The school year began with many changes.

We were back to a six hour schedule

Instead of the thirteen module classes.

All free time had vanished from the student's day.

The study hall was assigned with sophomores,

Juniors, and seniors in one room.

For the students,

School has always been the meeting place.

Each student hopes for the best.

After all, "These are our best years."

Each student working towards his goals,

Becomes a part of tradition.

STUDENT LIFE

In a student's life there are many pleasurable things. A school day means meeting with friends, singing in Chorale, studying for tests, and eating and talking with friends.

Homework, riding bikes, and calling friends are just a few after school activities. We are sticking with the traditional ways of having fun.

GRADUATION

With the realization that their high school career was about to end, the Class of 1976 awaited their diplomas. Many activities had been going on during the past few weeks. The year drew to an end with May Breakfast, Senior Breakfast, the Recognitions convo and Baccalaureate.

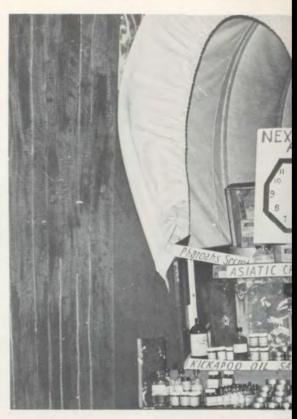

On a warm spring night, June 3, at 8:00 p.m., the 100th graduating class of Chrysler High School began to assemble for the last time. While seated, they were entertained by the high school band. The two senior speakers for Commencement were Greg Rose and Melvin Murphy. William E. Lehr followed with the presentation of the class. The Class of 1976 then moved their tassels from left to right, symbolizing the completion of their four high school years.

The Nightclub Party, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce with the help of friends and parents, climaxed the evening. The theme was "That's Entertainment," and the two bands were Fresh and Faith. There was plenty of food, a game room, dancing and other activities that made this night a night to remember.

As did the class of "76", the Class of "77" awaits their turn for this once in a lifetime experience.

EXPERIENCE IT

"La Quebrada," in Acapulco, is the scenic place where millionaires and movie stars live.

Vinnie Lobo, from Costa Rica, stands outside his new home in the U.S. with the Hermanets.

Marianne Clapp stands with her Turkish friends on Mt. Uludag.

EIGHT DAYS IN MEXICO

"Cinco pesos."

"No, es muy caro, solo/dos."

"No puedo."

During the summer of "76", eleven Chrysler High School students spent eight days touring Mexico and Acapulco and were involved in many conversations like this. The purpose of the trip was to place students in a situation in which they had to use their knowledge of the language in order to bargain at the markets. Sometimes, like in this conversation, the bargainers were able to get the price down from five to three pesos.

In Mexico City, they visited such landmarks as the National Palace of Fine Arts, the Old Cathedral, and The San Juan Market. They also attended the "Ballet Folklorico de Mexico" and a bullfight. One of the highlights of the trip was their visit to the Teotihuacan Pyramids.

Acapulco was their next stop. Students and chaperones witnessed divers as they jumped from the "La Quebrada," 135 feet from the water. The last stop was at the colonial town of Taxco. Taxco is known as a national monument and no modern architecture is allowed there. The eleven students were Ramona Cook, Cathy Crabtree, Carol Davis, Luanne Fox, Wade Horn, Carlyle Kinkade, Christy Pasman, DeLynda Reese, Brian Shapiro, Maria Tabares and Jill Woodward. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Fraze, Mrs. Joe Kinnett, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Nunley, Mr. and Mrs. Herland Tabares and Mrs. Eppie Wicke.

VINNIE

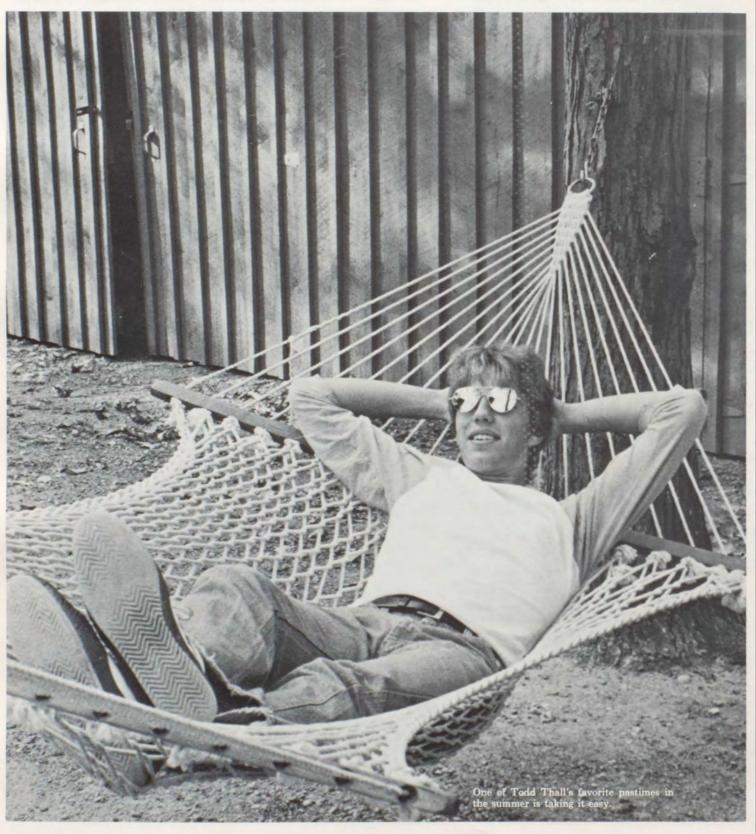

"I was really excited when I saw the first snow fall" declared Marco Vinicio Garcia Lobo better known as Vinnie who was the foreign student at C.H.S. this year. He arrived here on August 12 from San Ramon, Costa Rica. During his visit he stayed with the Eugene Hermanet family. In his spare time he watched television, played the guitar, attended several of the high school athletic contests and was active in the Sociedad Honoria Hispanica.

Vinnie was sponsored by the American Field Service. He stated his reasons for coming were to make new friends, have fun, and learn the language and customs. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Garcia Lobo. He has two sisters, Nury age 15, Kathy age 11, and a brother Fernando age 13. Vinnie will return to Costa Rica in July, but plans to return some day.

TURKEY TRIP

Marianne Clapp was one of 165 Americans that were sponsored by American Field Service to travel to Turkey. She left June 20 for C.W. Post College in New York. She then attended Caddebostan Camp where the group was introduced to the Turkish language, religion, customs and food. Marianne was welcomed to Bursa by her family where she would reside until August 29. Even though she had many experiences she best remembers the warmth and hospitality she received from everyone. The Turks are an extremely friendly group. They welcomed her to Turkey and made her trip a beautiful experience.

FEELING FREE

Summer was many different things to many different people. Most students will agree that summer was a time of "feeling free." Students were able to just be themselves and were free of school . . . at least for the summer. Some students decided to spend their summer hours back in the classroom taking classes in government, economics, biology, English, or driver education.

Some of the teenagers decided that they wanted to make some extra dough so a lot of the students got jobs in the community.

Other students spent their summer hours swimming, biking, lying outside sunning, marching, and doing just about anything under the sun.

OUR METALLIG FRIENDS

Roy Jackson flaunts his taste for science by using the theme "Future Shock."

In years past, every day that a student attended school he was greeted by a very dull brownish-beige locker. If a student happened to have a locker that jammed, there was probably a routine of pounding, kicking, and much frustration.

This year was probably no exception when it came to the kicking and the pounding but at least a few of the lockers were not dull. The change in appearance was due to the locker contest sponsored by the ROSENNIAL Staff. "The Locker Decorating Contest" began September 29 and ended October 5. The winner, Jeff Dillon, was announced at the Rosey Convocation on October 12 and received a subscription to a free '77 ROSENNIAL. The contest gave the students a chance to use their imagination and put some of their own personality into their lockers. Instead of being greeted by just a dull brownish-beige locker, one could be greeted by Alice Cooper, a fifth of bourbon, some of the "Super Seniors" or even some friendly lobster claws!?!?

Tom Thalls exhibits his respect for rock stars by featuring them.

Brett Thurman brings his work to school by decorating lobsters.

Change played a major part in the school year. This year's sophomores were anticipating the advantages of modules but found that they had been replaced by hours. Juniors looked forward to the same freedoms that they found last year, but were disappointed in finding that those freedoms had decreased. Seniors waited with enthusiasm for this year and for the privileges that went along with it, but found that these privileges had been denied.

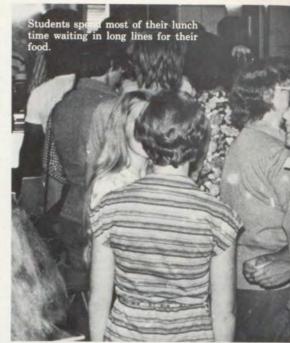

The first "big" change this year was the change from 25 minute to 55 minute periods. This was done because the hour made it easier to schedule the student's classes. Formerly, most classes already were running on the hour and not the module. "Flexing," was replaced by independent study and was left up to the teachers. If the teacher felt that study time was needed he had to get it approved by Mr. Lehr before it was put into operation.

place was the placing of seniors into assigned study halls. Formerly, seniors had been given a choice of resource areas to be used during independent study. With this development, passes were put into constant use by students who wanted to go from study hall to any other area of the campus.

The English department stayed relatively the same. Their only alterations were the additions of college-preparatory English classes and arena-scheduling.

The most common complaint registered, by all students, was that the lunch lines were too long. At the beginning of the year, the lunch lines were so long that most people only had five minutes to eat after obtaining their food.

Adjustment was the word used to sum up this past year. Students had to be flexible, even if their classes were not, and had to learn to adjust to

By working as the cashier at a local restaurant, senior Becky Bronnenberg earns some extra spending money.

Trying To Make It

Jobs... one of the most important duties in a person's life. Jobs mean money but they take time. Jobs can be fun, boring, hectic or tiresome.

Many teenagers earned money during the summer. Some continued to work throughout the school year. The students took just about any type of employment that was available. Jobs varied from selling at a tire store, driving an ice cream truck, and flipping hamburgers at a local restaurant.

Although some of the jobs were routine, the students continued at their jobs. Why would they spend all their free time working? They did it just to get some green paper. Hard to believe, isn't it?

Spending his time making french fries is a task Mike Schwinn enjoys.

FEELIN' THE PINCH

Remembering his manners, Chris Sell opens the door for Robbin Edmondson.

Money ... that green piece of paper that we can't do without. No matter how much we had, it never seemed to be enough. The things students spent their money on ranged from gas for their car, to a "KISS" concert.

Dating seemed to be a financial expense many students shared. How about that special date — the one where you took a girl to a movie, a nice restaurant and then at the door it was a handshake and goodbye.

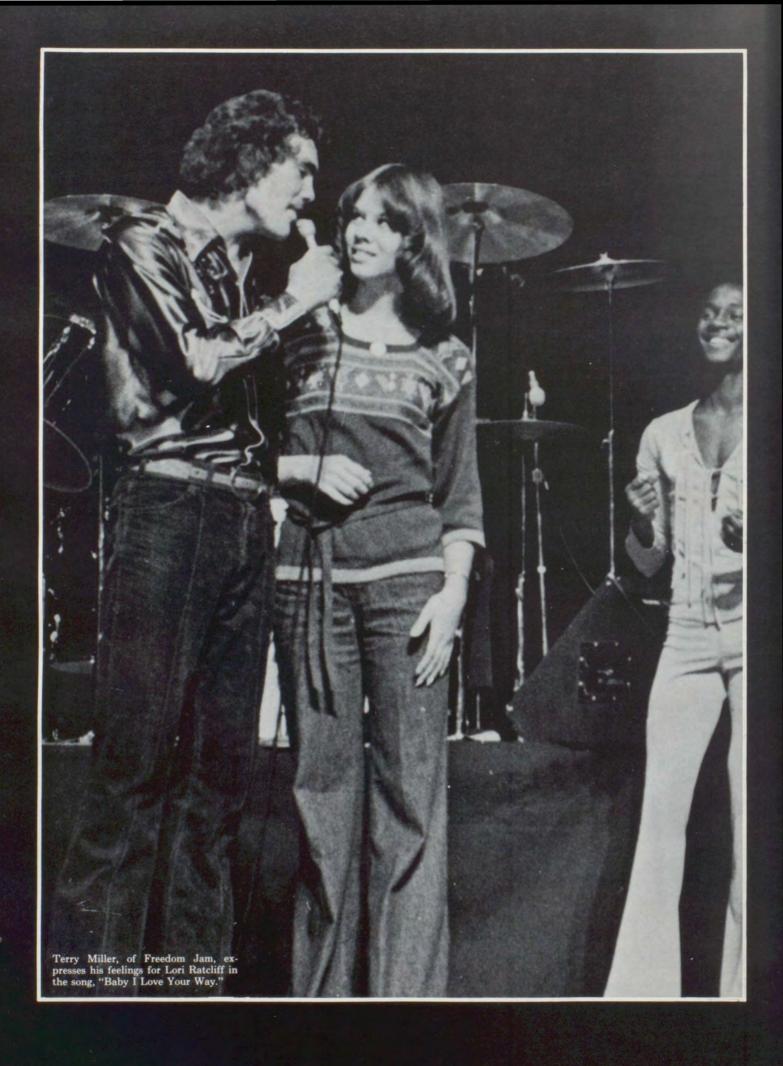

We spent money on tickets such as football, basketball, and other sports tickets, also tickets for concerts or plays. The price range varied greatly but most students seemed to be able to afford the cost.

