk driver.)

Misty Major

18 years ago, when I gave birth,
Was a glorious, beautiful day upon earth.
You were a golden-haired baby, with chocolate eyes,
A radiant smile, and dimples I idolize!
We watched you grow with wondrous pride,
Taught you to love and be sensitive inside.
We held your hand and calmed your fears.
Stood by your side through laughter and tears.
Now as you graduate and leave for IU
Never ever forget how we feel about you.
We'll miss you, honey, more than you know,
But you'll be in our hearts, our minds and our souls.
Whenever you're lonely, confused, or feel blue,
Remember our words, "Misty, we love you!"
Love always, Mom, Jim & Family

Summer Joplin

STUDENTS GET REAL-LIFE, HANDS-ON TRAINING

The world of work seemed a scary place for many students. Although many held afterschool jobs, they did not plan to make a career of the work.

Vocational students, on the other hand, spent much of the school day getting hands-on career training in a variety of fields.

The vocational classes met at a variety of sites: in the modules, in the vocational wing, on the building site, at the hospital, at Knightstown, and other places, as well. Many sites had the latest technology to prepare students to step into the real world.

Health occupations students began the road to becoming nurses, dieti-cians, x-ray technicians and other medical related professionals.

"Health occupations has helped me decide that a nursing career is suitable for me," senior Naomi Pettus said.

"I've learned that lots of times when you go into a situation, you often plan on giving but end up receiving much more in return," she added.

At NCCHS, vocational programs included welding, computer aided drafting, health occupations, COE, marketing education, building trades, machine trades and child care.

"I love child care," senior Brian Hunt said. "The class has made me think about studying that at Vincennes."

Vocational classes gave students the chance to make connections which paid off by providing them with references and experience for their resumé's, and sometimes even with jobs.

Principal John Newby earns the third Degree: Ph.D.

Principal John Newby had a new title when students arrived back at school in August — Dr. John Newby.

After months of classwork at Ball State University, Newby earned his Doctor of Educational Administration degree last summer.

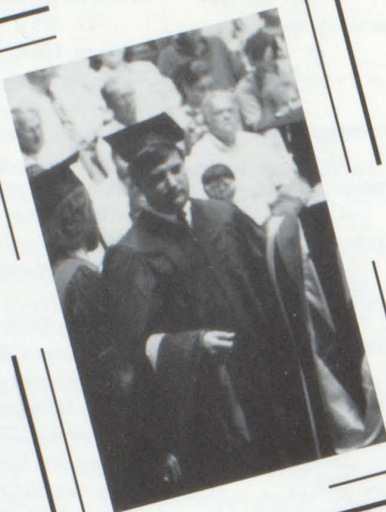

Newby said he began working toward the degree in 1988, but he had to take time off from the work during the 1991-92 school year to adjust to his new position as NCCHS principal.

"It takes a lot of patience, a lot of support from the people around you, and a certain amount of persistence," Newby said.

Newby said he was encouraged to work toward the degree after he received his Masters Degree. He added that he was relieved to finish working on the degree.

"I had to balance my time," he said. "The time left over was put towards my doctorate degree and not for free time."

According to Newby, his family was very supportive, and they shared in his accomplishment. But, he added, they are glad it is over.

Sam Alford heads for Division I

Coach Sam Alford had always wanted the chance to coach college basketball. He had offers, but forfeited the chances so that he could rear his sons, Steve and Sean.

This year, however, another chance surfaced, and Alford left NCCHS in mid-April for Southwest Missouri State University, a Division I school.

The position offered a unique opportunity for Alford — to be an assistant coach under his son, Steve, who had been named head coach a few weeks earlier.

"I definitely have mixed emotions about leaving," Alford said. "The staff and students have been great here, and the players have been super. I'm going to miss the high school atmosphere."

Pressure

Pressure is a very diverse entity. It can challenge a person to do something he never thought he could do ... It can bring a person down ... It can make a person rise to new horizons ... It can lead to failure ... It can lead to success

Students, teachers, administrators faced many kinds of Pressure:

Pressure TO LEARN TO DRIVE A CAR
safely

Pressure TO do
well in ACADEMIC competitions

Pressure TO
balance work
and school

Pressure TO
have a successful
first year on the job

Pressure TO do
well with group projects

Pressure TO stay awake
in class

Pressure TO be CALM when the going got tough

Pressure TO put on a GREAT show for family and friends

Pressure TO give students the best education possible

Pressure TO capture the school year
on film

Pressure TO press on in the face of adversity

Pressure TO organize and
complete a task

And all faced Pressure AS A challenge TO SUCCEED

Colophon

Herff Jones Yearbook Company, 726 E. Gracia, Marceline, Missouri, 64658, printed Volume 78 of the New Castle Chrysler High School Rosennial. Our local Herff Jones representative was Chris Frick; our customer service manager in Missouri was Nancy Williams.

The yearbook class, which met during the seventh period each day, produced the book. Students used PageMaker 5.0 to produce the book; they used Write (Windows) for word processing. Artwork came from the Herff Jones Portfolio and from various Clickart sources. The bulk of the desktop publishing work was completed on two IBM 433 DX/D computers. Two IBM 386 computers were used for word processing. The pages were printed out on a Hewlett-Packard LaserJet III printer.

The main headlines are set in Staccato 555 BT. Body copy is set in Times New Roman. Captions are Times New Roman 9 point.

Rosennial students worked with Doug McWilliams (Mission Kansas plant) to design the lithograph cover during a staff visit to that plant. Endsheets were designed by Rosennial staff members.

The book is printed on 80 pound Bordeaux paper that is Smyth sewn.

Special thanks goes to Chris Frick for all of his help in dealing with the pressures of creating this book and for organizing and chaperoning the trip to Kansas and Missouri; to local professional photographers Yvonne Jones and Mike McKown (Quality Photography by Mike McKown); David Toller and Bill Walden (Walden Photography, Inc.); and Ron Tower (Ron Tower Photography) for providing senior photos and group photos of organizations and athletic teams.

Also, thanks to the employees at the Marceline, Missouri and the Mission, Kansas Herff Jones plants for their hospitality during our visit. Special thanks to Nancy Williams for her help throughout the year and to Doug McWilliams for his assistance with the cover design.

Finally, thanks to the administration, faculty and staff of NCCHS for providing information to us and for assisting us in many ways.