Dances were other high school events many students attended. Expenses really added up as a tuxedo or a dress could be very expensive. Flowers and tickets along with a restaurant could really make a wallet feel light. Also, the gas for a car could be enough to make us resort to walking.

A senior especially felt the pinch. There was the cost of senior pictures, cap and gown, and invitations. Autograph books along with class keys were other added expenses. College applications were not to be overlooked in a senior's investments.

We had plenty of things to spend our money on. The only trouble was that at one time or another we all probably felt the pinch.

With a solemn expression on his face, Bart Scott lays out ten dollars for gas.

Radios clicked, stereos blared, hands clapped, and people danced to all different kinds of music. Whether our favorite music happened to be country western, or hard rock, the day would not have been the same without it. And who would have been able to survive the weekends without going to a rock concert or listening to the "American Top Forty?" Music was a big part of almost every student's life.

Music was even present during the school day. At 9:15, music began pouring out of the P. A. system and into the homerooms to signal the beginning of the announcements. The music played during the announcements stayed with a student all day. On occasion, a student or two could be caught humming that music in the halls. The next musical encounter, unless one had band, orchestra, or Chorale, might have been at a rock convocation sponsored by the school. Music entered our lives next while driving home from school with the radio on full blast or when we returned home after school to engross ourselves in stereophonic sound. If it was a weekend, groups of students frequently went to a concert or just practiced making their own music. Music seemed to keep everyone going all through the week.

If we were interested in music, there was a lot of good music to get "into." If one was into rock, there were stars like Peter Frampton, K. C. and the Sunshine Band, Kiss, Rush, Black Sabbath, ZZ Top, and countless others who were turning out "hit" songs every week. This was the year of the disco sound. All over the country songs like "Disco Duck," "Shake Your Booty," "Play that Funky Music" and "Fifth of Beethoven" became popular; but Chrysler High students refused to flow with the disco rage that swept the country.

If a student happened to be a country western fan, there was still plenty of music for him to choose from. They had stars like Charlie Rich, Loretta Lynn and Gordon Lightfoot who kept the country sound alive.

The music world gave us a chance to break away from the tensions of school life and relax. It put a bright spot in our day when we turned our radios on, turned our stereos up, clapped our hands and danced.

moving

Getting from place to place was a daily routine for everyone. There were various modes of transportation available to all students.

The common way for students to get to school was by driving. Teens were seen driving anything from an old clunker to a Trans Am or even a milk truck. Many students who lived a distance from school had to endure a morning and afternoon ride on a school bus. During the warmer months, bicycles were not an uncommon sight on the streets of New Castle. The bicycles were all types ... ordinary, junky, ten speed, or even luxury items with everything on them. Guys and even some girls rode the "cool" way to school. They did this by riding their motorcycles.

How to get to places was a problem every student faced, but most people would ride in anything they could find, whether it was fancy or not.

Many students at Chrysler High depend on buses to take them to and from school.

in with the crowd

Hangouts ... a slang word used to mean a place where everyone goes to meet with everyone else. It's like one big get together. During their free time, many Chrysler High students went to different places just to have a good time.

Standing around talking, drinking cokes and having a good time were very popular with the kids. This was usually done at local drive-ins (Mac's Drive-in was the favorite). Some kids went to pizza places and others just stayed home to listen to the radio or watch television.

One of the most popular things to do in spare time was to go cruising. Most students cruised Broad Street. They did this to try to find an interesting man or woman. Some went just to admire the cars. Cruising Broad officially started at the west side of the County Courthouse on South 12th Street. It ended at Rodefeld's Automotive Supply.

A lot of the students, while on dates, parked on any road they could find, but the most widely used parking hangout was Westwood Dam.

The teens at Chrysler High School enjoyed many activities during the year, but most would agree that it was always fun to get together at one of the local hangouts.

Cruising Broad Street provided entertainment for many high school students.

A Night In Heaven

On a warm Saturday evening on May 15, couples began to arrive for the 1976 Prom. When they entered they found the surroundings decorated to the theme of "Stairway to Heaven." Students danced to the sound of "Heart, Body and Soul."

The west cafeteria was decorated as Hades and the walls were covered with red paper and devil cutouts. Red, yellow and orange streamers were extended from the ceiling, and tables were covered in gold and red paper and centered with red and yellow tapers. A large red throne at the south end was surrounded by flames to represent the devil's chair.

The hallway to the gym was earth with four large arches covered with tissue paper in rainbow colors and white Christmas tree lights. Earth was distinguished by its four seasons with spring flowers, snowflakes, autumn trees and beach scenes.

The stairway leading to the gym was decorated in light blue and white paper clouds to give the effect of being trapped in limbo.

Students entered Heaven (the gym) through the "pearly gates." Blue crepe paper canopies, silver stars and a revolving glitter ball helped to distinguish the atmosphere. Clouds were suspended from the ceiling and fleeced with blue angel hair with miniature twinkle lights.

The king candidates were Dale Combs, Tony Marcum, Scott Raines, Jim Ratliff, Chris Sell and Rick Smith. Queen candidates were Shelia Boggs, Cheryl Boyd, Robbin Edmondson, Suzanne Horn, Laura Patterson and Paula Whiles.

At 10 p.m. the moment everyone had been awaiting finally arrived. Cheryl Boyd and Scott Raines learned that they would reside as the 1976 Prom Queen and King.

NIGHTS ARE FOREVER

Finally the announcement of Winter Dance came; then it was time to get to work. After the decision had been made to title the dance "Nights Are Forever," the Winter Dance Committees began to tackle the problem of decorations. The committees worked hard in preparation for the dance, which was held on February 19 in the Girls' Gym.

As the couples entered the building, they passed through a black arch with silver lettering which spelled out the theme of the dance. Continuing down the halls, couples were greeted by name tags in the shape of moons and stars which could be removed from the windows and kept as souvenirs. Walking into the Girls' Gym they found it decorated with little white lights and silver stars made out of aluminum foil. There, they enjoyed dancing to the music of Faith. When the band took a break, the couples made a break for the "Night Gallery"

JUNIOR ACHIEUEMENT

Junior Achievement, commonly called JA, was a national business-sponsored, practical economics program in which high school students managed their own company under the guidance of adult advisers.

Each Junior Achievement company was organized in the fall as a corporate structure with approximately twenty members in each company. Included in each were the board of directors, the working force, and the sales staff.

The JA companies in New Castle were Mod-A-Nite, Speedco, AIA, USAIB; and students were from New Castle, Tri High, and Blue River schools. Each company selected a product to make or a service to render. Each of the company members sold shares of capital stock. The members set up production lines, advertised, and sold their company's product or service. They paid themselves salaries and sales commissions. Also company books and records were kept.

In May, each JA company liquidated and converted all of their assets into cash. An annual report was issued to stockholders. Profitable companies redeemed shares at face value plus a dividend. The companies that did not make a profit pro-rated assets among stockholders.

In short, members of JA met the same challenges and responsibilities that today's corporations faced. The members developed an understanding of the private enterprise system.

Season's Greetings

Ding — Ding — Ding, this sound at 3 o'clock, signaled the dismissal of school but on December 17, 1976, the bell signaled the beginning of a 16 day vacation that both the students and faculty were able to enjoy.

Some students waited for the lakes to freeze and the snow to come before they began their fun. Others didn't let the absence of snow halt their plans as they used their vacation to do last minute Christmas shopping, visiting friends, baking, sleeping, catching up on their favorite soap operas and partying. Of course, after the little snow that came, students were found sledding and ice skating.

On January 3, our vacation ended and we became reacquainted with the familiar — Ding — Ding — Ding.

One week later the snow finally came, eight inches of it. The students received an unexpected three day vacation as road crews fought sub-zero weather to clear the roads. Then students once again returned to school.

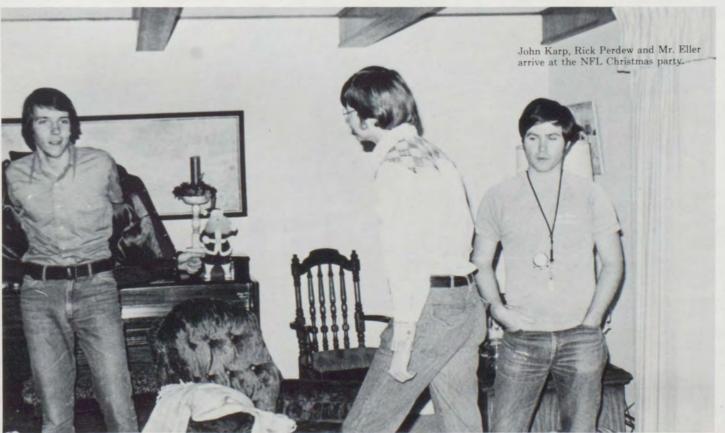

The excitement found in children's eyes at Christmas time is demonstrated by Jay Bunner, April Elliott and Dwight Elliot.

who's what & why

The seventeenth annual Achievement Day Convocation was held on September 10 in the Bundy Auditorium for the purpose of honoring the students of Chrysler High School who had maintained a high scholastic average during high school.

Twenty-six seniors received honor jackets, maintaining a 3.8 grade point average throughout high school. An additional 53 seniors were awarded crests and certificates for maintaining at least a 3.4 scholastic average. There were 52 juniors who were presented with certificates for maintaining at least a 3.4 average through their two years of high school.

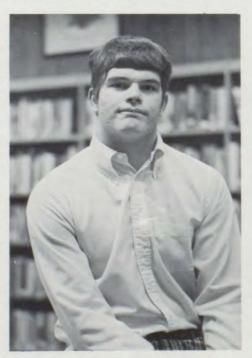

For their scholastic achievement, leadership ability, good citizenship, and interest in government, twelve Chrysler High School students were chosen as Boy's and Girl's state delegates and alternates. The delegates studied the fundamentals of the governmental system in one-week sessions at Indiana State University during the summer. The delegates were Lisa Bunner, Renee McMullen, Cindy Watters, Ron Turnbull, Jeff Sahlberg, and Greg Warner. The alternates were Karen Chilton, Tammy Grimm, Beth Holloway, Duke Hamm, Jim Renfro, and Jerry Reamer. Alternate Tammy Grimm went to camp instead of delegate Renee McMullen because of an illness.

This year's National Merit Semi-Finalists were Chuck Kern and Christy Pasman. This honor is based on the scores that all the juniors in Indiana received from the PSAT test taken the previous year. They both were selected by the National Merit Scholarship Committee.

Jana Watt was voted D.A.R. Good Citizen by the senior class. This year there was the opportunity for both guys and girls to win. In the past, only senior girls were allowed to win the honor. After she won, she took another test judged on the Henry County level. She won in this area and advanced for state competition.

As a result of his PSAT scores, Chuck Kern was named as a National Merit Semi-finalist.

Senior Christy Pasman became a National Merit Semi- finalist based on the PSAT test.

Stars Of The Stage

It was opening night. The curtains were closed. There was a stillness in the air, interrupted by the murmurs of the audience. Behind the stage, set crews were setting up, makeup was being applied, and costumes were being checked. Actors were nervously studying their lines, as the opening night jitters began to set in.

Then, suddenly, the actors were rushed on stage to begin the first act. Their faces felt hot, their stomachs queasy and the fear of forgetting their lines haunted them. But when the curtain was opened the audience saw no traces of opening night jitters, just calm, confident people performing their art smoothly. This was to happen three times during the year and once last year.

Last year's spring musical was entitled "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" which showed Charlie Brown, portrayed by John Neal, turn from a wishy-washy nobody into a confident someone. The cast was small and the leads were held by Charlie Brown, John Neal; Snoopy, Greg Easter; Peppermint Pattie, Amy Danielson; Sally, Jeannette Smith; and Lucy, Valerie Franklin.

YOU'RE A GOOD MAN CHARLIE BROWN

Lisa McNelis, student director, jots down some suggestions for the actors that Thespian director, Dennis Eller, comes up with. Together the two work at organizing the acting and the "behind the scenes" activities that went into the development of the comedy — "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown."

John Neal, as the confused Charlie Brown feeling that his life is useless, ponders another question presented by Linus, John Cassidy. Linus points out that science has proven that a person's character isn't really established until he is five years old. "But, Linus, I am five years old."

Valerie Franklin, as Lucy, becomes engrossed in singing about herself when she is really supposed to be acting as "doctor" to remedy the problems of Charlie Brown's life. Lucy always seems to come to the point — and be frank about it — but she only manages to confuse Charlie Brown.

Peppermint Pattie, played by Amy Danielson, prepares to point out that the only thing wrong with Charlie Brown is "his lack of confidence; his clumsiness, his inferiority, and his lack of confidence; his stupidity, his clumsiness, his inferiority and his lack of confidence; his ..."

Jeanitta Smith, who plays the part of Sally, puts her voice and her acting ability together in the portrayal of Charlie Brown's little sister who is only concerned with the most important facets of life; such as playing jacks and becoming a housewife. If Sally gets her way, she would become Linus' housewife.

JABBERWOCK

"Saddle her up and ride her girl. Show you're Fisher!" is what Grandpa, Greg Easter, says as he is helped inside after trying out the new family car, he thought was a horse. Mary Agnes, Kristen Kinkade, the bustling, motherly-type, yet with an eccentric individuality (the main theme) is always moving and laughing.

The portrayal of James Thurber was done by Mike Page. Thurber (Page) tries hard to think of himself as a soldier while all his other feelings of hatred toward war and how war makes people lose their identity contradicts the duty he must perform serving his country. In this scene he prepares for war.

Doctor Quimby, Tim Webb, makes an accurate diagnosis when he tells Clyde Smith, draftee, that he has swallowed a watch. The doctor accuses Clyde of cowardice. "You've got to be brave to eat a watch" Clyde says (even though he's shaking like a leaf) "Aahh, bravery, just what we need in the trenches," says the doctor. And poor Clyde's efforts at a draft evasion have failed.

Charlie Thurber, Eric John, shows his fashionable straw hat as he prepares to sell his wife on the revolutionary idea of the new electric car he has just bought. His wife wonders if it might be dangerous. After Grandpa's little episode, he asks her if she likes it. She says, "Better as a car than as a horse."

The "Get-Ready Man", portrayed by Brian Hacker, rides along in his tattered clothes telling everyone to "get-ready for the end of the world." He looks like "death warmed over" and is the typical crier of doom, especially as World War I approaches.

R.U.R.

Lisa McNelis portrays the part of Helena Glory, a girl who comes to the robot factory to liberate the robots and finally manages to stir up a revolt among the robots. Even though she burns the secret of the robots' production, all of the men have fallen in love with her and she continues to win the hearts of them all, no matter what kind of silly act she performs.

Domin, Ron Turnbull, is the idealist in charge of productions at Rossum's Universal Robot Factory. He continues to believe that the Robots will cause mankind to perfect itself and is only pursued by his Helena, whom he asked to marry on their very first meeting. In this scene, Domin has just met the president's daughter, Helena, and is so impressed he trys to keep her there with stories.

With stern and determined faces, a few robots, Chad Keesling, Bill Hamilton, Dale McQueen, and David Pitchford, think about the future of the Robot population without having the secret of their reproduction that was destroyed. They learn later that they have acquired one of the most important qualities from mankind — a soul that is capable of love. It is love that assures their existence for the future.

Not only are rehearsals important for the actors to perfect their abilities, but also for ideas that keep their performances fresh and lively. Getting tips from Mr. Willis are Ron Turnbull, Domin; Tammy Grimm, the maid; and Lisa McNelis and Cindy Loveless as factory secretaries. Practice is tiring but it serves to perfect the act.

Mr. Richard Willis, Thespian director for the 1976-1977 year, stands among the actors and gives his own ideas concerning the real meaning and message that R.U.R. should bring out to its audience. "Mankind can be compared to Rossum's Robots," Willis points out. Not only does Willis devote his time to perfecting the acting in the play, but also the behind the scene activities.

Stars of The Stage

This year's first play was quite a challenge for the 29 person cast. It was entitled "Jabberwock" and told the story of James Thurber and his unusual family. The leading roles were held by Kristen Kinkade, who portrayed Mary Agnes Thurber, Mike Page as Jamie, Eric John as Charley Thurber, Greg Easter as Grandpa Fisher, and Susan Acker who portrayed Georgiana Littlefield.

R.U.R., presented in February, was a play about robots who took over the world. The lead parts were played by Lisa McNelis, as Helen Glory, and Ron Turnbull as Harry Domin. While the cast of R.U.R. got ready for opening night, preparations were being made for the spring musical "Irene."

"Irene" was a light and lively play filled with some of today's best loved music. The play was about a woman, Irene, who believed in the word women's-lib before it was ever invented.

As the final curtain was drawn on each play a sense of accomplishment and relief filled the air backstage. The actors then returned to their former selves and the opening night jitters disappeared.

Students present problems for new teachers as Miss Haggard was soon to learn.

The faculty provided helpful information for us, aiding us in high school and making our future a success. They usually had a minute to spare if we were confused or in doubt about our work. Teachers played a major role in our success as students. Tradition has consistently given us teachers who criticized us, helped us, encouraged us, domineered us, and supervised us. Some were compassionate and understanding while others seemed tyrannical and bossy. Sometimes we had our problems, but we had a good staff of teachers at CHS this year to teach and challenge us. The faculty represented authority. They fulfilled our needs as we served theirs.

FACULDEMICS

Senior English students moaned and groaned last September when they discovered that they were signed up for Modern Poetry, Argumentative Writing, Research II, Philosophies of Life, Advanced Speech and Classical Literature — otherwise known as College Prep English. However, despite the griping, almost a hundred students participated in the College Prep Program which was new this year. College-bound underclassmen took a sequencial program to prepare themselves for senior college prep courses.

Students also were offered a great variety of other classes, and all found some of their liking. Some favorites that students enjoyed were Death and Dying; Research I and II; Man Understanding Man; Expanded Reading; Adventure, Suspense and Mystery; and Cars.

Work wasn't only in the classroom. Many classes ventured out of the classroom and enjoyed other activities. Field trips galore were planned, with students learning as well as having fun. Among these was a trip to Terrace Gardens in the Man Understanding Man classes; while Broadcasting students visited the Ball State television studio. A visit to the "500" race track highlighted the Sports classes' year. Speakers were also in abundance as ministers and public relations people came and discussed ideas with students.

NEW WORDS,

NEW PLACES

On top of learning, there was lots of fun in the Foreign Language Department. Activities in Latin, French, and Spanish aided students in their learning and created a fun atmosphere in which to work.

Spanish classes had numerous activities this year. Field trips were taken to Indianapolis to see the Boston Flamenco Ballet and La Tuna, a group of singers from the University of Barcelona, and to Columbus, Ohio, to see Jose Greco and his company. Spanish students also participated in many contests. Some of these were National Examinations Contests, Taylor University Spanish Contest, and Ball State University Contest. Other activities were skits, a Spanish breakfast for the third year class, the traditional dinner for the fourth year students, and a talent show that involved students from second, third, and fourth year classes.

French classes were not to be outdone. Students participated in and enjoyed many events concerning the French language and ways of life. Second year students studied a detailed unit on the French Revolution. Third year students made a television newscast and studied French art styles and paintings. To supplement this, they made and exhibited their own art works. Fourth year students enjoyed a pleasant trip to La Tour restaurant in Indianapolis. All French students went on a field trip to Fort Wayne to see a French-Canadian musical group called Robert Paquette et Ses Amis.

Latin students were encouraged to learn the fundamentals of the Latin language, and they worked hard to get all they could out of their classes. Latin had a new face this year with the arrival of a new teacher, Ms. Theresa Gorenz.

DO WHAT YOU LIKE

The Social Studies Department adopted two new courses to give Chrysler High Students a wider selection of classes from which to choose. Geography-Anthropology, mainly a sophomore course, but open to juniors and seniors, provided a course of study in which students were able to look at the relationship between geography and human behavior.

The other new class, Social Work Practicum, consisted of Sociology — Psychology students who worked with patients at the New Castle State Hospital.

This year, a seven day election unit—Campaign '76— was a required unit for all Sophomores and Seniors. Some activities of the unit were presentations of candidates and issues, voter behavior, and all items concerning national elections.

Mr. Jerry Koger, chairman of the department, developed a social work practicum whereby the students were involved in a one-to-one relationship with patients at the State Hospital. The limited enrollment allowed students to work from 2:00 to 3:15, four days a week with the patients. The practicum provided the students with valuable experience in the field of social work.

Seniors enrolled in Sociology-Psychology were provided with a wide range of subject matter. In Sociology, emphasis was on the study of child abuse, family, educational system, social status and various other problems concerning people. The second semester students probed into why people act as they do. Psychology also studied individual behavior and theories of personality, philosophy, and mental health. Field trips were taken to Indiana State Women's Prison, Indiana Girl's School, Indiana State Reformatory at Pendleton, Richmond State Hospital and Drug Rehabilitation Program and the New Castle State Hospital.

U.S. History students had the opportunity to choose from three different electives: 1920 to Present, Civil Rights and Liberties, and Wars. All students had units on the American Revolution, the Civil War, the Twenties, and World War II.

Geography-Anthropology was one semester of study in each of the two areas. Twelve different concepts and generalizations of Geography were studied one semester. Geography was an activity centered-problem solving class with a creative teaching approach.

Government-Economics and Government-Criminology were two options which were offered for the Senior Social Studies students. Local politics, state and federal governments, and the constitution were studied by all Government students. Economics studied prices, the economy, inflation, and the economic structure. Crime in the street, the state constitution and criminology were all studied in the second option.

Students at Chrysler High taking music were offered a wide variety of activities in areas like Band, Chorale, and Music Appreciation. Marching Band, Concert Band, Wind Ensemble, Jazz Ensemble, Pep Band, Chorale, Swing Choir, Training Choir, and the study of both the meaning and history of music made up the program of the Music Department

During the summer, the Marching Band placed in the top of each of the four contests they participated in. They captured first at Winchester, fourth at Delaware, third at Jay County, and seventh at the State Fair. Besides performing at all home football and basketball games, the band was invited to perform at Indiana State and Ball State football games. Other band activities included: annual half-time highlights show, district and state solo and ensemble contests, All-City Band Festival, and marching in the Memorial Day Parade.

Chorale, Swing Choir, and Training Choir participated in a number of activities and contests throughout the school year. The three groups combined to present a Christmas Concert and a Spring Choral Concert. Several members of the Chorale traveled to Indianapolis for a fall choral Chorale participated in numerous jazz festivals, solo-ensemble contests, the Eastern Indiana District Choral Festival at Hagerstown, and State Organizational Contest. The highlight for the Chorale members was their two-day concert tour at the end of the school year.

The Swing Choir, this year, began rehearsing during the summer - a first for the group that helped them with their schedule. The Swing Choir presented their annual tour of the elementary schools in the fall, followed by an extremely busy Christmas schedule singing for numerous groups in the area and Indianapolis. The Swing Choir also presented a major concert in March, marking another first for the group. The Swing Choir was greatly in demand - they presented performances throughout the school year.

The Music Appreciation class was presented as a study of music literature and history. The literature section developed the students' ability to enjoy music as an expression of a universal language. This included the cultivation of a finer taste and more intelligent discrimination of music, a development of an appreciation for all types of music, and the broadening of the cultural horizons of stufestival at Howe High School. In ad- dents through listening and reading dition to their two major concerts, the about music. The history section presented the chronological development of the art of music. Students traced the growth of music through the various eras, discovered its importance in all cultures, and studied the development of music from the Renaissance era on, through, and including all phases of American music.

The Art Department established as its own the development of new skills and improvement of old ones. Beginning activities presented in a general art course introduced students to new materials and techniques. Advanced students participated in studio courses to increase their drawing and design abilities, while honor seminar provided senior students with an opportunity to pursue independent projects.

Studio class was planned for those students with talent and a high interest in art. Emphasis in studio class was on quality of work and understanding of purpose.

The honor seminar was open to seniors who took this class with individual goals they wished to pursue.

The annual Art Club sale allowed students to sell their projects to their fellow students. All money that was made in the sale went into a scholarship fund which was presented to students who wished to continue their art studies in college. Several students have benefitted from this scholarship.

148-17 = ? This problem and others like it were familiar to math students here at Chrysler High.

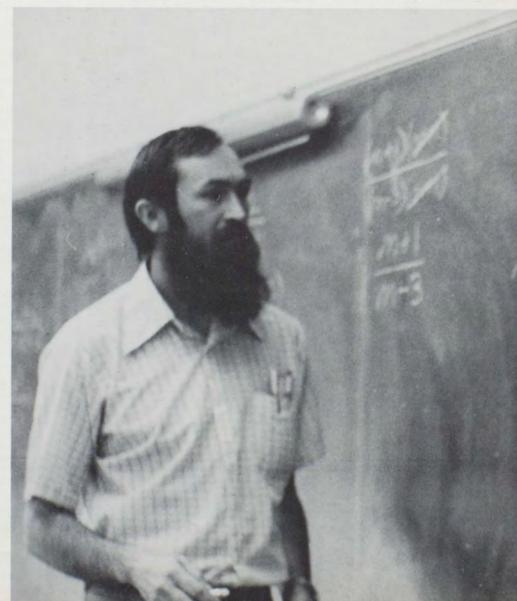

Algebra students joined forces and worked hard on problems concerning graphs, probability, and various other areas of Algebra. They were also shown how Algebra is related to everyday life and problems.

Geometry saw some new things this year, one of the main ones being the "dimensional approach." Students worked on three dimensional objects and had fun learning geometry by playing logic games.

Analysis students prepared themselves for college by listening to lectures, doing assignments and working on graphs. Trigonometry was a subject in which students saw how algebra and geometry could be brought together and related.

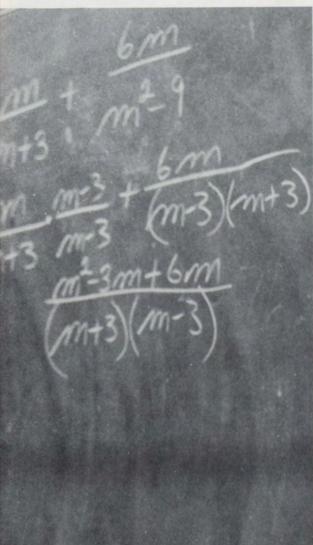

Courses in Machine Shop, Business and Consumer Mathematics were also offered. These dealt with specific areas of math.

ATOMS TO INFINITY

Chrysler High School Science Department offered courses that allowed students to participate in biology, chemistry, physics, integrated science, and advanced biology.

Students in Integrated Science learned how science is involved in everyday life. Class discussions and films helped students learn material needed to fulfill the Science requirement for graduation. Students had one day of class and one day of lab.

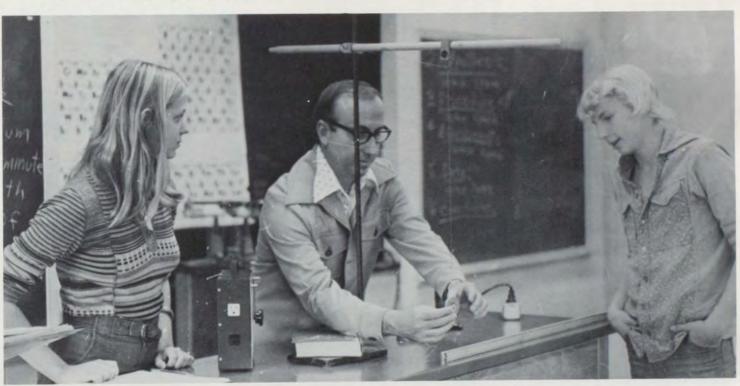

Those enrolled in biology became familiar with nature by studying various units in class and in the lab. They were able to view cells and cell division in lab and were also allowed to experience many interesting discoveries. All students are expected to learn to use the microscope.

People who took Advanced Biology covered material concerning the makeup of living things. Students also completed projects each six weeks which they worked on during their own time. The climax of the year was the annual dissection of a fetal pig.

Chemistry students learned the chemical side of science. People enrolled in Chemistry "C" studied molecular theories and chemical equations in class and performed chemical reactions in the lab. Regular Chemistry students were shown how chemistry applies to everyday life and how it works in other science areas.

Physics was a senior course which emphasized areas of heat, sound, light, and many other areas. Lab work offered variety by covering many subjects, but accuracy was very important for collecting data.

TAKIN' CARE OF BUSINESS

A wide variety of classes were offered for students who took business classes. They were able to learn new skills or improve on old ones.

Students just concentrated on speed and accuracy in the first year typing classes. As time went on they learned to type letters, manuscripts, and invoices. The students in advanced typing classes tried hard to improve and reinforce their ability behind the typewriter.

Before accounting students could work on actual checks, invoices, and deposit slips, they were required to learn the basics in the field of accounting in the 21-22 class.

In business law class, students learned quite a bit about how law and business tie together. Such topics as contracts and insurance policies were studied in detail.

A lot of time and hard work went into the shorthand classes. After learning basic outlines, brief forms, dictation, and transcription, students moved on to second year shorthand where they tried to increase their speed and accuracy.

TUMBLING INTO ACTION

A wide variety of courses in Physical Education were selected by sophomores this year. This elective program allowed students to choose from activities ranging from archery to weight training. Twenty-three different courses were offered with over half being co- educational.

Arena scheduling was used this year to allow students to choose certain days and classes. Students met either Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, or Tuesday and Thursday; and selections were made at the start of each semester. Every hour there were two activities going on at once.

Mr. Sam Alford and Mrs. Janet Manning had two helpers each hour to take squad attendance, run errands, demonstrate activities and help in other ways. They earned a half credit per semester for their work. P. E. students also earned a quarter credit per semester.

WHAT'S COOKING?

Home Economics opened a new world to many students, showing them skills and giving experience they could apply to everyday life and work.

Girls weren't the only ones acquiring skills as boys enrolled in Bachelor Living. This helped boys gain information they would need while living on their own in the kitchen and around the home.

Foods saw something new with the addition of catering to the curriculum. Breads, cakes, cookies, and pizza were just a few of the goodies students prepared and sold. Diet and the use of proper nutrition were emphasized in the advanced foods class.

Girls made dresses for dolls to give to the Salvation Army for Christmas. They mended, restyled and made clothes of all types. The sewing classes also put on their annual fashion show, modeling clothes the girls had fashioned themselves.

Other classes were Consumer Education where the use of money was discussed, Family Living which covered family relationships, and Home Care of the Sick where proper care of the ill was emphasized. Miss Kathy Inman was a new face in the Home-Ec. Department this year.

PREPARING FOR

Chrysler High offered many opportunities for students interested in learning industrial skills for vocational purposes. Hard work and lots of practice were a few factors that made an interesting as well as rewarding year for all participants.

Students in the vocational program participated in the areas of Building Trades, Graphic Arts, Machine Shop, and Welding.

Building Trades set their attention on the construction of a house located on Earlham Avenue and gained useful experience in the construction field.

Graphic Arts students worked hard to learn the proper use of the Offset and Platen presses. They also spent time making negatives and constructing plates that were used on the Offset press.

Machine shop made hand tools for students' use and took on almost any repair task set in front of them. They worked closely with the welding department in the construction of a trailer.

On their own, the welding department constructed jack stands, car ramps, and many other useful welding projects.

Pre-Vocational Education gave juniors some ideas about what to do while on the job. The class stressed good working habits, getting along with co-workers and how to behave while on the job. Students participated in one hour of class, and some actually worked for two hours to gain first-hand experience. As a class, they had a mass production unit and manufactured a wall sconce.

WORKING

"I just want to be able to do it myself," was a goal set by students who were enrolled in the Industrial Education program. Classes included Drafting, Building Trades, Woods, Machine Shop, Graphic Arts, Metals, Power and Transportation, and Electricity and Electronics.

Building Trades studied areas from footings to rafters as they learned the basics about plumbing, heating, electricity, masonry, and blueprint reading.

Drafting classes designed both machine and architectural drawings. Machine drawings dealt with perspectives, sections, and pictorials. House plans, stresses, strains, stud and rafter placement, and electrical, heating, and plumbing systems were the main concern of students enrolled in architectural classes.

By using planers, jointers, radial arm saws, and other tools, Woods class members manufactured individual projects.

Machine Shop students developed new skills as they learned how to use the lathe, vertical and horizontal mill, and the grinder. They also gained experience in bluepring reading and related math.

A lot of different materials and tools were used in the Graphic Arts class. They made negatives, worked the Offset, Heidelburg and Platen presses and also used folders, shears and the punch.

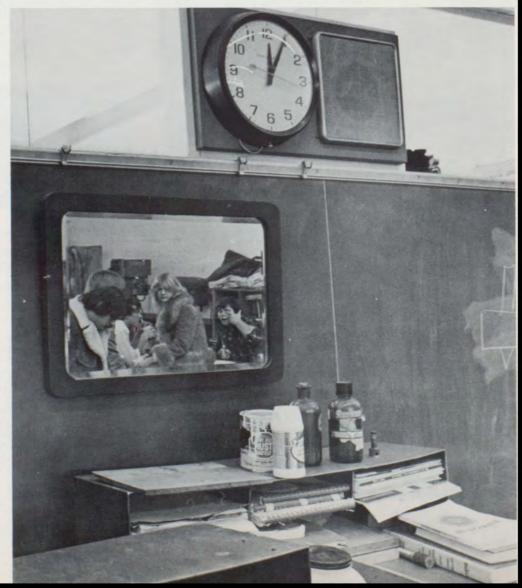

Students enrolled in metals class did some welding, used sheet metal, learned how forging works and spent time in the foundry making their own projects.

Power and Transportation students studied many different areas concerning transportation. Jet and diesel engines and cars were just a few of the subjects that were covered during the year.

Electricity and Electronics students learned how to wire a house. Students also concentrated on some of the basics in the field of electronics. Some subjects covered involved integrated circuits, transistors, and resistors.

This mirror reflects the many different activities of an industrial education class.

LEARNING NOW

Students enrolled at North Campus pursued academic as well as personal goals. Six regularly scheduled periods covered English, social studies, math, science, and personal interest clubs.

Each day every student participated in an interest club of his choice. These included photography, needlepoint, typing, crafts, personal projects, plants, interviewing, current events, yoga, and exercise.

Activities outside the classroom included parties and field trips. Students enjoyed themselves at Halloween and Christmas parties. Long remembered fieldtrips were taken to Kings Island, the Chicago Science Institute, and the Pokagon State Park.

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Introducing Dr. Philip Borders, newly appointed superintendent of the New Castle Community Schools.

Nearly 6,300 students attended the New Castle schools with a faculty and staff numbering 650. In addition to Chrysler High School, there were eight elementary schools, two junior high schools, an alternative school, an area vocational school, and a special education program for students in kindergarten through grade 12. Consistent recognition of high scholastic achievement of New Castle students indicated the high quality of the educational programs of the corporation.

Responsible for these successful programs was the Board of School Trustees which served as the representative of the local school community. The Board, composed of five members, was elected for four-year terms by the citizens of New Castle. They had three primary functions — policy-making, executive, and appraisal.

Policy-making was that function which determined what should be done and then established procedures for accomplishing the tasks and financing them. The executive function was concerned with placing the Board's policies into operation through the superintendent of schools. New to the school corporation this year as superintendent was Dr. Philip Borders who came to New Castle in July after serving as superintendent in Wabash and Sullivan.

The third function, appraisal, involved the careful study of all facts and conditions so the Board was able to evaluate the corporation's operations and determine the value of the results.

Much of the Board's time and energy during the 1976-1977 school year was directed to the preliminary steps in the construction of two new elementary schools. When completed the new Parker and Eastside elementary buildings will replace the existing Holland, Hernly, Weir, and Parker elementary schools.

LIBRARY

This year the library was frequently used by many classes. Students wrote reports, prepared research papers, or just read for fun with the use of many library materials. Over 20,000 books gave students a wide variety of choices.

New filmstrips, records, transparencies, and posters were added this year for the use of the Social Studies Department. The library is helping them catalog a special collection of psychology and sociology books to be used in their resource center.

AUXILARY STAFF

When help was needed, the secretaries were there to lend a hand. They took attendance, helped the counselors, handled all kinds of calls and typed up memorandums.

Mrs. Helen Porter served as office manager and secretary to Mr. Lehr. In the general office, Mrs. Edith Ingram was the receptionist and switchboard operater. Mrs. Cheryl Razor took care of all the attendance. Mrs. Cathy Wiles was secretary to Mr. Kinnett. Secretary for the counselors was Mrs. Margaret Williams who also was in charge of all student records. The Practical Arts secretary was Mrs. Brenda Leduc, and Mrs. Margaret Bow was the Industrial Education secretary.

The custodians kept the building clean for students and maintained the building.

AFTER SCHOOL

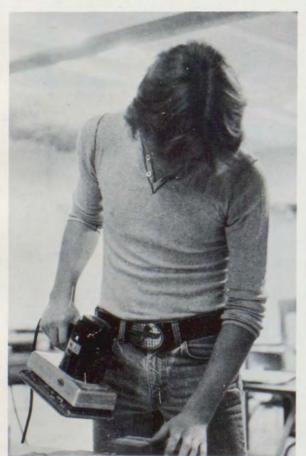

Teachers not only spent time in the classroom, they were also involved in various outside activities. Clubs, speech meets, and coaching were only a few of the ways teachers spent their after school hours.

By being involved in these outside activities, teachers could give students advice, encouragement, and the proper coaching needed to make all projects successful.

Teachers also worked late hours grading papers and preparing for their daily classes. They tried to create ideas to make classes fun as well as educational for all students.

SPORTS

Most of the school spirit revolves around sports. The girls are no longer just cheering but are now participating in their own sports.

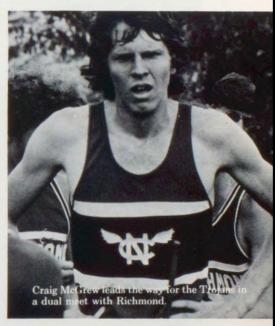

All sports are building up their own traditions. Football and wrestling have started their string of excellent teams. The Cross Country team advanced to the regional for their twelfth straight year. The swimming team has shown its strong power in the pool by advancing swimmers to state. Girl's volleyball had an undefeated season.

At any high school sporting event there are both sexes present. Some have the girls yelling for the boys and others have the new tradition of boys yelling for girls.

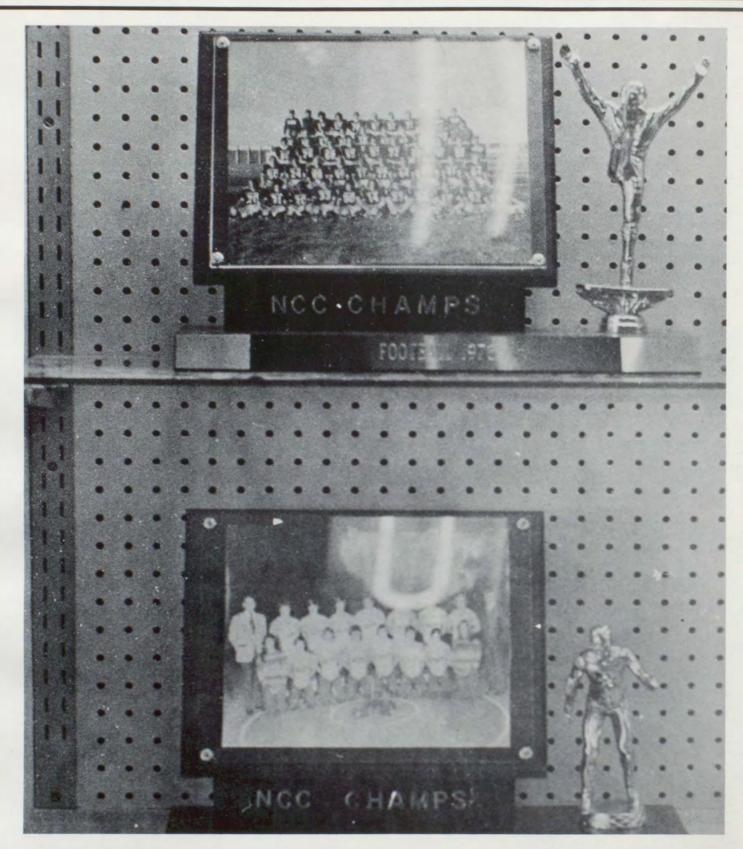

The 200 yard individual medley swimmers are set for the race. Eight lengths and four different strokes are what Tim Weintraut has ahead of him.

The thrill of victory is shown by football coach Twyman Patterson. He led the Trojans to their first North Central Conference championship in 38 years.

GOLFERS "TEE" OFF

The New Castle Trojan linksmen finished with a seven win and seven loss record for the second year in a row. The golf team was compiled of seven lettermen and some fine junior varsity golfers and finished a tough season with a respectable record.

Several golfers turned in outstanding individual seasons and qualified for post-season competition. Scott Goodwin, captain of the team, posted the lowest score ever to be shot by a high school player, a two under par 70, at the Meshingomesia Country Club in Marion. Scott also finished fourth in the conference, third in the sectional, and second in the regional which qualified him for the state competition in Indianapolis where he finished fourteenth.

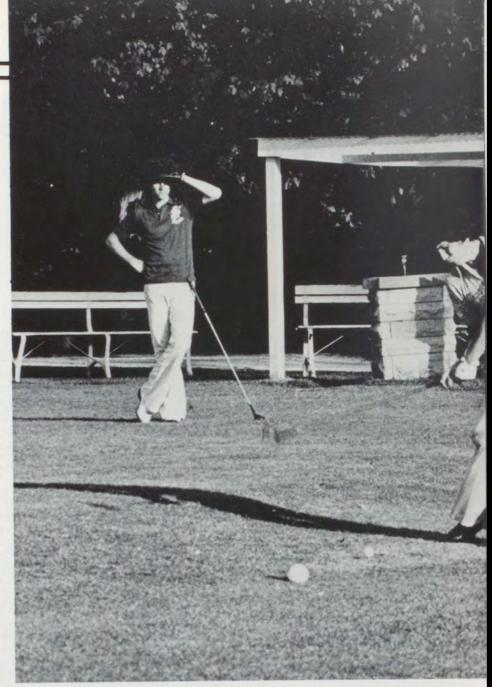

Todd Thalls reigned as the individual champion of the sectional at Richmond with a four over par 76.

Coach Jerry Koger recognized the golfers as the most enthusiastic group towards winning the sectional and regional that he had ever coached.

Seven Trojans received varsity letters this year. They were led by seniors Scott Goodwin and Dan Coleman. Other lettermen were seniors Brett Strukel and Bob Caffoe, juniors Todd Thalls and Bill Hamilton and sophomore Jeff Koger.

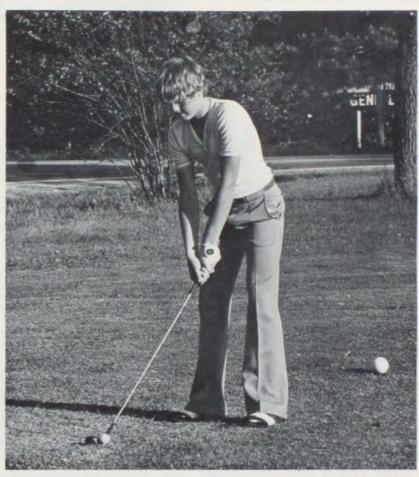

The junior varsity had an outstanding 8-3 season and hoped to have an even better season in 1977.

Defense, experience, balance, and depth were the reasons for the high hopes of a fabulous baseball season during the Spring of 1976. Returning lettermen from the previous season were Bill Teel, Mark Booher, Tim Reagan, Keith Shadrick, Dale Combs, Cary Riggs, Tim Miller, Larry Freeburg, Rick Gwinn, Mike Sutherland and Tim York. On the road 16 times, and at home 6 times, the Trojans faced stiff competition. Three of the teams on their schedule were among the top ten in the Associated Press's first state poll.

New Castle opened its season by dumping Rushville 6-2. The Trojans collected seven hits and a near homerun, which was ruled by the second base umpire to be a double.

As the season progressed, it became evident that the Trojans were suffering from several problems, the most evident being the low morale among the teammates. According to the players, this probably was due to the fact that Coach Rex Brooks kept eighteen players instead of his usual fifteen. All the players, whether good or bad, were forced to sit the bench at least some of the time. As a result, there was much disagreement about who should play. Dissension disappeared and unity returned, though, as the Trojans snapped their five-game losing streak to down Pendleton Heights 5-3.

Chances for a sectional title were terminated as the Knightstown Panthers upset the Trojans for a 3-1 win. The Trojans ended with 6 wins to 13 losses.

The reserve team turned in a fine season as Coach Dave Crafton piloted the sub-varsity players to an impressive record of 9 wins and 3 losses.

Tracksters Truck On

New Castle's track team tuned up for its 1976 track season by participating in the annual Boilermaker Relays at Purdue University. In this indoor meet, which draws top high school track atheletes from around the state, New Castle was impressive as they placed in several events.

The team, mainly comprised of juniors and sophomores, opened its season by whipping Shenandoah 89 - 38, and continued to win by downing Rushville and Connersville. Against Connersville, David Smith cracked a 15-year-old track record in the high hurdles with a time of :14.5 -snipping four-tenths of a second off the old record of :14.9.

One of the high points of the season was New Castle's ability to take the "Big Five" meet for the third time in four years. Other teams participating in the meet were Crawfordsville, Tipton, Noblesville and Frankfort. In the New Castle Invitational, the Thinlies picked up a fourth place behind the tough competition of Muncie South, Madison Heights, and Pendleton Heights. The top-quality competition of the meet was demonstrated as five records were broken and one was tied.

The Trojans finished fourth in the sectional in a 23 team field. Out of that meet, four Thinlies qualified for the regional meet. Three track records were broken in the regular season play. Setting the new marks were David Smith in the high hurdles and low hurdles, and Craig McGrew in the 2-mile run.

REACHING THE TOP

"Get that shoe," was a familiar cry of the Trojan football team as they battled their way to a North Central Conference crown and a playoff berth in the IHSAA state tournament.

The race for the conference crown actually began at the beginning of the summer for most of the gridders with the "Superstars" training and conditioning program. This superstar program began in 1974 and was devised by Coach Dave Pryor who got the idea at a football clinic and decided to try it on the Trojan footballers. This program seemed to be a key to success as the team had their first winning season for a number of years in 1975. The success of the squad plus momentum gained from some of its '75 graduates led to the development of "one of the best football teams in New Castle history," according to Coach Twyman Patterson.

The state playoff game against Evansville Reitz seemed to be an anticlimatic end to an outstanding season as the Trojans lost 10-7 to a rugged defensive team. The loss to Evansville and another to arch-rival Richmond were the only setbacks for the team during the season.

The Richmond game proved to be one of the best displays of team spirit and attitude in a heartbreaking double-overtime loss.

The rest of the season found the Trojans on top as they played outstanding games with Marion and Logansport that broke losing strings against both teams.

Highlighting the season was the conference championship game at Lafayette Jefferson. The team displayed their best effort of the year by beating the Broncos 36-6. The concentrated effort of all team members enabled them to convert all of the big plays never possible before.

Several outstanding players were selected as all-conference members. Pat Cook was recognized as all-conference offensive end, Gareld Shipley at tackle, Scott Raines at nose guard, Steve Ditton at defensive halfback, Mark Boatright at offensive halfback, and Chuck Kern and Jim Atkinson as linebackers. Scott Larrison and Jay Patterson gained all-conference honorable mention at offensive center and tackle. Kern, Ditton, and Raines later received all-state honors.

SERVICE WITH A SMILE

The Trojan netmen went through a "building year" this season finishing with a respectable 7-8 record. The team had its largest turnout with 11 freshmen trying out for the team.

The team experimented through part of the season trying to improve their weak spots and creating many opportunities for all team members.

The seven varsity lettermen John Karp, John Cashdollar, John Lines, Chris Horan, Jim Gough, Phil Jones, Clifford Ziebold and Chad Keesling displayed great attitudes and good team spirit during the course of the season.

John Karp, team captain, reaped all-conference honors and served as an inspiration to all team members from the beginning of the summer program through the entire season.

With many returning lettermen and several outstanding junior varsity members, the team anticipates a strong future.

DEPTH, TALENT, & EXPERIENCE

After an impressive record of eight wins and four losses in 1975, a strong and well-balanced team was expected to return this year. Six senior lettermen — Craig McGrew, Doug Morris, Charlie and Bobby Davis, Kevin Hart, John Row — combined their talents to give the team depth. One junior, Mike Schwinn, also was a varsity veteran.

Sickness and injuries plagued the team throughout the season. Craig McGrew, the Trojan's number one man for the third straight year, sprained his ankle during the summer and was handicapped for most of the season. Craig made a late comeback, though, as he capped his four year varsity career with a sixth place in the North Central Conference and a sixth in the Regional. His Regional time of 12:29 gave him both a school record and a berth in the State meet.

In the Conference, New Castle performed well and captured fourth place. The Sectional was a different story for the harriers. Although expected to take first place honors, they finished fourth. Trojan talent, though, was exhibited in the Regional, as New Castle finished thirteenth and ahead of two teams they lost to in the Sectional.

In regular season meets, the varsity squad compiled a record of ten wins and three losses. The reserve team also turned in a winning record of seven wins and four losses.

Dedication & Determination

Numbers were down and depth was shallow as the possibility of a tragic season threatened the Trojan tankers this year. Realizing that a solution was urgent, Coach Dave Krieger and several returning lettermen turned to early pre-season training beginning late in September. To enliven the swimmers as they swam their 6,000 to 7,000 yards daily, water polo matches were played throughout the pre-season sessions. The fifteen that turned out for this training were the foundation of the team and the reason for the 8-3 regular season record.

The squad prided themselves especially on two particular meets. The first was a come-from-behind victory over bitter rival Connersville. Winning the first event, but falling behind in the next few, New Castle seemed ready to lose by a disasterous margin. Regaining their composure, they fought with stubborn determination and reduced the Spartan lead until the 400 free relay team of Wade, Lauer, Sahlberg and Franklin iced the victory.

The second memorable meet ironically was a loss to Muncie North when the tankers came within twotenths of a second of tving the state's fourth ranked team. Because of weather, this was their first meet in 24 days, but the Trojans still were able to put it all together that night in what Krieger labeled as the best overall performance of the season. The minor difference in the score occurred when New Castle's two relay teams failed to take the first two places in the event. Posting their best times of the season at this meet were Gilbert Webb in the 50 and 100 freestyle, Jerry Wade in the 400 free relay, and Tim Weintraut in the 200 individual medley. Jim Lauer suffered his only season loss in the 100 butterfly to a possible state contender.

A growing interest in intramural basketball swept the halls of CHS as 85 students found time to participate.

The organization of the league was left up to Mr. Dennis Eller, Mr. Jon Willis and Rick Clark, who found that a number of dropouts in the league did not hamper the style of play. According to Mr. Eller, the students "had more of an interest in playing ball" than in past years.

Intramurals were open to both boys and girls, and four girls were in the league at the beginning but dropped out later in the season. The league was broken up into ten teams.

The highlight of the year was the tournament at the end of the regular season. The season's crown went to the team captained by Mark Boatright, and Joey Stockton's team won the tournament.

-WOLFPACK=

The 1977 Trojan Wolfpack, a term given to the team by Coach Lance Rhodes before their Greenfield match, compiled one of the most impressive wrestling seasons in Chrysler High history. The grapplers finished the season with a 7-1 record, a conference championship, a sectional championship, and captured second place in the regional. For the seniors, this ended a three year record of 32-2-2, the best three year record of any sport in Chrysler High's history.

Turning out the "best tournament team in the history of Chrysler High," according to Mr. Rhodes, the Trojans began work at the end of last year's season by participating in AAU tournaments and working out constantly throughout the summer.

This vigorous training was a positive factor in their victorious record. The Wolfpack displayed outstanding techniques throughout the season and especially at the conference and sectional matches. The only setback for the Trojans was their first match against Pendleton Heights where they lost 33-24. The Trojans were beaten again at the regional, finishing a close second to the same awesome team.

Several grapplers reaped individual awards during the conference, sectional and regional matches. Conference champs were Joe Stawick, Kent Raines, Pat Cook and John Carnes. Sectional champions were Joe Stawick, JayTaylor, Frank Goertz, Frank Lee, Bob Bunton, Kent Raines, Pat Cook, Scott Raines and John Carnes. Claiming regional championships were Joe Stawick, Pat Cook, and Scott Raines. Both Raines and Stawick finished fine seasons by advancing to the Indiana wrestling state finals and were both defeated in early rounds to very competitive wrestlers.

Girl's swimming took a new turn this year as several records were broken, and a season record was bettered. The combined efforts of first year coach, Cynthia Haggard, and a well-balanced and dedicated team were all that was needed to produce such results.

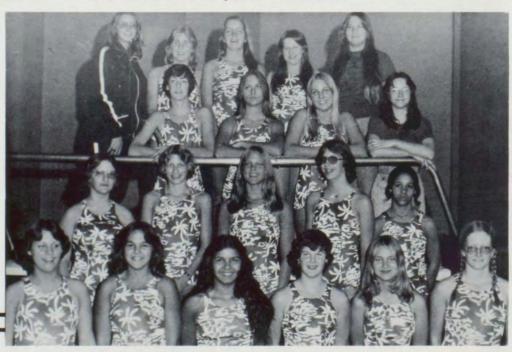

In their fourth meet of the season, the New Castle mermaids encountered an experienced Madison Heights squad. The outcome of this meet was all that was needed to spur them on to more victories. Receiving only three first places and behind by fourteen points at one time, they relied on stubborn determination and scrapped up second and third places — enough to keep them in the bid for the victory. Behind by several points going into the final event, their two relay teams pulled through with a first and third place giving New Castle its first victory of the season.

New Castle swam well in big competition and placed fifth out of eight teams in the Conference, and sixth of thirteen in the Sectional. Their tally of five wins and six losses bettered the previous record of three wins and seven losses.

Perhaps their biggest disappointment was that they sent no one to the state. They now have a goal for next year, which Miss Haggard believes is attainable.

FOUNDATIONS OF SPIRIT

In order for school spirit to prevail, it must first be laid with a good foundation. This foundation was amply provided for by the cheerleaders. The girls employed many different methods in order to raise the greatest amount of support for the Trojan athletes. Varsity cheerleaders were seniors Suzanne Horn, Robbin Edmondson, and Dara Webber, junior Jana Crisp, and sophomore Susan Stawick. Senior Sandy Duggar also served part of the year. Working with the varsity girls was Miss Gloria Castelluccio.

Junior varsity cheerleaders were Angie Fox, Tammy Mason, Cindy Salhberg and Debbie Trainor. Their sponsor was Mrs. Janet Manning.

Assisting in the success of the CHS athletic program were Mr. Frank Kovaleski and Mr. Horace Cook. Mr. Kovaleski was Athletic Director for the school corporation and Mr. Cook took care of all ticket sales.

Track & Tennis Spring Into Action

The highlight of the 1976 track season, coached by Miss Gloria Castelluccio, was the individual records set by various members of the team. Setting records were Susan Heilman, with a jump of 5'2" in the high jump; Jody Wasson, jumping 14'3½ in the long jump; and the combined team of Angie Fox, Tracy Eversole, Charlotte Miller, and Shelly Arnold with a time of 1:57.6 in the 880 yard relay.

Although there were many outstanding individuals, the team finished their tough and competitive season with one win and five losses recorded. The win came in a one point victory over Knightstown.

Coach Janet Manning's strong girls' tennis team completed a fine season, losing only three varsity matches. The team worked diligently in practice sessions preparing for the meets. The combination of this effort and the natural talent of the girls made the 1976 season successful.

Playing varsity singles throughout the year were Carol Davis, Cari Fike, Nancy Stine, Les Hill, and Cathy Coffey. Cathy Coffey, a senior, remained undefeated throughout the year in singles competition. Playing doubles were Missy Maddox, Becky Bronnenberg, Jennifer Hoke, and Jara Masters.

The Unsung Heroes

The memorable onslaught of snow and the unbearable deep freeze experienced this winter displeased two men in particular when they realized the full meaning of the school and other event cancellations. Caught amid the delays were Athletic Director Frank Kovaleski and Assistant Athletic Director Horace Cook. Without the sacrifices made by these two, our athletic program would have floundered and ended with serious consequences.

Mr. Kovaleski, carrying most of the burden, had the task of arranging new sport schedules with other schools and making sure that they didn't conflict with other athletic events. In addition to arranging sports schedules, Kovaleski was in charge of all physical education and recreation in grades one through twelve.

Mr. Cook, serving his twenty-seventh year in the New Castle athletic department, was in charge of ticket sales for all of the sixteen sports throughout the year. He was also in charge of the many minor details of the athletic program such as the hiring of officials, the distribution of awards, and the arranging of transportation and meals for the away events.

Bump Set Spike

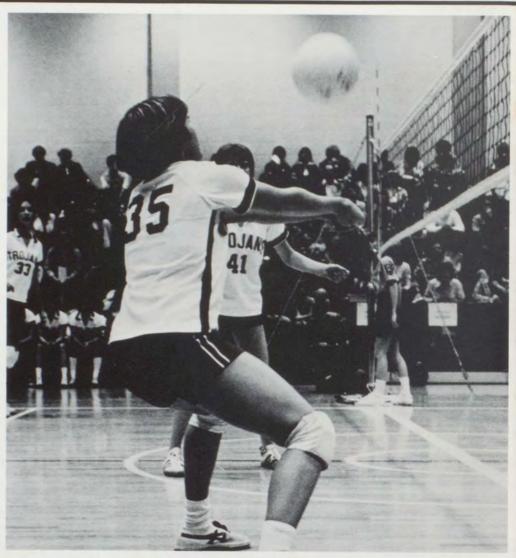

The combination of bump, set, and spike seemed to be the winning elements for the undefeated girls' volleyball team this season. The squad, coached by Mrs. Glenda Gibson, displayed excellent team work and strong use of volleyball skills.

The girls began training in July with an extensive weight lifting and conditioning program. The team attended a workshop held at Purdue University, gaining knowledge on techniques dealing with volleyball and how to use these skills effectively.

Their reward for this hard work was the first undefeated season in New Castle's volleyball history. The team also advanced to sectionals and then to regionals before losing to Wes Del in three tough matches.

As the interest in girls' sports increases, so does the quality of the teams. This was illustrated by the girls' basketball team which turned in an outstanding season and swept their second straight sectional.

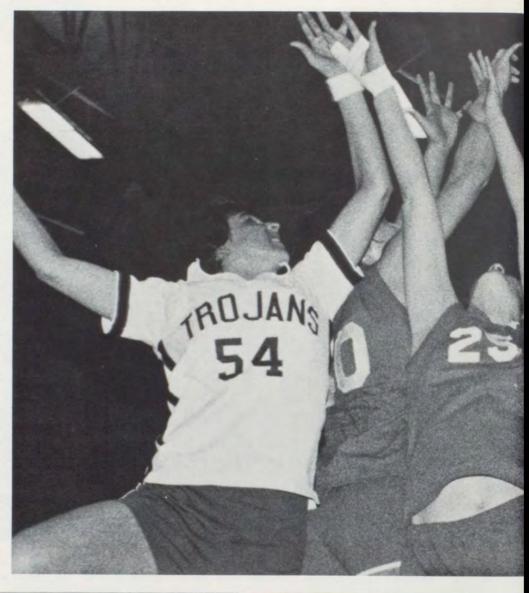

Producing "the best team in five years," Coach Linda Stairs thought that the girls seemed to know more about basketball and had a better understanding of the defensive and offensive plays. This kept the girls up for ever stiffening competition.

As the team went through the season, public interest seemed to awaken, and they watched the girls play several outstanding games such as those against Rushville, Mt. Vernon and Blue River.

The Trojan girls opened the Sectional by downing Tri High 88-22 but had trouble with arch-rival Blue River and won a close one, 43-38. New Castle led all the way against Knightstown in the final and won 51 to 31. The team found bitter disappointment in the first round of the regional as they lost to a rugged Mt. Vernon squad 56 to 33.

The team hopes to produce an outstanding season next year losing only one starter, Janet Price, and three other seniors, Nesa Grider, Lynn Meek, and Julie Fallon.

Talent, depth and experience seemed to be the key words for the girls' gymnastics team this year as they compiled a winning record. The girls, according to Coach Rae Kitchel, were a very well-balanced team led by veteran intermediate and optional teams, with a strong beginning team of mostly freshmen.

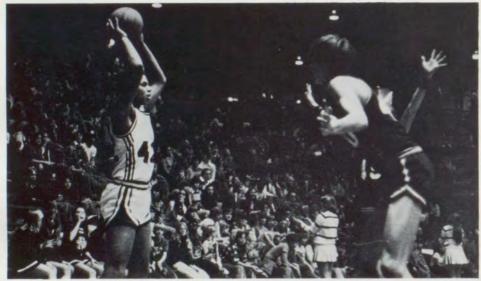

Training for the team began back in October with most of the girls working with weights. Actual practice began in November and seemed to be a crucial factor in the fine winning season.

This training seemed to add a boost of confidence to most girls as they tried more difficult stunts in each of their fields (against stiffer competition.)

The team looks for a bright future as they lose only two seniors, co-captains Shelly Arnold and Suzanne Horn, who led the team all year.

Shooting from the top of the key is junior Tony Guffey.

New Castle's leading scorer, Todd Thalls, surveys the opponent's defense.

Back in October when Head Coach Sam Alford and his assistant Vance Meier viewed prospects for the 1976-1977 basketball team, they kept several things in mind. One was the future of the New Castle basketball program. This constituted one of the reasons why only three seniors made the squad and fostered a front line of two sophomores, two juniors, and one senior.

With senior Todd Thalls as the only returning starter from last year's squad, prospects for at least a respectable record was dim. Expected to win a maximum of five games during the regular season, New Castle was picked to finish at the bottom of the NCC heap.

At first it appeared there might be truth in these expectations. Three-quarters of the way through the season, though, the hustling Trojans gave their supporters a different story. A narrow loss to twelfth-ranked Lafayette Jeff got the team rolling, as Trojan rebounding, shooting, and overall defense were at their peak. Gaining momentum, the Trojans then humiliated the Rushville Lions by an embarrassing 26 points.

Next to fall prey to the gunning Green and White was 19th ranked Anderson. Behind by ten points with four minutes to go, New Castle accomplished one of the greatest upsets in recent Trojan history. Outscoring the Indians 16-2 in those final minutes, they did the impossible to win, 80-76 at Anderson. Last to make the Trojan blacklist were the hapless Kokomo Cats who were downed 70-63, giving New Castle its ninth win of the season.

The reserves, led by Coach Larry Meyer, ended the season with an even 10-10 reord. Leading the Colts in scoring was Kevin Stephens, in rebounding Curt Bell, and in assists David Pfenninger.

In the sectional, New Castle lost to the Knightstown Panthers, 65-61, after downing Shenandoah, 70-56, giving the Trojans a 10-12 record for the second consecutive year. Despite losing leading scorer Todd Thalls, New Castle will retain the four remaining starters along with other outstanding performers from the bench and the reserve team.

ORGANIZATIONS

School traditions are kept by different clubs as they repeat many activities year after year, only to make them better and more memorable.

The organizations help prepare the students in activities for their future life, teaching them to work with other people. Clubs allow students to act, sing, find a job, and to share their talents with others. They have many money-making projects to support their clubs. Participation is the club's key to success. Active participants make the club what it is and what it's known for, throughout the school.

The number one goal of the organizations is to get the students involved to make our high school years fun and to achieve pleasure from our hard work. After all, that is what our high school years are all about.

WE'RE IMPRESSED

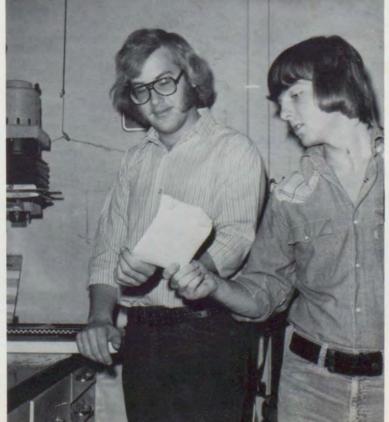

"Wanta buy a Rosey?" This was a question heard often in CHS halls and classrooms during the Rosennial subscription drive which lasted from October 12 to October 22. The subscription drive was kicked off by the annual Rosey Convo which was centered around the theme "Impress Yourself." The convo, a take-off on "Saturday Night Live," included songs, commercials, game shows and skits.

Several staff members started their work in the summer. Four of them attended a yearbook workshop at Ball State. They were Doug Morris and Mary Bir, co-editors; Heather Hastings, layout editor; and Jamie Marcum, photographer. Other members spent the summer selling ads to local businesses and working on senior pictures. The rest of the staff worked throughout the school year on layouts, copy and pictures.

A Christmas dance featuring Steve Mitchell, "Magic Mitch," from Station WNAP was held December 11 in the Girls' Gym. The theme for the dance was "Christmas with the Buzzard." Money making activities included a car wash and a bake sale.

Serving A Purpose

Whether it was Bible Club, Chess Club, FORESCO, or National Honor Society each club had a purpose which was well defined.

BIBLE CLUB

Bible Club highlighted their year with their candlelighting ceremony on December 15. The club also prepared and held a party for club members and their guests on December 8.

CHESS CLUB

With all the members working and putting forth all their effort and time, Chess Club once again turned out with an excellent record. They prepared themselves most of the year for the State Championship in March. Officers were Jeff Cummings, president; Dale Steproe, secretary-treasurer; Bard Crockett, team captain; Mr.

Ronald Grimes, sponsor.

FORESCO

Changing from a large social club to a committee brought new activities for this year's club.

They kept some traditions by having their foreign food sale, and sponsoring of a foreign student. Vinnie Garcia from Costa Rica.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Leadership was the main role for N.H.S. members. The group took on such responsibilties as choosing and decorating the Christmas tree for the East Lobby, keeping information on school happenings on the East Lobby bulletin board, and their Christmas toy drive for children.

In JCL, Latin students participated in various activities relating to the Roman way of life. In October, they had a Halloween party at which they played games concerning Mythology. In March, they had their annual Roman Banquet where students dressed in Roman attire and enjoyed a Roman feast. JCL also presented travelogues and sent their officers to a convention in Terre Haute. Officers for the year were Karen Moore, president; Phil Moore, vice-president; Bruce Winningham, secretary; and Gay Strauch, treasurer.

Sociedad Honoraria Hispanica was an honor society made up of students who excelled in Spanish. To become a member, a student has to receive an "A" average for three consecutive semesters. In October, the SHH had a

In March, they held their annual initiation with a candlelight ceremony and a speaker.

During the first semester, the society consisted of 13 members; more were initiated in the spring. Officers for the year were Carol Davis, president; DeLynda Reese, vice-president; Maria Tabares, secretary; Myreda Rains, treasurer; and Christy Pasman, reporter. Mrs. Agnes Tabares was the sponsor.

Channel 11, Electronics, and Student Action Committee performed services not only for the school but also the community. At the same time, each group had individuality.

CHANNEL 11

Operating the station on television was only a part of Channel 11's tasks. The group also arranged art programs, metric programs and nutrition programs on their station. Leading the crew was Mr. Oliver, sponsor; Shari Brown, president; Greg Brown, vice-president; and Judi Popplewell, secretary-treasurer.

ELECTRONICS

Whether they were taking on responsibilities for the lighting at programs in the auditorium, or working concession stands at the games, the Electronics group kept themselves busy throughout the year.

The club held called meetings, and also met as a class once each day. Officers were Ray Neal, president; Ron Upchurch, vice-president; Jamie Miller, secretary-treasurer; and Mr. Robert Johnson, sponsor.

STUDENT ACTION COMMITTEE

The club's goal was to make changes in the school at students' request, and at the same time get the student body involved.

S.A.C. also planned and held a successful Winter Dance Feb. 19.

The members took a different approach this year by putting a bulletin board up in the main lobby which explained who the members were and what the club was.

Signs of Spirit

Pep Club's purpose was well known around the halls of C. H. S. this past year. They demonstrated all sorts of activities to keep the morale and spirit going in the high school and the community.

Pep Club used their time and effort in regaining spirit by having parties, decorating lockers, sponsoring fan buses to out of town games, wearing Trojan tee-shirts, and having pep sessions. Some of their parties were a pizza party and a Christmas party at Wellivers in Hagerstown. At the end of the year the Pep Club went on a trip to King's Island.

Pep Club raised money and boosted spirit by selling lined, green Trojan jackets. The club members first took orders down in the main lobby before Christmas, and the jackets arrived in February. Pep Club also opened the sales to the Junior High students. The jacket sale was a big success.

Both clubs, Fellowship of Christian Athletes and Wrestling Pep Club had the same goal, to promote enthusiasm and spirit in various sports.

FELLOWSHIP OF CHRISTIAN ATHLETES

F.C.A. meetings were devoted to the discussion of ideas about Christianity as related to sports.

F.C.A. raised money this year by selling firewood.

Last summer, nine boys and five girls were fortuante enough to go to a conference camp. The boys were Herbie Brown, Gale Brumley, Steve Coleman, Jeff Koger, Randy Perdue, Brett Pheffer, Kent Raines, Joe Stawick and Jay Taylor. The girls were Beth Caffoe, Jana Crisp, Lori Freeburg, Leslie Hill and Sue Milasheski. Coach Vance Meier took the boys to Sewanee, Tennessee, while the girls went to Marshall, Indiana.

WRESTLING PEP CLUB

New and original, the wrestling pep club strived to heighten the spirit of the wrestling fans.

To be a member of the club, each student had to attend all home meets and three of the out of town meets. Each member had a green and white hat and handkerchief to take with them to all of the meets.

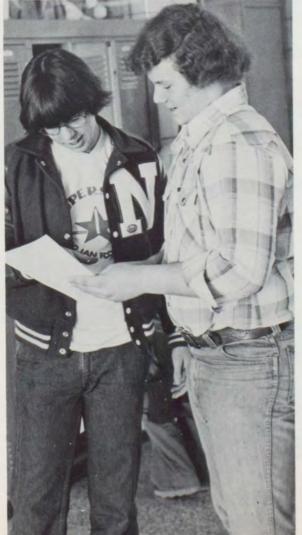

This successful group was led by Coach Lance Rhodes and Beth Miller; Suzanne Horn, Terri Poor and Dara Webber served as senior leaders; Syd Coleman, Sharon Beasley, and Kathy Craig, junior leaders; Patty Thrasher, Missy Maddox and Susan Stawick, sophomore leaders.

Using Talent

Thirty-five CHS students, wishing to show some of their talent as actors or actresses, participated in Thespians this year. Being a member of Thespians, did not necessarily mean that a student would be in a school play. Some members had jobs such as working on costumes, make-up, tickets, props and set crew. Without these the actors wouldn't have been able to do their jobs.

Thespians' first production this year was for Children's Theatre. They traveled to all the elementary schools and to the State Hospital, doing the "Danish Pastry Show," a collection of Hans Christian Anderson stories.

Thespians' fall play this year was "Jabberwock." It was a fictional play concerning the life of James Thurber in his home in Columbus, Ohio. Many members of the cast portrayed several different characters to fill the forty-four parts in the play.

This year Mr. Dick Willis was the director of Thespians. Officers were John Neal, president; Greg Easter, vice-president; Tammy Grimm, secretay; and Eric John, treasurer.

In a scene from "Jabberwock," Mike Page learns that his western hero, John Neal, is a con man. Learning to speak before people is a useful skill which may be learned in high school. National Forensic League members found this to be true through their various experiences. NFL is an honorary debate and speech organization. Members had to earn twenty-five points in interscholastic forensic competition from September to June. Higher degrees, pins, points and ribbons also were won through successful competition.

In the spring of last year, several NFL members had success. Greg Rose placed third in the NFL National Student Congress held at the Air Force Academy in Colorado. Mark Garvin and Eric John won the state novice debate championship and members of New Castle's speech team were the regional champions of the Indiana High School Forensic Association.

There were two coaches for NFL this year, instead of four as in previous years. They were Mr. James Robbins and Mr. Dennis Eller. NFL officers were Jim Renfro, president; Mark Garvin, vice-president; Dawna Norris, secretary; and Brian Shapiro, treasurer. These officers helped plan the annual NFL picnic, the Christmas party, and the initiation of officers in the spring. Money-making projects for this year were selling coupons for a local restaurant, holding a "Free Fare" rock concert and showing films for the public.

CHANGING THE TUNE

Mastering a musical instrument is a difficult and time-consuming task. This year the 93 member band was divided into three groups, much like a college band would be set up. The three groups were the Wind Ensemble, the Varsity Band and the Concert Band. The Wind Ensemble consisted of 49 members who earned this privilege by auditions. The Varsity Band consisted of the other 44 members who could later audition for the Wind Ensemble. The Concert Band was made up of both bands and met each week on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

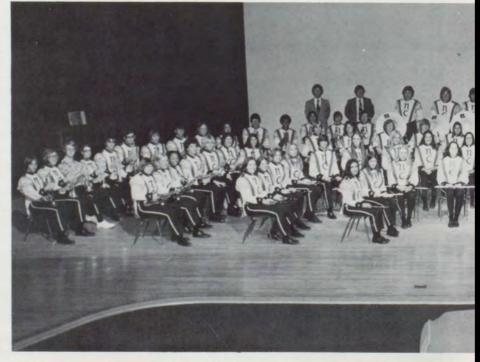

The Jazz Band was new this year and was more of an extra-curricular activity. Members of the Jazz Band were given the chance to play a differ-

They participated in a State Jazz Ensemble contest at Ben Davis and Jazz Festivals at Fort Wayne and Ball State. Both the Jazz Ensemble and the Concert Band were in the All-City Band Festival in New Castle on May 13, 1977.

Officers for the band were Bill Hamilton, president; Bruce Wadman, vice-president; Tammy Grimm, secretary; Terri Poor, treasurer; and Brenda Schuffman, historian. Along with the officers they also had representatives from each class. Laura Patterson was Senior representative; Sydney Coleman, Junior; and Jim Razor, Sophomore. The Chrysler High School Marching Band and Pom Pon and Flag Corp girls entertained with their original routines, colorful uniforms, and excellent music. The band competed in the Indiana State Fair, Delaware Fair, and Winchester Old Timers Fair during the summer.

Performing To Perfection

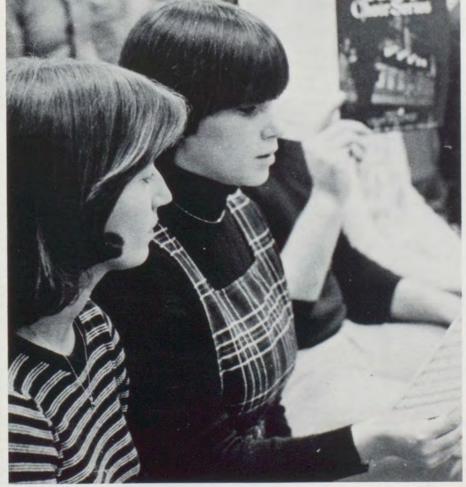

CHS students who participated in Chorale this year were given the opportunity to perform for the public at various times during the school year. By doing this, they were able to show some of their musical talent while learning at the same time. The Chorale presented two concerts in Bundy Auditorium. The first was the Christmas concert in which they did the Pergolesi-Magnificat. The second concert was the Spring Sing in May. The Chorale also went on a concert tour in April, performing for student bodies in area schools. They participated in the solo and ensemble contest at Ball State and the Eastern Indiana District Chorale Festival at Hagerstown. Officers were Jerry Reamer, president; Greg Warner, vicepresident; Joy Lines, secretary; and Becky Bronnenberg, treasurer. Chorale director was Miss Sandra Martz.

The Swing Choir gave students another chance to perform where they could sing light, popular music. It was made up of Chorale members who auditioned to be in the group. The Swing Choir was very active this year and in great demand to provide musical entertainment for organizations in the community. Throughout the year they participated in the Swing Choir contest at Ben Davis High School, and attended an invitational Swing Choir contest in Fort Wayne as observers. They also went on an elementary tour which was not only educational for the elementary students but also served to arouse interest in the vocal music department.

Making decorations for the Christmas concert is the job of Kent Horsman and Karen Alexander.

WE CAN TYPE!

Typing, dictation and shorthand Lisa Killingbeck, reporter-historian. are only three of the many skills learned by Office Education Association members. OEA is a club for students wishing to enter the field of business. Senior OEA members are enrolled in either Intensive Office Laboratory (IOL) or Cooperative Office Education (COE).

IOL is made up of a group of vocational students who work in the school each afternoon instead of going out into the community. At school, they do work for the school staff and local businesses. In December, many students had a chance to work in a real business office for a five day extended field trip. IOL officers attended leadership conferences at Hagerstown and North Central High School. Other activities included a candle sale and a field trip to Ball Corporation in Muncie. They also had a party at the Children's Home in Knightstown for their civic project. In May, they had a luncheon for the advisory committee at which they named the "IOL Employee of the Year." This year's officers were Becky Modlin, president; Shirlee Wood, vice-president; Cheryl Boyd, secretary; Sally Bates, treasurer; and

COE members were employed by various businesses to learn office skills used in accounting, secretarial and general clerical occupations. As a money-making project they managed a concession stand at the home basketball games. This money was used to finance the Employer - Employee Banquet held on May 18. COE officers for the year were Brenda Lorton, president; Joyce Browning, vicepresident; Rachel Cook, secretary; Trillis Brenneman, treasurer; Karen Benson, historian; and Gina Alspaugh, parliamentarian.

OEA participated in the Regional, State and National contests. The Regional contest was held at New Castle this year for the second time. As a community service project, they helped in the collection of the Henry County United Fund here at CHS. Other activities included a regional skating party and the vocational candy sale. There were also Sophomore and Junior associate members who were trained in office skills after school. Club sponsors were Mrs. Carolyn Todd and Mr. Cecil Powell.

IOL members have their own room set up like a real business office.

VICA Offers Variety

Active participation in the community highlighted the VICA "C" year. With their donation of blood to the sick, they provided a worth-while service.

In their related training class, they developed skills in the areas of human relations, interviews, jobs, managing money with a real savings account and various other activities.

During the year, VICA "C" had many guest speakers who discussed banking, law, real estate, and free enterprise.

They were active with their selling of candy, field trips, state elections, and their regional, state, and national skill contests.

To become a member of VICA "C", a student must first be enrolled in the Industrial Cooperative Training class.

Officers in this year's VICA "C" were Tony Broyles, president; Gareld Shipley, vice-president; Kevin Piper, treasurer; Scott Sharp, reporter; Tim Loveless, secretary; and Mr. Don Geozeff, sponsor.

DECA MOVES AHEAD

Whether it was preparing for contests or working concession stands at the football and basketball games, the Distributive Education Club was using their time in many activities.

Activities highlighting the D.E.C.A. year were students working on-the-job, district election at Ball State University in October, leadership conference in September, district, state and national contests and election officers. D.E.C.A. also prepared and had a Christmas party in Knightstown at the Soldiers and Sailors Home.

Officers for the D.E.C.A. Club were Greg Warren, president; David Wells, vice-president; Marjorie Carrow, secretary; Debbie Perdue, treasurer; Eddie Chriswell, public relations; and Mr. Leonard Smith, sponsor.

Building A Career

Whether working with machines or building a house, VICA "D" members can gain valuable experience in the area of work they plan to enter after high school. VICA "D" was divided into two groups this year. The first was Machine Shop and Welding, the second was Building Trades.

The Machine Shop and Welding group made a utility trailer which was sold at the end of the year as a money making project. They also went on field trips to local industries and invited several speakers from these industries to speak at their meetings. To encourage parent involvement, they had parents of VICA "D" members come and demonstrate machines which were used in their fields.

This was the fourth year for the Building Trades group to build a house. This year's house was built on Earlham Ave. across from the one built last year. Students from Tri High, Union, Knightstown and Chrysler High Schools met together to build the ten room house which was put up for sale at the end of the year. Through building this house, students gained experience in laying concrete blocks, wiring, plumbing, painting, wallpapering, drywall finishing, and carpentry.

LEARNING BY DOING

Home Economics Related Occupations was a course, a club and On-the-Job experience. HERO for short had something for everyone — fellows as well as girls.

The class taught skills and principles to prepare members to get a job, maintain a job and advance on the job in food service, clothing, child care and housekeeping.

The HERO program offered organized club activities that helped develop leadership and responsibility and provide for social and educational values. Early in the fall the following club officers were elected: James Ward, president; Jay Ewing, vicepresident; Jana Retz, secretary; Teresa Evans, treasurer; and Kimberly Norris, historian.

A few of the year's activities were ushering at the Achievement Day Convocation, their annual initiation, installing the catering class, serving refreshments at the Area Vocational School Open House for parents and friends, and managing the concession stand for the elementary track meets. They also were active in a number of community projects. The group took various field trips to learn more about their own careers. Between Thanksgiving and Christmas, the HERO members sold candy to finance the Employer — Employee Thank You Banquet.

The Health Occupations Club was a service oriented group of young people who were interested in pursuing health occupation careers.

The club met the first Wednesday of every month. In the past, the group known as the H. O.'s have helped conduct workshops for the American Cancer Society. This year, members of the club helped the Public Health Nursing Staff with the mass innoculations of flu shots.

This school year was filled with many firsts — first state election of Indiana Health Occupations Youth Organization (Twyla Appleby of CHS was elected State Parliamentarian) — first national election of the National Health Occupations Youth Organization at Arlington, Texas.

Club activities included two field trips: one to Riley Children's Hospital in Indianapolis and one to Chicago to the Museum of Science and Industry, and two parties: a Christmas Party and a trip to King's Island.

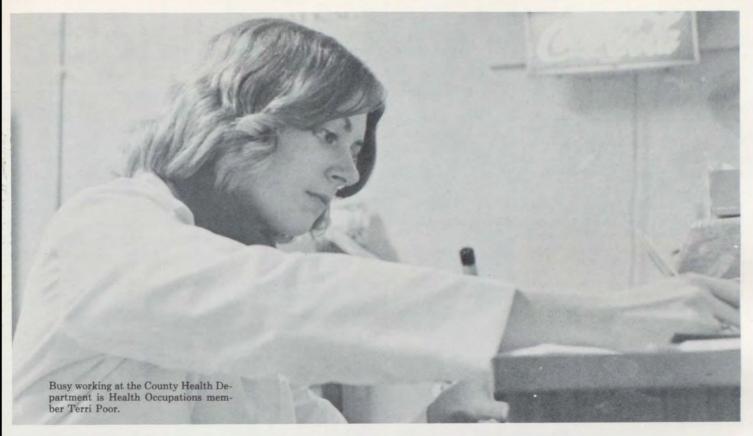

The year's activities were climaxed by the presentation of the Employers — Employees Banquet in May. Officers for the year were April Farley, president; Glenn Griggs, vicepresident; Marcia Goodin, secretary; Terri Poor, treasurer; Judith Huffman, historian; and Brian Hoke, parliamentarian.

Ready and Willing to

CATERING CLUB

Cookies, brownies and breads were some of the foods prepared by the CHS Catering Club. This group of students met as a class for one hour every day and often worked after school and in the morning before school. They made food for club parties and also prepared the annual Christmas breakfast. Officers were Scott Raines, president; Ray Caywood, vice-president; Cathy Crabtree, secretary; and Mark Boatright, treasurer.

PRE-VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

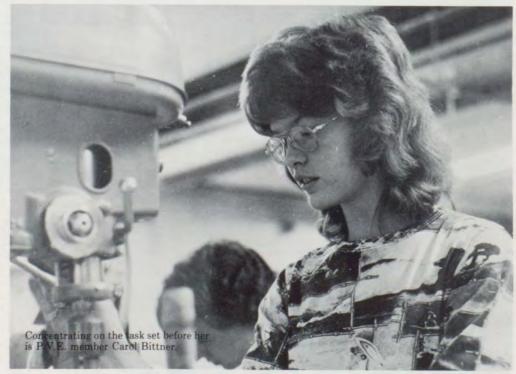

Gaining experience for later in life is one of the most important parts of high school, and that was the purpose of Pre-Vocational Education. In their class, students learned how to get a job and how to keep it. The students also were aided in looking into different occupations which might be of interest to them.

On December 14, 15, and 16, the PVE group set up their own company and made wall candles which were sold at the end of the three days. Officers for PVE were Larry Dickey, president; Charlie Williams, vicepresident; Patty Burlton, secretary; and Becky Dumford, treasurer. The sponsor was Mr. Bob Hobbs.

STUDENT SERVICE

Student Services, what is it: This was what many people wondered at the beginning of the year but they soon found an answer. Student Services gave students the chance to help others along with learning about themselves and the society in which they live. They started in the summer by going to Whitewater State Park during the weekend of July 16 for a training session. They continued working throughout the year aiding students who were having difficulties. Members of Student Services helped others by working in the probation office and tutoring students at Parkview. They also went to the Parkview study halls and had discussions with ninth graders about entering high school. Their main job, however, was to help anyone who needed them.

STUDENTS

Students . . . the name for all those involved in Chrysler High's educational process. Students made up the bulk of the school and they were its strength. Faces crowded the halls everywhere. Students were joyous, disappointed, depressed, upset, and rowdy. Although we didn't know everyone we met in the halls, we felt a certain kinship. Students enjoyed doing a variety of things during the school year. We sang in Chorale, participated in sports, went on half-days, portrayed a character in a play, formed a student government, or just came to school to learn. In general, students had a good time while learning as much as they could and working towards graduation.

School ends and the fun begins for Debbie Moore, Kim Denny, and Lillie Nunn.

People become students by being in classrooms. Tim Webb, Lisa Stackhouse, and Richard Williams fill the requirement.

This school year was a year of transition as well as tradition. The senior class of 1977 had to face some old problems and accept new responsibilities.

With the arrival of the new year came many changes in our school system. The idea of flexible scheduling was cancelled and hourly classes, or periods, took its place. The students' list of privileges was re-arranged and what used to be a relaxation area for seniors was proposed as a student commons.

Many students of the class of 1977 rejected the idea, and with the election of senior class officers, set about to change it. With the help of Mr. Lehr and Mr. Kinnett, president Doug Morris, vice-president Bruce Wadman, secretary Paula Whiles and treasurer Terri Poor made it possible to again have a senior commons.

Going back to tradition was just one step towards maturity for us, and we can feel certain that this is one year that won't soon be forgotten.

JUNIORS made KNOWN

The 1976-77 Junior Class was headed by Kent Raines after a spirited election in the early fall. The other officers were Brian Covey, vice-president; Sydney Coleman, secretary; and Mike Schwinn, treasurer. These officers led in planning a Prom which highlighted the spring season.

Many groups and individuals made their mark as outstanding Juniors. Members of this class helped to win a seventh place trophy in the State Marching Band Contest, an All-Conference Championship title in football and wrestling as well as many other individual awards.

These awards, many of which involved extra-curricular activities, also showed scholastic achievements and resulted from hard work.

As the year progressed, Juniors began to plan for the future with college or careers in mind. They took the S.A.T. test and arranged their senior schedules, well prepared to lead CHS next year.

Students gather in the Fieldhouse to receive information about the college of their choice.

SOPHS get fresh start

The class of 1979 started this school year with mixed feelings about the coming years at Chrysler High School. They soon gained confidence, however, and took the role of underclassmen in full stride. Led by class officers Tom Thalls, president; Patty Thrasher, vice-president; Mary Beth Rose, treasurer; and Susan Stawick, secretary, this class made many contributions to the success of the 1976-77 school year at Chrysler High.

Although they were the new members of their teams, many sophomores competed at the varsity level in their sports and helped lead their teams to outstanding seasons. Other sophomores helped the debate and speech teams to good seasons, and members of Thespians aided in play productions. All in all, this Sophomore class made this a year to remember.

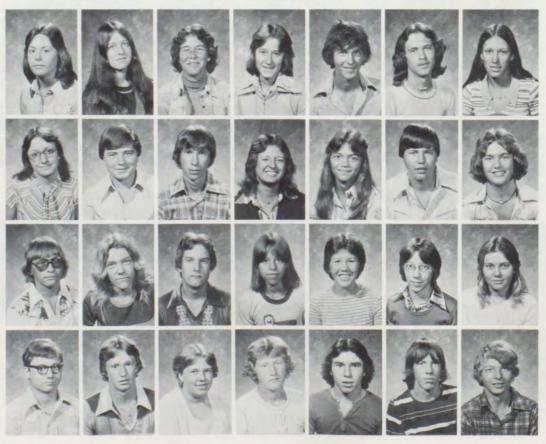

tentrating on typing assignments are Trina its and Kevin Pasman.

On your mark, get set, go. Cindy Sahlberg times a science experiment.

Decorating for the annual Christmas buffett are S.A.C. members Mary Beth Rose, Susan Stawick, and Tom Thalls.

The green stuff itself is unveiled. Donna Givens and Belinda Dennis are amazed finding another dollar to spend.

93¢, 94¢ ... 95¢, 96¢ stop! Charles Williams tries not to cheat the state but still get his money's worth.

Students are the consumers outside of school. They purchase food, clothes, cars, and books for themselves. Flowers for dances and tickets to the movie are bought for dates. How much does the high school student today spend in one year?

Rough estimates show that the average student spends $5.00 a week during the school year. In the summer, the average rises to $10.00. Take both figures by the number of students at CHS (1250). The final figure is over $425,000.

Other items such as clothes, food, and school supplies will be purchased by parents for student use. Across the nation, students are building up their power in the open market. They have formed their own tradition by making the producers aware of their own needs in today's society.

TODAY'S EVENTS TOMOBBOW'S TRADITIONS

As the year comes to a close, students will look back and reflect over the past year and what the future will bring. For some it will be college or summer school, for others it will be vacationing in exciting places, beginning their working careers or just plain relaxing.

Nearly everything involving students and the school was based on tradition or the hope of starting new traditions. Seniors followed the traditional guidelines for graduation. They purchased senior keys, announcements and caps and gowns. Commons was once again a "senior only" area. Seniors looked forward to being "on their own."

Juniors tried to better themselves in order to be ready to take over the role of being seniors next year. The added strength and support to many teams and organizations.

The sophomores worked hard to establish a name for themselves and to prove themselves ready for high school. They showed they were talented and had outstanding athletic abilities. All three classes cooperated together to bring about success and victory from sports events to play productions.

New traditions were started as we captured the NCC Wrestling Crown for the first time in CHS history. We also won the NCC football championship for the first time in 38 years and proceeded to the semi-state play-offs. The girls' basketball team won their sectional and the girls' volleyball team had an undefeated season. Nearly all sports teams set outstanding records. Thespians produced four spectacular plays. All clubs and organizations in C.H.S. strived for a successful as well as stimulating year. Students will remember this year for many reasons such as our eight day "snow" vacation, our new superintendent, and going back to traditional scheduling, All things considered, it's been a traditionally great year!

The bells follow the clock, sounding off to the start of class. The students will pass through the day as if it were a year. But soon the 3:00 bell will ring for the last hour of school ever., That is when each person will realize how important the tradition of high school is. They will no longer be a part of it, but only a memory of it.
